Bullishness Develops in Such Shares as Radio and Several Amusements Which Spurt.

BROKERS LOANS UP $148,000,000

Market Irregular Under Influence of Selling Inspired by Big Increase in Exchange Member Loans.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 3.—The bull market in stocks took on a vigorous new lease of life today after a series of selling attacks, based largely on the sharp increase of nearly half a billion dollars in Stock Exchange member loans, had fallen flat. "Bears" traders, who have been selling stock heavily in the last few days on the theory that a general reaction was overdue, were driven to cover by the bullishness which developed in such stocks as Radio, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, Fox Film and General Theaters Equipment, which were whirled up 2 to nearly 7 points to new high records for the year.

Loans Up $148,000,000.

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending April 2, were announced by the Federal Reserve Board, after close of market, as $3,968,000,000, representing an increase of $148,000,000 as compared with the preceding week. Analysis of the report shows loans for own account increased $122,000,000; loans for account of out-of-town banks decreased $14,000,000 and loans for account of others increased $38,000,000.

Radio Corporation common, in which several blocks of 5000 to 12,000 shares changed hands, crossed 60 to a new high for the year and then eased to 59½ for a net gain of 2⅜ points. Radio-Keith-Orpheum closed 2⅝ points higher at 40⅛ after having sold slightly above that figure. American Telephone converted an early decline of 3¼ points into a net gain of 3½ points. Columbia Graphophone advanced 2⅜ to 31⅛, or within a fraction of the year's high.

Big Turnover Late.

Trading, which had slowed up in the early decline, was conducted at a vigorous pace in the last hour when nearly 1,500,000 shares changed hands to bring the day's total to above 4,600,000 shares.

Not all of the stocks which sold off in the morning reaction made full recovery as final quotations disclosed a fairly large number of net declines. American Can recovered less than half of its early loss of three points. Westinghouse Electric showed a net decline of 2⅜, while United Aircraft and a number of other leaders lost a point or more.

The action of the market took many traders by surprise as there was a rather general feeling in Wall street that the reaction, which started yesterday afternoon would continue much farther before it was checked. In fact, a few of the large commission houses advised their customers to get out of their speculative holdings on the theory that the peak of the spring rally had been reached.

Rally in Wheat.

Wheat rallied 2½ to nearly 5 cents a bushel on reports of dry weather in parts of the Southwest, and reports of large export sales. Corn closed 1½ to 2 cents a bushel higher. Cotton, after an early period of heaviness, rallied about $1 a bale.

Call money held steady at 4 per cent all day with only a moderate calling of loans reported. There were no changes in time money and commercial paper rates. The New York Federal Reserve Bank made no change in its 3½ per cent rediscount rate.

Stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on Pages 11C, 12C and 13C.

Bridle Path to Be Moved, Walks Constructed and Monument Drive Eliminated in Commissioner's Plans.

Plans for the rehabilitation of that section of Forest Park adjoining Lindell boulevard, between Union boulevard and De Baliviere avenue, which was laid waste by the construction of the River des Peres sewer, were announced today by Park Commissioner Pape.

The work to be done by Park Department employes, includes the planting of 4900 shrubs and trees, as well as the landscaping of the area, following sketches prepared by Harland Bartholomew, engineer of the city Plan Commission. No major reconstruction work is planned.

Planting, to begin immediately, will include 4722 shrubs, 61 trees of the small type, 31 trees of the large type and 100 evergreens. The bridle path which formerly skirted Lindell boulevard, will be moved to wind through the shrubbery. Walks will be constructed through the area with the thought that traffic will be hidden from the view when vegetation has attained its growth.

Monument drive, which formerly connected Grand drive with Lindell boulevard, midway in the section, will be eliminated in the rehabilitation and the roa dbehind the Lindell pavilion will be converted into a parking area 100 feet wide and 150 feet long.

The road, which curves around Jefferson Memorial on the west, will be changed slightly and repaved to make it identical in design with the road to the east. North of the Memorial, the Park Department has taken condemnation measures to acquire additional land on both sides of De Baliviere avenue to build a more impressive approach. DeBaliviere avenue, south of the Wabash tracks, now 100 feet wide, will become a broader thoroughfare, with two 150-foot roadways and a parking space for automobiles in the center.

Commissioner Pape is unable at this time to estimate the cost of the improvement. Rehabilitation west of DeBaliviere will await the completion of sewer work in that area.

GANDHI URGES MASS DEFIANCE OF SALT LAW

Through His Newspaper Calls for General Action by Followers Sunday.

By the Associated Press.

BOMBAY, India, April 3.—Mahatma Gandhi, through his newspaper, Young India, today authorized the starting of mass disobedience of the salt laws on Sunday.

DHAMAN, India, April 3.—Mahatma Gandhi, Indian nationalist leader who has been on his civil disobedience march with his band of followers for several weeks, arrived here today.

It appeared that the long tramp has greatly benefited Gandhi's health. He has gained two pounds in weight since starting the march. He expects to reach Dandi, on the Gulf of Cambay, Saturday. There he intends to make salt in defiance of law.

NEW DELHI, India, April 3.—Nine Nationalists are resigning their seats in the Legislative Assembly, following the passage of the imperial preference provision in the tariff bill, which carries a 5 per cent preference on certain lines of Lancashire cotton goods. The resignations include that of Pandit Malaviya, party leader, who has sent a long letter to Lord Irwin, Viceroy, saying he was interrupting a quarter of a century's participation in constitutional activities of the Legislature because of his conviction the Government is not prepared to carry even the present reforms in their true spirit.

HOOVER'S WEEK - END TRIP

Going to Virginia Camp for First Time This Year.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—President Hoover plans to make his first week-end trip of the year to his summer camp on the headwaters of the Rapidan in Virginia this week. The plans contemplate that the presidential party will leave Washington Friday afternoon to return Sunday afternoon.

The party will include Mrs. Hoover, Attorney-General Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell, Secretary Wilbur, Secretary Lamont and Mrs. Lamont, Representative Fort of New Jersey and Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries. The chief executive plans to fish on Saturday, the season having opened on April 1.

LILA JIMERSON PLEADS GUILTY IN HOSPITAL

Indian Woman, Ill, Admits Responsibility for Death of Artist's Wife.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 3.—Lila Jimerson, 35-year-old Cayuga Indian, in a hospital room, which temporarily became a court, pleaded guilty this afternoon to a reduced charge of murder, second degree, in the killing of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, wife of Henri Marchand, museum painter and sculptor.

Judge F. Bret Thorn, who yesterday declared her case a mistrial, District Attorney Guy B. Moore, a court clerk and a stenographer went to the City Hospital where the woman has been since her trial was terminated abruptly Tuesday by her sudden illness. She is a sufferer from tuberculosis.

Lila was said to have determined upon her action despite objections by relatives and other members of her tribe.

Sentence was not pronounced, the woman being remanded to the custody of the Erie County Sheriff, who will be responsible for her guard while she is undergoing treatments at the Buffalo City Hospital.

Dr. Walter S. Goodale, superintendent of the hospital, said: "She'll be sentenced after I get through with her."

In mid-afternoon of March 6, Mrs. Marchand, mother of five children and the wife of an artist famous for his Indian museum groups, was found dead in her home by her 12-year-old son, Henri Jr. Her head had been battered with a heavy weapon. The direct cause of death, a coroner found, was suffocation caused by a wad of chloroformed paper crammed into her throat.

Police arrested in their home on the Cattaraugus reservation, south of the city, Miss Jimerson and Nancy Bowen, 66-year-old Cayuga. They procured statements from both women. Nancy admitted she she believed had caused the death, by sorcery, of Nancy's husband, had slain a woman known to her as "Clotilde Brown," a witch, who Sassafras Charlie Bowen.

Both women were charged with murder, first degree, and the husband of the victim, Marchand, held as a material witness.

The State alleged Lila induced Nancy to kill Mrs. Marchand so she could become the wife of the artist. She had been intimate with him.

RASKOB GAVE WETS $64,500 IN 3 YEARS, RECORD SHOWS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Senator Robinson (Rep.), Indiana, said today he had obtained records from the House of Representatives which showed that Chairman Raskob of the Democratic National Committee had contributed $64,500 to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment during the last three years.

Raskob has been called for questioning tomorrow by the Senate lobby committee concerning his relation with the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. He was summoned at the suggestion of Senator Robinson.

The report made by the association to the House of Representatives, which is required by law, showed, Robinson said, that Raskob had contributed $17,000 in 1928, $30,000 in 1929 and $17,500 thus far this year.

PROGRESS MADE IN NEGOTIATIONS ON SECURITY PACT

AMERICANS TAKING PART IN PARLEYS

U. S. and Britain Accept Japan's Reservations and Three Nations Now Are in Complete Accord.

By CHARLES G. ROSS
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1930, by the Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, April 3.—The decision taken by the naval conference delegation heads to postpone the plenary session set for tomorrow is generally regarded as a hopeful sign rather than otherwise. The purpose of the postponement is as stated in an official communique, namely, to permit Anglo-French negotiations to proceed without interruption.

The draft formula for reconciliation of conflicting French and British positions on the French security question was again under consideration. An opinion receivedd from Premier Tardieu in Paris neither accepted nor rejected the formula but suggested certain modifications. Foreign Ministers Briand and Henderson were expected to continue conversations today.

A long visit of Briand to American headquarters this morning indicated that our delegates, while nominally in the role of bystanders, are in fact not wholly dissociated from the Franco-British parleys. Briand conferred with Secretary Stimson and Ambassador Morrow an hour and a half, and when Stimson left to attend a meeting at St. James's Palace, the French Foreign Minister remained for an additional half hour with Morrow. The American spokesman announced later that conversations had to do with the Franco-British hunt for a formula and that the proposed consultative pact was not brought in.

Three-Power Naval Pact at Least Considered Assured.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 3.—After 10 weeks of negotiations the naval conference this afternoon was recorded in American, British and Japanese circles as having achieved great success. This position was reached after a conference this morning wherein the Americans and British accepted the Japanese Government's reservations to the American-British naval proposals. Thus was assured at least a powerful three-power agreement as an outcome of the conference even if France and Italy cannot participate.

Only details on Japanese reservations on scrapping and replacing of ships to keep dockyards working remain to be settled. It was said there would be no factor of difficulty in the reservations.

A Japanese statement emphasized what is regarded as the principal reservation, that such a treaty as is reached here will extend for five years only, and that, after 1936, they may restate their demand for a 70 per cent ratio in large cruisers.

Senator Reed's Statement.

Senator Reed, who is credited by his colleagues with having been instrumental in solving the American, British and Japanese problem, made the following statement to newspaper men after the meeting at St. James's Palace:

"I cannot too strongly impress on you the fine spirit in which the Japanese and British have met us. There was no disposition to quibble on the part of any one of the three delegations.

"All three delegations have been frank and fair. I cannot imagine more pleasant negotiations than these have been. The result was not a victory for any one, but an honorable and reasonable settlement between the three."

Subcommittee on Tonnage.

At the conclusion of the meeting the three delegation chiefs appointed the following subcommittee: Admiral W. V. Pratt and Capt. Alexander Van Kueren, representing the United States; Admiral Fisher and Capt. Bellairs, for Great Britain, and Admiral Abo and Capt. Toyoda, for Japan. This subcommittee will study the amount of tonnage which would normally be laid down in Japanese yards under the Reed-Matsudaira agreement

WETS LEAD IN DRY LAW POLL IN FORD'S TOWN

Vote at Dearborn for Modification Also Exceeds That for Enforcement.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Dearborn, Mich., the town that Henry Ford built, is included in the latest tabulation of municipalities in the Literary Digest prohibition poll. Its vote for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and its vote for modification of the Volstead law, are separately larger than its vote for enforcement of prohibition. Pittsburg, Pa., the largest city listed in this group, shows a majority for repeal, and a vote of 3½ to 1 for the two wet proposals, repeal and modification, as compared with enforcement. Franklin, Pa., and Whittier, Cal., shows majorities for enforcement. The list is:

City.	Enf.	Mod.	Repl.
Dearborn, Mich.	143	201	234
Jamestown, N. Y.	303	520	659
Olean, N. Y.	237	317	417
Franklin, Pa.	258	75	112
Oil City, Pa.	299	130	205
Pittsburg, Pa.	4368	5244	11,139
Tallahassee, Fla.	145	164	219
Richmond, Cal.	91	134	181
Whittier, Cal.	336	112	61
Newcastle, Pa.	619	311	372
Springfield, Mass.	1437	1661	3784
Dallas, Tex.	1766	687	1254
Houston, Tex.	1081	1849	1033

Of 143 municipalities listed thus far, 127 have shown a majority of wet and "moist" votes, and 16 a dry majority.

TRYING TO CURB OIL GUSHER WITH A 3000-POUND CAP

Workers Get Specially Built Covering to Stop Flow Unchecked for 9 Days.

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 3.—Oil workers, groping amid tons of falling petroleum, today were fitting a 3000-pound cap, on an oil gusher.

Spreading oil over the countryside for miles, the well, for nine days has saturated the South Oklahoma City field. Because of the danger of fire, C. R. O'Neil, State fire marshal, yesterday created a fire hazard zone for two miles about the well.

The mammoth steel cap was built by engineers especially for the well which ripped out casings and connections by the force of its gas flow of 200,000,000 cubic feet a day. It is a master gate, equipped with special connections which will permit it to be anchored, once it is settled over the top of the casing.

ELDORADO, Ark., April 3.—A three-inch cannon was used by firemen last night in an effort to extinguish a fire in a 55,000-barrel oil tank of the Magnolia Petroleum Co., ignited by lightning. The fire threatened 25 other oil-filled tanks on the farm.

Five holes were blown in the metal tank by the cannon to drain the oil into earthen pits. Thus it was hoped to prevent the oil from boiling over the tank and setting fire to adjacent oil storage basins. Company officers estimated the loss at $80,000.

PEOPLES BUS CO. RESUMES SERVICE ON ALL LINES

Following an interruption of 20 days, due to the strike of 750 employes, service was resumed by the Peoples Motorbus Co. this morning on all lines. Busses were cleaned and otherwise prepared for operation by shop employes, who reported for work yesterday.

The strike ended Tuesday night when the strikers accepted a two-year working agreement under which their union, Local 990, is recognized by the company. The agreement provides for no change in wages at present, but contains a clause under which the union may request a wage conference if earnings appear to justify an increase.

ACCOUNTS SHORT $457,213; COTTON BROKER SURRENDERS

BOSTON, Mass., April 3.—George A. Rivinius, Winchester, Boston representative of the firm of George H. McFadden, Philadelphia cotton merchants, walked into Milk Street Police Station today and said he was short $457,213 in his accounts.

Rivinius, 45 years old, prominent socially and father of four children, blamed stock market losses for his predicament, police said. They declared he told them he had obtained $257,213 from the Atlantic National Bank by means of forged bills of lading while the rest of the loss was sustained by the McFadden Co. through his manipulation of warehouse receipts.

Police said Rivinius declared he wanted to be locked up because he was "afraid of what he might do." They said the Atlantic Bank confirmed the fact that it held a draft against Rivinius for the amount he admitted was due to that depository.

WOMAN LIKELY TO BE QUESTIONED IN DIPLOMAT'S DEATH

Person Prominent in Social World Said to Have Visited Basil Miles Shortly Before He Died.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—A report that a woman of high social standing in Washington had visited Basil Miles, diplomat and economist, shortly before he died, June 14, 1928, arose yesterday in the investigation the Department of Justice is making into the circumstances of his death.

The woman, who probably will be called for questioning, is said to have left the room shortly before Miles' wife entered it. His wife is said to have been in the room when he died. Mrs. Miles now is the wife of Col. Henry H. Rogers, oil multimillionaire.

Assistant District Attorney Burkinshaw, who is directing the investigation, is said to be considering having the body of Miles exhumed. Doubt is expressed, however, whether an examination would show anything that would aid materially in the investigation.

Attracted by Woman's Screams.

Miles was operated on by a prominent surgeon, June 4 and 10 days later had so far recovered that his physician left Washington. While the resident physician at the hospital was attending another patient that afternoon he was attracted to the corridor by a woman's scream. Mrs. Miles told him her husband was dying.

When the physician reached the room Miles was dead. The death was attributed to pulmonary embolism, or a blood clot on the lung. Just before he died Miles drank a highball and rumors that it might have contained poison are reported to have been one of the factors leading to the present inquiry. This suggestion, however, has been discredited by physicians and attendants at the hospital where Miles died and members of his family incline to the belief that he died from natural causes. He was buried at Murray Hill Cemetery in Philadelphia.

Miles was born in Philadelphia in 1877, and began his work with the Government in 1905 as a secretary to the American Embassy in Russia. Later he was associated with the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and in 1917 accompanied the Root mission to Russia. Subsequently, he took over the Department of Russian Affairs in the State Department. He married Mrs. Margaret Peabody Savell in Europe in 1925 after she and her first husband had separated.

Dr. Edward J. Grass, the physician who was first to reach Miles after he died, has been questioned by Burkinshaw and an agent for the Department of Justice.

Mrs. M. G. Nash, the nurse who was attending Miles, is said not to

CLOSES THE MAILS TO PAYROLL MONEY FOR GRANITE CITY

Postoffice Department Bars Large Shipments to First National Bank There "In Danger Zone."

Mail shipments of large quantities of currency to the Granite City National Bank will be discontinued May 1 under an order from the Postoffice Department at Washington which has held that Granite City is a "zone of danger."

Officers of the bank, which has used the mails to obtain payroll funds for steel mills from the Federal Reserve Bank in St. Louis, are indignant at the order, having refused to adopt the use of armored cars which is the method of money transmission used by other banks in the Tri-Cities district of Madison County.

The order was sent by F. A. Tilton, Third Assistant Postmaster General at Washington, who had carried on an extensive correspondence with the bank since Feb. 21, when Mrs. Mamie Eisenmeyer, Postmaster at Granite City, suggested that the shipments be stopped. The day that Charles W. Pershall, Granite City grocer, was released by extortionists who obtained $40,000 ransom from his family, Mrs. Eisenmeyer wrote to Washington that the city had only one day policeman and in her opinion was a "zone of danger."

During the ensuing correspondence, the bank denied that Granite City was dangerous and pointed out that it had 13 day policemen. In a letter to the Federal Reserve Bank in St. Louis, which had suggested armored cars, Joseph G. Boggs, president of the bank, said:

"We just cannot bring ourselves to believe it possible that our Government will let a few bad boys scare it out of business. We, of course, could move our bank to Nicaragua and then if the bad boys stole a postcard, the Government would send an army to protect us."

However, Tilton sent a formal order to Postmaster Michener in St. Louis that money shipments be discontinued May 1 "until adequate police protection is available."

The bank hopes to have the order rescinded before then.

TWO KILLED IN 2000-FOOT LEAP FROM BURNING PLANE

By the Associated Press.

TULSA, Ok., April 3.—Two men leaped 2000 feet to death from a burning airplane near the Collier Airport, east of here, this afternoon. They were Louis Chippin, Tulsa, service foreman at the field, and Joseph Bryant, Claremore, Ok., a visiting flyer.

HIS STORY ALMOST ACCEPTED BUT HE TALKED TOO MUCH

Bentonville, Ark., Sheriff 'Knocked Cold as Wedge' When Dr. A. J. Bass Said He Removed Operation Scar for Murder Victim.

SLAIN MAN WORE WIG, WOMAN SAYS

W. R. Pearman, Columbia, Mo., Also Shaved Off Mustache and Told of Effort to Collect $200,000 in "Big Land Deal."

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BENTONVILLE, Ark., April 3.—How Dr. A. J. Bass, a retired dentist of Columbia, Mo., talked himself into being charged with the murder of William Robert Pearman, Columbia automobile mechanic, was told today by Sheriff Edgar Fields.

Dr. Bass, who has refused to make a statement since his arrest Monday, is being held without bond pending a grand jury investigation of what the State charges was a carefully laid plot to collect $200,000 life insurance which Pearman carried, payable to his estate and assigned to the dentist.

It had been assumed that the dead man was William Folta, missing Martinsburg (Mo.) resident, because of papers found on the body, when Dr. Bass appeared here and said to Sheriff Fields, "That looks like William Folta."

Identification Card.

"I told him," Fields recalled, "that the dead man probably was Folta, because he had an identification card in his wallet, saying he was William Folta of the Huckins Hotel, Texarkana, Ark. Then Bass went on and talked himself right into jail.

"He said he was a scientific man and kept talking about the science of medicine and the wonders performed by science. He said that Folta had had an operation for appendicitis and that he had had the scar removed with an electric needle. Well, I examined the body myself and I didn't see even the faintest trace of a scar. When he said that it knocked me cold as a wedge.

"I sorta whispered to one of my deputies, 'This fellow is too scientific and talks too much. I've a good mind to arrest him right now.' But I didn't do it. I went home, instead, and lay awake all night worrying about him. I didn't feel right until I got up the next day and went down and put him in jail.

"The scar business wasn't the only reason I arrested him. I told him Sunday I thought I'd better send to Martinsburg for William Folta's folks to come down and identify the body, and he took a great interest in trying to persuade me not to. He said he'd known Folta for years as a prosperous land speculator and he thought his identification ought to be enough.

"After the arrest, we examined the body again, and found a letter addressed to William Folta and signed by Judge M. Barney of Texarkana. The letter mentioned Dr. Bass. It was the first thing we had connecting him with the case except his own interfering."

A Worried Waitress.

While Dr. Bass in Bentonville, was trying to arrange identification of the body without summoning relatives from Missouri, a waitress in Columbia, Mo., was becoming more and more worried about the failure of Pearman to return from a trip he had made in connection with what he told her was "a land deal with Dr. Bass, where I'm getting $50 a week for posing as somebody else and where I'm going to make $50,000 before I'm through."

The waitress, Miss Pearl Powell, 33 years old, recalling that Pearman shaved off his mustache and wore a wig when he went on the trips connected with the "land deal," and that he asked her to manicure his

TERMS OF PURCHASE NOT DISCLOSED

Sale to Commonwealth Corporation Would Provide Necessary Facilities for Expansion of Service.

A contract for the purchase of a controlling interest in the St. Louis County Water Co. by the Commonwealth Utilities Corporation, a subsidiary of the United Gas Improvement Co., of Philadelphia, is in the hands of Francis Bros. & Co., representatives of the principal stockholders, for their consideration.

A decision is expected to be reached today or tomorrow, it was said, by David R. Francis Jr., one of the partners. Any such sale must have the approval of the Public Service Commission. Francis declined to discuss the terms of purchase. His firm represents the owners of more than 75 per cent of the 14,000 shares of outstanding common stock.

Purchase of the water company by the Commonwealth Corporation would provide necessary facilities for expanding the company's service in St. Louis County, it was said by W. C. Morehead of Smith, Moore & Co., investment firm, which represents the prospective buyer. An additional main from the Missouri River, costing about $500,000 will be needed and extension of mains and other improvements requiring an additional $500,000, he said, will be necessary soon to keep pace with the growth of population in the county.

Commonwealth Utilities was organized in 1925 by a group of St. Louisans and sold to the Philadelphia company last fall. Wiley F. Corl, a director of the First National Bank, remained as president and was made a vice president of the holding company, which is one of the largest and oldest in the country, having been organized in 1882.

The St. Louis County Water Co. was formed in 1925 to take over the water business of the West St. Louis Water and Light Co., formed in 1902 by the late David R. Francis. Its capitalization is $2,800,000 of bonds, $250,000 of preferred stock and 14,000 shares of no par value common stock.

Sought $6,200,000 Valuation.

In 1927, the company asked the Public Service Commission to fix a valuation of $6,200,000 on its properties. The commission, however, fixed the valuation at $5,500,000 as of Dec. 31, 1927, and reduced the figure to $4,978,130 for rate-making purposes. Last February the commission ordered a reduction of 12.2 per cent in rates in order to fix the company's return at not more than 7 per cent. This reduction is still being opposed.

The present St. Louis County water rates are about twice as high, on the average, as the rates charged for water in St. Louis, according to William H. Henby, president of the company, who attributes this difference in part to natural causes and in part to the fact that the county plant is privately owned and subject to taxes and other charges from which the city's municipal waterworks is exempt.

JAMES CARSON MITCHELL, FORMER ST. LOUISAN, DIES

Succumbs to Pneumonia in Chicago; Funeral Services to Be Held Here.

James Carson Mitchell, 48 years old, a native St. Louisan, who was connected with the Schramm Glass Co. for 20 years, moving two years ago to Chicago where he represented a glass products company, died in Chicago yesterday of pneumonia after three days' illness. He will be buried here, but funeral arrangements have not been completed.

He is survived by his widow, the former Mrs. Marian Corlis Mersman, daughter of George L. Corlis, dean of the Benton College of Law. They were married after her first husband, Otto L. Mersman Jr., was accidentily killed by a fall in 1923. Mr. Mitchell is survived also by an adopted son.

False Identification Led To Retired Dentist's Arrest

nails because he "had to look prosperous and keep his hands pretty," became suspicious when she read newspaper accounts of the finding of an unidentified slain man who wore a wig and whose general description was similar to that of Pearman, in a ditch near Gravette, Ark.

This was Sunday and Pearman was to have returned the previous Thursday. Finally Miss Powell went to Pearman's wife, confided her suspicions and, at Mrs. Pearman's suggestion, communicated with Sheriff Fields. He asked her to come to Bentonville, and she did so, arriving yesterday with two mechanics who had worked with Pearman. All identified the dead man as Pearman.

Last night Mrs. Pearman, a brother, Floyd, and two children of the dead man, Robert and Jalie, arrived here and corroborated the identification.

Pearman's Children Visit Bass.

The Sheriff took the son and daughter of Pearman before Bass in jail today. The son is 21 years old, a premedical student at the University of Missouri. The daughter, 19, also is in the university studyin gto be a teacher.

When they entered Bass was sitting on his cot with his head in his hands. He looked up and said, "Who are these people?"

"I am Robert Pearman," said the youth. "You knew my father."

"I knew him under two names," replied Bass.

Jalie, Robert's sister, nervously interposed: "Why didn't you send my father home when you knew it was he."

Robert again spoke to Bass: "And you say you knew him under two names. You knew he was my father, didn't you?"

Bass grinned.

Bass smiled.

"Laugh, clown, laugh," said Robert as they were led from the jail when the girl was about to break down.

Not the Body of Folta.

Mrs. Mary Folta, mother of the man missing from Martinsburg, and two of Folta's brothers, John and Frank, arrived here Tuesday and said the dead man was not William Folta, who has not been seen by relatives since he wrote from South Carolina shortly after the World War, asking for train fare home.

One of the brothers told Sheriff Fields he met Dr. Bass on a train to Kansas City two years ago and struck up a conversation, in the course of which he told about his missing brother. Mrs. Folta said Dr. Bass called at her home early in January, said he had met the missing William in Chicago and promised that William would visit his mother about April 1, after he made a trip to Arkansas where he owned large quantities of land. At that time, she said, Dr. Bass questioned her extensively about the family, getting information which the State charges was used in the application for the $200,000 insurance policy issued Jan. 8, last, to Pearman, under the name of William Folta.

Relatives of Folta told Sheriff Fields that when they viewed the body, a short time before Dr. Bass was arrested, he urged them to identify it, saying that if they did so, they would inherit "Folta's extensive land holdings in Arkansas."

Forgets Victim's Assumed Name.

Miss Powell told the grand jury that Pearman told her the other name he was going under, but that she had forgotten it. She said she understood the plan was to steal a body, represent it as that of Folta and collect the insurance. She said she was unable to understand how Pearman was killed.

Dr. Frederick H. Lamar, medical examiner for the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., which issued four $50,000 policies to Pearman, who appeared there under the name of Folta, said he was certain whom the policies had been issued. Dental work, measurements, weight and other points recorded in the insurance application checked exactly with Dr. Lamar's examination of the body, he said. The first premium was paid by "Folta" with a cashier's check for $4102, Dr. Lamar said.

In the insurance application, Pearman said he had amassed a fortune in Japan and intended to buy a large tract of land in Arkansas which he would use for colonization.

When Dr. Bass first appeared here, he told officials he sold "Folta" 31,000 acres of land in Miller County, Arkansas, last fall.

When the body was found Saturday, with three bullet wounds in the head, after it apparently had been thrown from an automobile, Dr. James Powell, Gravette, said after an examination that death probably had occurred two days before.

Prosecuting Attorney J. S. Combs, who is conducting the grand jury investigation, charged that four men were in the insurance plot originally, and that Pearman was "double-crossed" by his associates. The charge, it is thought, is based on Miss Powell's statement to the grand jury that Pearman told her he and two other men were going to make $85,000 apiece in a "land deal," and then said later that a fourth man had been taken into the scheme and that each would receive a profit of about $50,000.

Dr. Bass, tall, gray-haired and about 55 years old, the personification of the prosperous retired professional man, glanced up from his breakfast of bacon, hot biscuits and coffee in the jail this morning, and, in response to questions, said gravely, "I have nothing whatsoever to say. I have employed counsel."

DIES AFTER OPERATION IN HOSPITAL HE FOUNDED

W. H. Miner, Chicago, Head of Railroad Supply House, Succumbs at Plattsburg, N. Y.

By the Associated Press.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., April 3.—William H. Miner, 69 years old, president of W. H. Miner, Inc., railroad supply house of Chicago, died at the Physicians' Hospital here today. He had undergone an operation for the removal of his tonsils. The hospital was established in connection with the Miner Foundation.

Mr. Miner controlled the patent for a railroad car coupling device in wide use throughout the country. He was born in Chazy, near here, but his business activities had centered about Chicago and other Western cities. He amassed a large fortune.

At Chazy, his boyhood home, he established the "Heart's Delight" farm, one of the show places of the Adirondacks. He was on one of his periodic visits to his Chazy farm when, last Saturday, he decided to submit to an operation.

HOUSE AND SENATE CONFEREES START ON THE TARIFF BILL

Settle 32 Rate Differences Between the Two Measures and Adjourn Session Until Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The Congressional conferees on the tariff bill organized at their first session today and decided to consider first the hundreds of differences between the Senate and House on rates. The conferees met only for a brief session, but called another meeting for later in the day.

The conferees today settled 32 rate differences between the two branches in the chemical schedules and adjourned until tomorrow.

The conferees in a majority of the instances accepted the rates in the Senate bill, which generally are lower. Several compromises were agreed upon.

It was decided to hold two sessions a day, two hours in the morning and three in the afternoon. While the sessions are to be executive as is customary, Smoot said he had been authorized to make public each day what the conferees agreed upon.

Garner Insists on Publicity.

Congressman Garner of Texas, chief Democratic House conferee, contended after the meeting he had forced the decision to make the daily proceedings public. He said he was asked not to carry out a threat to give out information from the meetings, but he insisted on publicity.

In a statement the Texan expressed the opinion that the Senate rates were "far more acceptable to the great mass of the American people that the House rates, and I know that the Senate agricultural rates are more acceptable to the farmers."

Six major disputes confronted the conferees, all of which they are to bring back to their respective houses for record votes before a final agreement is reached. On the remainder of the controverted points the work of the conference consisted in arriving at compromise figures between the rates approved by the House and those written into the bill by the Senate.

No Decision on Six Issues.

The House conferees were bound by a gentleman's agreement to come to no decision on sugar, cement, lumber and shingle rates without first seeking the advice of the chamber as a whole. A similar understanding prevented the Senate's representatives from relinquishing its amendments to the administrative provisions, embodying in the bill the export debenture farm relief plan and revoking the President's authority to alter tariff rates, vested in him by the flexible provisions of the law now in force.

Chairman Smoot of the Senate Finance Committee was in charge of the conference group representing his branch of Congress, and Chairman Hawley of the Ways and Means Committee held the corresponding position among the House conferees.

Otherwise, the Conference Committee consisted of the two ranking members of each political party on the Finance and Ways and Means committees. These were Senators Watson of Indiana and Shortridge of California, Republicans, and Simmons of North Carolina and Harrisn of Mississippi, Democrats, and for the House, Representatives Treadway of Massachusetts and Bacharach of New Jersey, Republicans, and Garner of Texas and Collier of Mississippi, Democrats.

10 PERSONS KILLED IN EXPLOSIONS AT FIREWORKS PLANT

Series of Detonations at Devon, Pa., Shakes Fashionable Suburbs West of Philadelphia.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—Ten persons were killed and many injured, some gravely, in a series of explosions today that wrecked a fireworks plant at Devon, 15 miles from Philadelphia, and shook most of the fashionable suburbs along the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad west of this city.

The explosion occurred at the plant of the Pennsylvania Fire Works Display Co., comprised of 10 small buildings on a seven-acre tract. The plant is situated near the railroad and the Lincoln highway, known locally as Lancaster Pike.

There were three heavy blasts, followed at intervals for about 20 minutes by lighter explosions, presumably from small fire works.

Eight of the dead were killed outright and their bodies were found as soon as firemen and other rescuers could approach the wrecked buildings. Two deaths occurred later.

Fire followed the blasts and some of the bodies were so seriously burned that it will be difficult to identify them. All were taken to a morgue at Malvern, several miles west of Devon. Nearly all of the dead were employes and several of them were women.

Like a roar of artillery, the first explosion occurred about 9:50 a. m., sending debris through the air for long distances. Two other detonations followed immediately and for 20 minutes there were explosions. The detonations were felt more than 20 miles away. The blasts were distinctly felt in the upper part of Philadelphia and in New Jersey. Automobiles passing the plant are said to have been thrown from the road.

Many windows in a Pennsylvania Railroad local train at Devon Station were broken and some of the passengers cut by glass. They were treated and sent to their homes.

After the explosion hundreds of persons crowded the four tracks of the railroad. Railroad men summoned help from the Valley Forge Military Academy and 250 cadets went on duty patrolling the railroad.

The plant of Benjamin T. Dentner, a short distance from the scene of the explosion, where 200 persons were employed, was damaged as large pieces of flying debris rained down on the building.

GLIDER EXPECTED AT EAST ST. LOUIS THIS AFTERNOON

Capt. Hawks Delayed in Departure From Tulsa, Ok., by Fog and Low Visibility.

Capt. Frank M. Hawkes left Springfield, Mo., at 3 p. m. today in his glider, which is being towed across the continent from San Diego, Cal., to New York City. He expects to arrive at Parks Airport, on the East Side at about 4:45 this afternoon, for an overnight stop.

Departure from Tulsa, scheduled for 7 a. m., was delayed by a fog and poor visibility. Hawks landed at Springfield at 12:55 p. m., after cutting loose from the tow plane about a mile from the field. The tow plane was refueled there.

The glider, which trails behind a biplane piloted by J. D. Hernigan Jr., arrived at Tulsa at 6:15 p. m. yesterday following a flight from Sweetwater, Tex., with stops at Wichita Falls, Tex., and Oklahoma City.

Upon reaching Parks Airport, Hawks will have covered about 1860 miles of the 2800-mile journey across the continent. The purpose of the flight is to arouse national interest in gliding as a sport, the towing of gliders in commercial flying operations not being considered practical. The glider, of special design and construction, has a 50-foot wing and weighs 300 pounds. With the pilot and a consignment of special "glider" mail consisting of 500 letters and 935 postcards, the total weight in flight is about 500 pounds.

The glider, named the "Eaglet," is attached to the plane by a cable 525 feet long. Telephone communication is maintained through the cable between Hawks and Jernigan, and Hawks has a 3-tube radio set in the glider. The flight is sponsored by The Texas Co., for which Capt. Hawks is chief aviation advisor.

The "air train" left San Diego last Sunday and is due at New York next Sunday. Capt. Hawks planning to land the glider in Van Cortlandt Park. It is estimated the entire trip will take about 40 flying hours. Capt. Hawks will be the guest of the East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce at Broadview Hotel tonight.

Capt. Hawks is holder of both the east-to-west and west-to-east transcontinental nonstop flying records, established last year. He is a frequent visitor to local airports and demonstrated a glider type monoplane having a light engine over Forest Park during the recent air show at The Arena.

Hawks' Ex-Wife Trying to Collect $6200 She Says She Lent Him.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 3.—Mrs. Newell Vaughn, former wife of Capt. Frank Hawks, appeared in Superior Court yesterday, seeking to collect $6200, and interest since 1921, which she said she lent him during their two years of married life to promote his first aviation ventures. Mrs. Vaughn, who has remarried since their divorce in 1921, said the flyer signed two promissory notes to her, one for $5000 and another for $1200, which never were paid.

Hawks, who married the plaintiff in 1919, soon after leaving the United States Army, made a general denial in a deposition, contending that the debts, if any, were never pressed for payment until now, and, therefore, were outlawed.

FIVE BARTENDERS GET JAIL TERMS FOR LIQUOR OFFENSES

Judge Davis Does Not Impose Penitentiary Penalties for First Violation.

Five bartenders indicted for liquor violations under the Jones law pleaded guilty today and received jail terms and fines from Federal Judge Davis. Penitentiary terms could have been the penalties, but Judge Davis continued his policy of not applying the harsh penalties provided in the law to first offenders for slight violations.

Jail terms of three months and $250 fines were given Angelo Quartero, 1114 Pendleton avenue; James Chiodini, Blaine and Tower Grove avenues; Joe Causa, 1437½ Biddle street and Ben Cook, Negro, 2719 Chouteau avenue. Pete Carmi, bartender in a saloon at Spring avenue and Olive street, was sentenced to four months in jail and fined $500.

15 "JITNEY" OPERATORS JAILED IN NEW ORLEANS

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 3.—The bombing of three street cars Tuesday night, attributed by Superintendent of Police Ray to "jitney" operators, was followed yesterday by the imposition of jail sentences by Federal Judge Borah on 15 men convicted of operating "jitneys."

Anthony La Rosa was found guilty of contempt of the court's injunction against "jitney" operation, and was given a three months' term.

Harvey Owens was sentenced to 30 days and the Judge gave the same punishment to Walter Smith. Twelve others were given sentences of 90 days, but execution was suspended.

DEFENSE WITNESS GIVES HOWE CREDIT FOR PATENT MOLD

Draftsman Admits Signing Statement but Says Plaintiff Promised Not to Use It in Suit.

$2500 VOUCHER "MERIT SURPRISE"

H. M. Pflager of Commonwealth Declares That It Was Not Payment for Inventor's Stock.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 3.—Cross-examination of defense witnesses in the suit of Andrew F. Howe, University City inventor, against the Commonwealth Steel Co. for an accounting on the use of his patent, brought forth the information today in Federal Judge FitzHenry's court that a metal molding form, based on ideas of Clarence H. Howard, president, in 1908, was a failure; that the mold built under the Howe patent in 1910 largely superseded the green sand method then in use and today is used to make the majority of the large castings in the Granite City plant of the General Steel Castings Corporation, which last year absorbed Commonwealth.

The defense has sought to minimize the importance of the Howe mold, the patent of which he assigned to the company on what he now contends was Howard's promise that he "would be taken care of." Defense witnesses have characterized the metal mold as more expensive to build and less accurate in producing accurate castings than the old method.

Statement Gives Howe Credit.

In regard to the origin of the old patent, which the defense has contended was the result of conferences among many persons, the defense showed one of Howe's witnesses, F. W. Langhennig, a statement he signed last year crediting Howe with the device. Langhennig was a draftsman and helped to draw the plans for the mold in 1910.

The statement told of a round table discussion of foremen and executives on the subject in which someone suggested: "Why Not Use Frank Howe's Idea of the Molding Form?"

"Mr. Howard asked who Howe was," the statement went on, "and ordered the mold made which has been used ever since. The idea was Frank's entirely. It is a pleasure of working with him at the [illegible]"

DEFENSE WITNESS GIVES HOWE CREDIT FOR PATENT MOLD

Draftsman Admits Signing Statement but Says Plaintiff Promised Not to Use It in Suit.

$2500 VOUCHER "MERIT SURPRISE"

H. M. Pflager of Commonwealth Declares That It Was Not Payment for Inventor's Stock.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 3.—Cross-examination of defense witnesses in the suit of Andrew F. Howe, University City inventor, against the Commonwealth Steel Co. for an accounting on the use of his patents, brought forth the information today in Federal Judge FitzHenry's court that a metal molding form, based on ideas of Clarence H. Howard, president, in 1908, was a failure; that the mold built under the Howe patent in 1910 largely superseded the green sand method then in use and today is used to make the majority of the large castings in the Granite City plant of the General Steel Castings Corporation, which last year absorbed Commonwealth.

The defense has sought to minimize the importance of the Howe mold, the patent of which he assigned to the company on what Howe now contends was Howard's oral promise that he would be "taken care of." Defense witnesses have characterized the metal mold as more expensive to build and use, slower in production and no more accurate in producing accurate castings than the old method.

Statement Gives Howe Credit.

In regard to the origin of the mold patent, which the defense has contended was the result of conferences among many persons, Howe's counsel showed one of today's witnesses, F. W. Langhennif, a statement he signed last year crediting Howe with the device. Langhennig was a draftsman and helped to draw the plans for the mold in 1910.

The statement told of a round table discussion of foremen and executives on the subject of the form, in which someone suggested: "Why Not Use Frank Howe's Idea on the Molding Farm?"

"Mr. Howard asked who Howe was," the statement went on, "and then ordered the mold made which has been used ever since. The idea was Frank's entirely. As I had the pleasure of working with him at this time and saw it from the start."

Langhennig, who lives at 925 Dover place, St. Louis, and is now plant engineer for the General Steel Castings Corporation, showed indignation at the introduction of the statement, stating that Howe told him he did not intend to use it in a lawsuit. He admitted signing it, however, protesting that the information was based on what he had heard from William P. Stout, former superintendent, whose deposition was introduced previously by the plaintiff.

A session of court will be held tonight and possibly another tomorrow night. The case must be finished Saturday or another postponement will be necessary.

Harry M. Pflager, St. Louis, former senior vice president of Commonwealth Steel Co., who for several days has been the star defense witness, was under cross-examination yesterday. He was Howard's right hand man in the building up of the firm from a losing business in 1904 to a corporation worth $38,000,000 last year when it was said to the General Steel Castings Corporation.

Joseph T. Davis, of plaintiff's counsel, pressed him hard on a $2500 voucher in Howe's favor, carried on the books as a check for "meritorious service." Checks of this designation, ranging from one dollar up, were given to employes as "surprises" for special services.

"I show you this voucher dated May 6, 1919, when Mr. Howe left your employ to go into business for himself," Davis said, "and ask you what particular 'meritorious service' it was for."

"It was for Frank's services over a long period of time," Pflager replied. "We were highly satisfied with them and wanted to show our appreciation. As I recall, he had a debt on his home and we thought we would help him pay it off."

For Service or for Stock?

"Wasn't that about the time that Mr. Howe sold his Commonwealth stock back to the company?" "Yes."

"And Mr. Howe had been offered by outside interests a higher price than Commonwealth's offer of $128 a share and the $2500 voucher represented the difference between what he would have received outside and what he was offered by the firm, and it was carried as 'meritorious service' because Mr. Howard didn't want the stock deal to show on the book. Isn't that so?"

"But it was on the books."

"Yes," replied Davis," "as 'meritorious service.' But wasn't it really for the stock adjustment?"

"As far as I know, it was for meritorious service over a long period."

Davis handed the witness the $2500 voucher and another for $12,994, the latter in payment for Howe's 101 shares at about $128 a share. They bore the same date. Davis repeated his question as to the stock deal and was answered indifinitely. His insistence on a positive answer drew an objection from Daniel N. Kirby, chief of defense counsel. The court ruled that a "yes-or-no" answer should be given. The query was put again.

"No," was Pflager's answer, adding "to the best of my knowledge and belief."

Raise Listed as Bonus.

Another "stock adjustment" of interest was one made in 1927 when the firm "raised" Howe's salary to $500 a month by carrying his regular salary unchanged on the books, adding him to the foremen's bonus list and permitting him to buy stock. The dividends received from the stock, which he was purchasing on time payments at regular interest rates, constituted a good part of the "raise."

The defense has maintained continuously that Howe's assignment of patents to the company was in accord with a recognized custom among inventive employes. Howe maintains that no such custom existed and that he assigned his steel mold patent in 1910 and his sand mill in 1916 only on the promise of Howard that he would be "taken care of."

Meanwhile, Howard and Pflager were drawing sizable royalties on four and six-wheel trucks patented by Pflager in 1904. Part interest was assigned to Howard because "he paid for the patent work." In 1926, according to figures introduced previously, these royalties amounted to $42,215 for Pflager and $21,107 to Howard. This was over and above their salaries and bonuses, which two years later amounted to $31,424 for Pflager and $42,024 for Howard. Also, in 1926, they participated in thousands of dollars paid in royalties to patent holding companies from which they benefitted as directors. It was brought out in cross-examination that, although the patents expired in 1921, the royalties continued until the sale of the firm.

Pflager was queried about a statement that the Howe steel mold was not actually as effective as the green sand method it was designed to supplant. He stated the firm began to use it in the hope of reducing production costs.

"After you had used it for some time, you had the benefit of comparative figures, didn't you?" asked Attorney Lawrence Kingsland.

"No, we didn't. We went into the thing rapidly and the reports indicated a saving. But years later I was convinced it would be cheaper to return to the sand method, which we did in 1924 or 1925."

"Then," Kingsland asked, "it took your firm 14 years to find out that the sand methods was the cheaper?" "Yes," said Pflager, "approximately."

Pflager's testimony to the effect that the castings made in the mold were no better nor more accurate than those made by the sand method was confirmed when he left the stand by C. F. Frede, former production manager. Pflager had backed his attorney with figures but admitted that they were taken from small portions of individual days.

An inaccuracy in Pflager's direct testimony as to control of stock on Aug. 20, 1907, was shown when the minute books revealed that Howard and Pflager and their families held more than 5000 shares of the 9078 outstanding, whereas Pflager had said they held only 4435. Pflager had picked several dates and given the stock situation in direct examination and in some of the years Attorney Davis took another month and showed that at times control was held by the families.

"As a matter of fact," Davis asked, "can you say that there was any time from 1906 to 1929 that your family and Mr. Howard's didn't have absolute control?"

"I think there were a number of such times."

"Was there ever a time when the families of you and Mr. Howard and those of Frede and Hoblitzelle didn't have absolute control?"

"I can't say. I will have to refer you to the records," Pflager answered.

Clocking the Population of the U. S.

W. M. STEUART, CENSUS BUREAU DIRECTOR

WITH the Population Clock in his office in Washington. On the first minute of April (Tuesday) the clock registered 122,186,893. The fifteenth decennial census began yesterday. Every count will be as of then and the actual enumeration will show how close the scientific clock came to correctness. This is the first census in which the big clock, invented during the Philadelphia Sesquicentennial Exposition, could be used to check with actual figures.

GERK DISCUSSES POLICE POLICY ON SLOT MACHINES

Although slot machines are widely distributed throughout the city, in stores and other places patronized by school children and adults, Chief of Police Gerk thinks his department is making progress toward stamping out this petty form of gambling.

Discussing the situation today, Gerk said his men had refrained from wholesale confiscation of slot machines because past experience had indicated such action would bring injunction proceedings and resultant legal action.

Instead, the Chief said, the Circuit Attorney's office had instructed the police to obtain evidence that would stand up in court through having an officer play the machines to determine whether they were legitimate vending devices or gambling machines issuing tokens redeemable for cash or merchandise.

In this way, Gerk continued, warrants have been obtained charging 35 persons with setting up and operating gambling devices, and these cases are now pending in Circuit Court.

Circuit Attorney Miller understands most slot machine operators have been assured by an organization distributing the machines that it will pay any fines imposed on them. To forestall this, Miller instructed his assistants in future cases to make the defendants stand trial before a jury or, if they plead guilty, take a workhouse sentence.

BLASE LOAN FIRM OUTBID HIS BANK FOR DEPOSITORS

Provident Investment Institution Paid 6 Pct. on Savings, Union-Easton Trust, 3.5 Pct.

While Arthur F. C. Blase's Union-Easton Trust Co. solicited savings accounts at 3½ per cent interest and was examined regularly by State Bank Examiners, his Provident Loan & Investment Institution paid 6 per cent on similar deposits and escaped the supervisory eye of State Auditors.

"Where will you be at 65?" challenged the bank's advertising which boasted that its president was head of the downtown Provident Loan & Investment Institution. "Save and own something," preached the Provident company's literature pointing out that President Blase was head of the neighborhood bank.

In the Union-Easton Trust Co., 5325 Easton avenue, Blase did a general banking business with emphasis on investments in realty and real estate securities. In the Provident company, 1009 Locust street, he sought higher returns on capital, purchasing second mortgages, lending small accounts to salaried borrowers and buying property which rented to Negroes. Financial assistance for the Provident company was obtained in loans from the Union-Easton bank.

Both in Receivers' Hands.

Both enterprises are closed now, the bank in the hands of the State Finance Department preparatory to liquidation because its directors could not find means to replace $135,000 in "slow paper" of which the Finance Department disapproved; the Provident Co. in the hands of Charles H. Daues, former judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, as temporary receiver under a Circuit Court order. Six thousand depositors have $816,000 in the Union-Easton bank and several hundred have about $60,000 in the Provident company's savings accounts.

After a preliminary examination, Receiver Daues expressed the conviction that the Provident Co. was insolvent, declaring that a long investigation would be necessary to determine the value of its assets. The books showed, he said, that the company owed about $30,000 to the Union-Easton bank, apparently on unsecured notes, and owed about $12,000 in past due taxes. He thought that in liquidation there would be a substantial loss to stockholders but that savings depositors would be protected.

Story of Provident Loan.

Blase is the principal stockholder. A lawyer with offices in the Arcade Building, he conceived the idea of organizing the Provident Loan & Savings Trust in 1921, with an authorized capital of $50,000, under a declaration of trust. In 1922, the trust's application for permission to sell certificates of beneficial interest to the public was refused by the State blue sky department on the grounds that only $2500 had been paid in and that the name gave the impression the concern was a savings and loan association.

In 1923, after the Legislature repealed the law governing trust associations and the Finance Commissioner closed several such concerns, the Provident was reorganized under its present name by Blase and his colleague: with an authorized capital of $250,000.

Its charter was that of a general business and investment company authorized to make loans, sell securities and evidences of indebtedness, sell and manage real estate and deal in real estate mortgages. Under such a charter, it was not under the supervision of the Finance Department or any other State department as are the banks, savings and loan companies and small loan companies.

$230,000 in Stock Sold.

The company moved to a Locust street store room and Blase set up his law office in the rear. Stock of the organizers was split up and sold—this does not require a blue-sky permit—until $230,000 of the authorized shares were outstanding.

The "Savings Service" was the principal bid for public contributions. The depositor of a dollar or more received a pass book bearing the legend, "Provides for the proverbial rainy day." In small type the pass book was described as a "certificate" with the statement that 5 per cent interest would be added each six months with an extra 1 per cent if the "investment" continued for a year.

Rules printed in the pass book, reserved to the company the right to require 30 days' notice of withdrawals, as is the case with supervised savings banks, and included a novel regulation that the aggregate amount of withdrawals in any month shall not exceed the amount of deposits in the preceding month.

The back cover pointed out that $1 deposited each week for 10 years became $709.51; $5 each week became $3547.55, and $10 each week became $7095.10.

A substantial part of the savings deposits were made by stockholders who were persuaded to increase their interest in the company by redepositing dividends and adding occasional savings.

"It is simply a savings plan," said the company's literature, "with an interest return the same as you would realize on a high-grade bond investment."

Policeman Guards Blase.

Promoter Blase, ousted temporarily from his offices at the two institutions, goes about his business accompanied by a uniformed policeman assigned to guard him since he reported that he had been threatened in anonymous telephone calls. He has declined to discuss his affairs with reporters.

Stockholders and depositors in the Union-Easton Trust Co. have an ornate "Statement of Condition," issued in January with a border of covered wagons, stage coaches, railroad trains, automobiles and airplanes and the inscription, "Vision, Ambition, Determination, Industry, Progress, Achievement." Depositors in the closed bank pass its imposing building, which represents $175,000 of its $234,000 capital and surplus, and wonder how much they will salvage when they are permitted to pass again under the electric sign, "The Door of Opportunity."

German Bomb Plot Uncovered.

By the Associated Press.

ESCHWEILER, Germany, April 3.—Police announced last night they had discovered a large amount of explosives buried in various places in the Probsteier Forest and that they were convinced there was a plot to blow up the public buildings. Two Communists were arrested, one of them an Alderman of this city. The police think the explosives were stolen from a nearby mine.

Census Takers Learn Queer Facts About City; Public Generally Cordial

Women Ready to Tell Ages Without Hesitation—Many Homes Without Radios—Dogs Encountered in Streaks.

IF census enumerators were novelists, the task of counting people here would furnish an ideal background for the Great St. Louis Novel. The decennial check of the population, which began throughout the nation yesterday is giving the 700 men and women taking census in the city and St. Louis County an insight into the lives and thoughts of the people that can be obtained in no other way.

It is as if the economic, social and, to some extent, mental life of the community were assembled in one mass and laid open to plain observation. This is true because the enumerators are going into the homes of the high and the low, the humble and the proud, and, once inside, they cannot help noticing the modes and manners of life. The questions they ask, which the law requires the people to answer, are calculated to reflect the nature of the community.

Not always the pertinent replies, but frequently the irrelevant ones, provide the threads of the pattern of the town. Many persons are volunteering information which Uncle Sam does not require for his statistical studies. Some business-like enumerators ignore the answers they do not need, others smile over them, and still others pause a moment for good-natured rejoinder. Whenever occasion arises, all the enumerators reassure citizens that specific information about individuals will not be divulged by the census.

Tuesday was April Fool's day, or the census might have started then, the first day of the month. The Government took cognizance of superstition, perhaps in the belief that some persons might mistake enumerators for jokers on April 1. However, at least one enumerator, who has a big district where it is hard to find working people during the day, started ahead of time on Tuesday evening. The first St. Louisans whose records he took were the family of a midtown filling station proprietor.

LITTLE difficulty was reported in the first day's count. Some enumerators telephoned the offices of Supervisors Hassall and Kersting in the Federal Building to get interpretations of the rules. It was found generally that the people understood the purpose of the census and invited enumerators indoors to comfortable chairs and tables on which to spread the big official blanks. Human nature being what it is, some citizens were not exactly cordial, but no hostility or unwillingness to answer was reported.

Women were found ready to tell their ages without hesitation generally. A householder, answering for a Negro maid, said: "Put her down as 38; she doesn't know anyway. Married? Sure, she was married three or four times. Read and write? Well, I should say. She used to teach school in Kentucky and I think she wrote for magazines." An elderly woman declared: "That's the first time I've told my age since I was married."

Unusual given names are coming to light. The pretty young wife of a working man said: "I've a crazy first name—Io-Labelle; the last part's French." Another woman gave the name of Lylias.

JUDGING by some sample replies, St. Louis radio dealers have many potential customers, for a considerable number of homes whose occupants appeared to have more than minimum income lacked receiving sets. This is the first census in which ownership of radios has figured. A few persons were surprised to learn that Uncle Sam cared anything about that. "You didn't ask if I had a radio," a woman reminded one enumerator; "I've been prepared for that question by the newspapers and broadcasting." The question was superfluous at another apartment, for the young housewife had been ironing while a woman was broadcasting about how to acquire and keep feminine charm.

Dogs are encountered in streaks, in the house-to-house calls. In a boarding house section the first four dwellings each had a loudly barking, indignant animal. At one a terrier held tenaciously to an enumerator's coat tail while the landlady grinned.

Persons who had reached maturity at the time of the World War probably would be a bit startled in realizing how time flies, upon hearing how many men in their 30s—grownups now—were not in the military service then because of their youth. The point is that the end of the war is 12 years back in history, but comparatively fresh in the average memory.

It is astonishing how much some persons in boarding houses know about their associates' life histories and how little members of some families seem to know about their relatives.

TWO HURT WHEN AUTO AND STREET CAR COLLIDE

Theodore Gauiak, 15 years old, 1422 North Twentieth street, suffered a fractured leg, and John Burdek, 1426 North Twentieth street, a fractured arm, when an automobile on which they were riding was struck by a street car at Cass avenue and Twenty-first street yesterday afternoon.

The car was driven by Julius Gauiak, 2219A Madison street, who escaped injury. Theodore was standing on the running board.

BECKERLE DIVORCE SUIT TAKEN IN ADVISEMENT

Woman Lawyer Denies Misconduct—Husband Declares He Scrubbed Steps.

The divorce suit of Mrs. Nettie Beckerle, lawyer and occasional Provisional Police Judge, and the countersuit of her husband, Harry, 3846 De Tonty street, a chain-store butcher were taken under advisement by Circuit Judge Hamilton today, after three and one-half days of testimony.

Both suits charge general indignities. Witnesses for Beckerle today cited as an instance of his fidelity, the fact that he "always scrubbed the steps" at the De Tonty street home.

Mrs Beckerle's witnesses denied she ever embraced any men other than her husband and brother, and her partner explained that in a letter in which he saluted her as "Dear Nettie," and signed it "With love, Joe," he meant no affection beyond what one law partner might be expected to show for another.

Yesterday Mrs. Beckerle's testimony that her husband was frequently under the influence of liquor during the time he operated a grocery at Thirty-ninth street and Shenandoah avenue, was denied by two former clerks in the store.

"I quit the place on account of her," Emil C. Wick, 2704A South Jefferson avenue, one of the clerks, said. "She began working in the store several weeks before they were married, and immediately began to boss the clerks. She took care of the cash, and took what groceries she wanted."

The other former clerk, Leo Howe, 5547 Waterman avenue, said that Mrs. Beckerle's mother, Mrs. Thompson, was a frequent visitor to the store for provisions. "I used to open the store at 5 o'clock every other mornnig," he explained, "and Mrs. Thompson was usually the first person in the store. I understood from Mrs. Beckerle that her mother was to get what she wanted. One morning she took about six dozen eggs of a lot that had arrived the night before."

"You say she took six dozen eggs?" Beckerle's counsel asked.

"It looked like six dozen to me," Howe replied. "I guess it looked like 12 dozen to Beckerle."

A gale of laughter swept the packed courtroom gathering, which since the first day of the trial on Monday has found a great deal of amusement in the testimony.

In support of Beckerle's charges, S. A. Naughton, his former attorney in the case, testified that he and another witness followed Mrs. Beckerle and J. L. Simpson, her law-partner, in an automobile the night of July 5, 1927, and found them sitting in the back seat of Mrs. Beckerle's car in O'Fallon Park, embracing each other. He said he had seen Mrs. Beckerle call at Simpson's home to take him to the office in her car.

Mrs. Beckerle, seated at the counsel table, made constant suggestions to her attorneys during Naughton's cross-examination. She lives at 4302 De Tonty street, where she owns a four-family flat.

SENATE GROUP O K'S UNEMPLOYMENT BILLS

Would Set Up Board to Plan for Public Construction in Time of Depression.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Bills that would set up a board to plan for public building construction in times of depression were approved today by the Senate Commerce Committee and at the same time the Senate Agriculture Committee heard testimony that it was almost impossible o get white laborers to to do certain kinds of farm work.

The unemployment bills approved were introduced by Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York. They provided for an appropriation of $150,000,000 and also for facilities to collect information on unemployment. Action was deferred, however, until next Thursday on another measure by the New York Senator which would set up a Federal employment agency.

Testimony as to farm labor conditions in the Southwest and West was given before the Agriculture Committee as it opened hearings on a resolution to authorize the appointment of a commission to study the farm labor problem. The measure was introduced by Chairman McNary of the committee at the request of the Federal Farm Board.

R. N. Wilson, San Francisco, was the first witness and after he pictured the difficulty in obtaining farm labor he said statistics showed that common laborers were coming into the United States at the rate of 1700 a year.

These figures were challenged by Senator Heflin (Dem.), Alabama, who said they were entering the country at the rate of 38,000 a year. The Alabama Senator also asserted that with "5,000,000 to 6,000,000" unemployed in the country that it was hard to believe that sufficient laborers could not be obtained.

Wilson urged that a commission be named by the President to investigate the unskilled labor supply and reiterated that white laborers could not be obtained to do the kind of work he termed "backbreaking." Work in sugar beet fields was cited as an example.

He testified California paid the highest monthly farm wage in the United States, contending that salary was not the reason white laborers could not be obtained for certain types of farm work.

"Any American citizen who is out of work and hungry ought to be made to work," Heflin asserted.

Senator Kendrick (Dem.), Wyoming, agreed that difficulty was experienced in getting white laborers to work in the beet fields while Senator Gould (Rep.), Maine, commented that white laborers were hard to get in Maine to aid in potato harvesting.

FOUR WITNESSES CALLED IN KANSAS CITY KIDNAPING CASE

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 3.—Four witnesses regarded by police as of vital importance in efforts to solve the reported kidnaping of Michael Katz, millionaire druggist, from his automobile near his home March 18, were summoned to appear before the Jackson County grand jury today.

The witnesses: Bennie Portman, convicted bootlegger; Louis ("Kid") Rose, hotel operator and former prize fighter; W. B. Duke, motor car dealer, and L. J. Navran, a director of the Katz Drug Co.

James R. Page, county prosecutor, and police in their reconstruction of the reputed abduction have pictured Portman and Rose as the unwilling "go-betweens" in negotiations by the reported kidnapers with members of Katz's family for the release of their victim in payment for $100,000.

Raymond Tipton, who was brought here from St. Louis last night as a suspect in the reported kidnaping, was questioned by Edward P. Boyle, chief of detectives. With the arrest of Tipton, three men are held in jail as suspects in the kidnaping. The other two are Eddie ("Goggle-Eyed") Leonard, St. Louis gangster, and Bossie Nigro, Kansas City, underworld character.

Tipton, released on $25,000 bond Monday pending investigation, surrendered here yesterday when he learned three Kansas City detectives had come here for him. He denied knowledge of the kidnaping and asserted he was not acquainted with Leonard. Wearing handcuffs, Tipton accompanied the detectives to Kansas City on a motorbus, after rejecting a suggestion that the trip be made by airplane.

Police Disperse Hooting Students.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 3.—Students of the University of Southern California, incensed over the action of a traffic policeman in tagging a girl student motorist, became disorderly today and additional police were sent to the scene to disperse the hooting crowd. The students, who jammed streets near the school shouting and hooting, were dispersed less than an hour after the outbreak. No arrests were made.

Plan No. 2—"37 Payment" Shares for Systematic Saving

AN original idea created by this Association. The sole purpose of this plan is to help you form the habit of saving a regular, definite, fixed amount each month and to keep that habit for the short period of 37 months. Most of us find difficulty in doing certain things regularly, and among the most important is—saving money.

Many recognize the value of systematic monthly savings, but have hesitated to adopt this plan, as the usual term 10 to 13 years is too long. 37 months is a very short period, practically 3 years; the goal always within sight.

Figure out the amount you can save each month without serious inconvenience and you will see from illustration in opposite column how much you will accumulate under this plan.

Just remember that these shares mature only after 37 payments have been made—and only one payment may be made in any one month.

Fees and fines for failure to make payments are done away with. You can miss as many as five months and still complete your 37 payments with full maturity values. The total amount paid will be just the same but it will take a little longer time to complete it.

If you miss six months, the certificate is canceled and we return all payments you have made. You may, at any time before maturity, withdraw all payments made.

On account of the very short period, dividends are paid only upon maturity of shares. The following illustration shows maturity values of the "37 Payment" Shares based on 6 per cent dividends, compounded semi-annually, this being the current rate:

Monthly Payments	Total of 37 Payments	Amount Accumulated With Dividends
$ 2.50	$ 92.50	$ 101.23
5.00	185.00	202.46
10.00	370.00	404.92
25.00	925.00	1,012.30
50.00	1,850.00	2,024.60

Shares issued only for above monthly payments. Additional shares may be purchased by those desiring to save more than $50.00 per month.

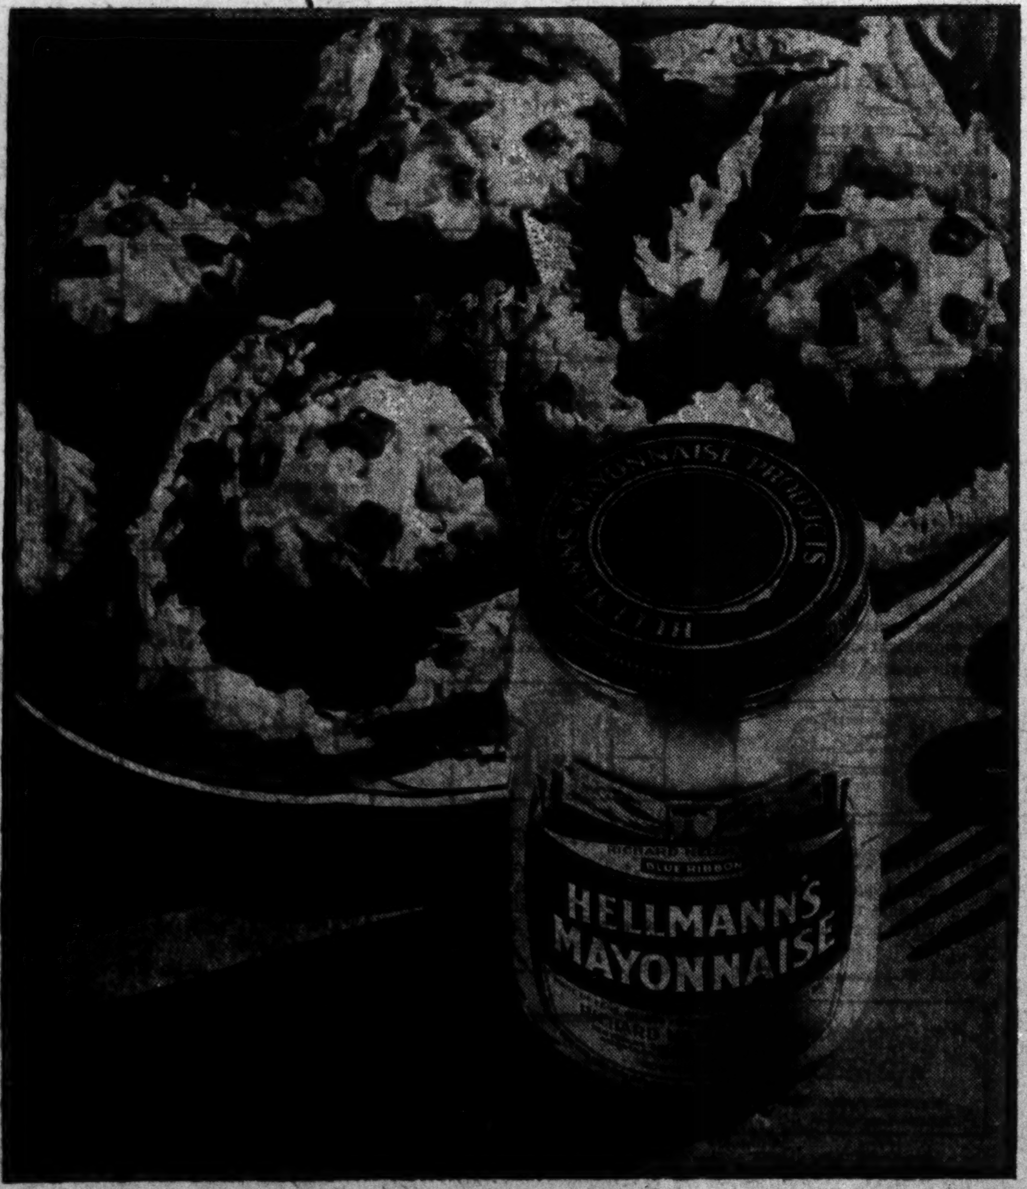
MIXED TO AN OLD FRENCH RECIPE ★ THEN

Double whipped

★ That's why this exquisite mayonnaise tastes so deliciously DIFFERENT



DOUBLE whipping is the last artful touch of the Hellmann chefs to a treasured old mayonnaise recipe from France . . . the extra promise of new delicacy for your salads.

Carefully, thoroughly, the ingredients are whipped . . . and then for added deliciousness, they are whipped completely again! "Double whipping" it is called.

The result? An ecstasy of deliciousness . . . a superlative mayonnaise, creamy and smooth beyond your imagining.

The ingredients used in Hellmann's Mayonnaise are the very same kind you would use yourself. Breakfast eggs, a secret blend of spices, selected salad oils and vinegars . . . each blended by double whipping to a perfect harmony of flavor.

So this way, please, to new salad delight! Tonight, madam, you can taste in your salads an utterly different piquancy . . . a complete new delicacy of flavor.

Go ask your favorite grocer today for your jar of Hellmann's Mayonnaise. You will surely be amazed and delighted. © 1930 G. F. Corp.

TWO YOUNG DIPLOMATS IN SAN DOMINGO PROMOTED

Hoover Honors Foreign Service Officers for Their Work in Recent Uprising.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Recognition has been bestowed by President Hoover on two young foreign service officers for their actions during the recent uprising in the Dominican Republic and their success in assisting to bring about peace without bloodshed.

John W. Cabot, Cambridge, Mass., who is attached to the Legation at Santo Domingo as a secretary, has been nominated for promotion from a foreign service officer, unclassified, to be a secretary in the diplomatic service.

William A. Bickers, Culpepper, Va., Consul at Puerto Plata, was promoted from a foreign service officer, unclassified, to be a foreign service officer of Class 8.

By these promotions the two young men advance two grades in the foreign service, and their salaries are increased from $2750 to $3500.

BANKERS ACCUSED IN KIDNAPING OF RIVAL FINANCIER

New Jersey Grand Jury Told That Plot Was Scheme to Get Control of Passaic Depository.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PASSAIC, N. J., April 3.—The kidnaping last June of Willard H. Elliott, Passaic, (N. J.) banker, was done at the instigation of a group of conservative New Jersey bankers, and was part of a "general scheme" by these bankers to gain control of the Hobart Trust Co. of Passaic, of which Elliott was vice president and treasurer, Harry H. Weinberger yesterday told a special session of the Passaic County grand jury.

Weinberger is the founder and former president of the New Jersey Bankers Securities Co., which owned the Hobart Trust, and is under indictment on six counts for alleged irregularities in the conduct of that company.

Group Bought Bank.

A group of other bankers, he said he told the grand jury, wanted Elliott kidnaped, thinking that bank examiners would then close the Hobart Trust and it would be put in receivership. Those things happened in due course, he said, and the depository was bought from the receivers by a group of Passaic bankers, who are now operating it. Two of these bankers, Dow H. Drukker and James H. Walden, were witnesses before the grand jury yesterday.

The investigation was reopened Tuesday by Assistant County Prosecutor James M. Dunn after a previous grand jury investigation resulted in the indictment of Harry Kuller, Passaic broker; Joseph Bongiorno and Angela Papadura for the kidnaping. They will go on trial April 14. Weinberger charged at the conclusion of that inquiry that he had not been permitted to tell his full story.

Refuses to Waive Immunity.

When he emerged after spending most of yesterday afternoon before the grand jury he was asked if he had been allowed to tell his story this time. He said he had been "on the points raised" and complained the present action is "just a half-hearted investigation."

Kuller was also called before the jury, but was dismissed when he refused to sign a waiver of immunity.

Mayor John J. Roegner of Passaic, who was president of the Hobart Trust at the time of the Elliott kidnaping, and William V. Begus, Frank C. Campbell and Arthur Hughes, members of the group of bankers which now owns the bank, will be called before the jury today.

FRENCH AND BRITISH PARLEYS ON SECURITY PACT SHOW PROGRESS

and maek suggestions to supplement deficiencies which would come about through the yards not having sufficient work.

It was pointed out that, under the agreement, there would be only about 20,000 tons of cruisers to be laid down in Japanese yards, comparatively no destroyers and no capital ships or submarines. The report of this subcommittee is expected early next week.

At the 1935 Conference.

As far as Japanese reservations regarding her right again to raise the question of her naval desires at the 1935 conference are concerned, it was said Great Britain and the United States also had reserved the right again to express their desires and position at that time.

On the question of replacing vessels before the age limit has been reached, it is understood Great Britain may desire some acceleration of her building in order to keep her dockyards busy. It was said, however, this would not be extensive, involving only some small six-inch cruisers. The British acceleration plan will be worked out at the same time as the Japanese.

Japanese Delegation Statement.

The Japanese delegation issued a statement last night to show that their views on the three-Power compromise were in general accord with those of the British and Americans. The statement:

"The Japanese delegation transmitted to its Government the compromise plan emerging from informal conversations among British, American and Japanese delegates, and asked for instructions. The reply from Tokio arrived on April 1 and on April 2, at a meeting of the three delegations in St. James' Palace Mr. Wakatsuki (a former Premier) announced that Japan had accepted the plan with a few reservations, to which the sincere consideration of the American and British delegations was requested.

"As to details of such reservations, a further exchange of views will be made among the three delegations tomorrow.

"It is a fact that since the subject matter of the negotiations was related to questions of national defense, there has been difficulty in arriving at a complete understanding among the three delegations. But the Japanese Government as always approached the subject with a firm resolve to co-operate with the participating Powers, so as to make the conference a success, and also because of their sincere desire to promote international peace and good will.

"In view of the fact that the present planhad grown out of a spirit of accommodation and conciliation among representatives of the concerned Powers, the Japanese Government has agreed to make it the basis of a treaty to be concluded. In doing so, the Japanese Government has also in mind the fact that this treaty would be enforced up to the end of 1936 and that thereafter all the nations concerned will be free to claim all that they deem necessary and Japan will naturally be in a position to maintain, as heretofore, the claim of what she considers necessary from the point of view of national defense."

Italy Is Asked to Join in a Mediterranean Security Pact.

Italy has been asked to join Great Britain and France in a mutual security arrangement affecting the Mediterranean, it became known today.

Despite indications of further difficulties for the five-Power naval conference, Secretary of State Stimson, head of the American delegation, said: "The situation is much improved since last week and I am much more optimistic of a five-Power agreement now than I was at that time."

Recent events have brought expressions in official circles that the conference will have difficulty in concluding its work before Easter (April 20).

THANKS FOR U. S. FROM JAPAN

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The thanks of Japan for United States participation in helping alleviate suffering caused by the Tokio earthquake of Sept. 21, 1923, have been expressed officially to the State Department by Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese Ambassador.

In a note made public yesterday by the State Department, the Ambassador told Acting Secretary Cotton he had been instructed to report that the reconstruction of the City of Tokio has been just completed.

HEAVY INCREASE IN RAIL BOND ISSUES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Major railroads of the nation have asked permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission within the last month to issue more than $225,000,000 in bonds, many millions of which will be used in carrying through the 1930 $1,050,000,000 construction and equipment program reported to President Hoover.

In March of last year applications to the commission for approval of financing amounted to only $96,958,000.

Willingness to take advantage of the lower money rates and the improvement in the bond market became apparent early in February. Since then the upturn has been marked, with a steady stream of applications pouring into the commission and reaching the peak last month.

Though a considerable part of the proceeds from the bonds is to be used for refunding maturing issues and other corporate purposes, a large percentage is to go toward the purchase of new equipment and improvements. Of the huge expenditures of which the President was informed during his business conference last December, $490,000,000 was planned for expenditure in the first six months of the year—$140,000,000 more than was expended during the first half of 1929. Approval of the bond issues is expected to permit this work to go forward with increased stimulus.

The greater percentage of interest rates on the proposed issues and those already authorized is a 4½ and 5 per cent.

In the latter days of March the Erie Railroad was permitted to issue $79,000,000 in bonds. The Pennsylvania $60,000,000, the Baltimore and Ohio $15,000,000, the St. Louis-San Francisco $8,085,000 in equipment trust certificates, and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific $4,260,000.

Applications were presented by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific to issue $15,000,000 in bonds, the Wabash to issue $15,000,000, the Nickel Plate $12,000,000, the Virginian $5,795,000, the Missouri Pacific $25,000,000 and the Boston and Maine $15,000,000.

The Pere Marquette has received authorization to issue $14,000,000 in bonds, the Louisville and Nashville $15,000,000, the Southern $3,000,000 and the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf $5,000,000.

FOR CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGE

Congressman Suggests Election Should President-Elect Die.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Amendment of the Constitution to provide for election of a President in case the President-elect should die or fail to qualify would be proposed under a resolution introduced yesterday by Chairman Cable of the House sub-committee on Presidential succession.

Under the proposed amendment the Vice President-elect would become President in either case. In a statement the Ohio representative explained that the Constitution now "stops short of taking care of any of the numerous contingencies which may arise." He said six Presidents and seven Vice Presidents had died in office and urged that machinery be set up to "forestall any stalemate of our Federal Government."

NEW MASSACHUSETTS BOOK CENSORSHIP BILL IS SIGNED

Prohibits the Sale of Publications "Which Are Obscene"; Controversy Over Interpretation.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 3.—Gov. Frank G. Allen yesterday signed the bill to prohibit the sale of those publications "which are obscene."

The measure, which may require judicial interpretation before its scope is definitely ascertained, is a compromise between the old law, which prohibited the sale of any book containing obscene words or phrases and a proposed law which passed the Senate and which would only have prohibited the sale of those books which, "taken as a whole," were obscene.

The new law is the amended Senate measure with the words "taken as a whole" stricken out. Its proponents assert that under it a defendant may be able to read the entire book to a jury for judgment on the complete work, but this point may require determination by the Supreme Court.

Under the old statute, a court or jury was allowed to consider only the words or passages complained of without reference to the rest of the book. Under it, several well-known works were barred from public sale in Massachusetts and several prominent book sellers and publishers convicted of vending obscene works.

EXCESS SCHOOL TAX CARRIED IN COUNTY

Accepted in All Districts — Kirkwood Beats Building Levy by One Vote.

Proposals to maintain school tax rates in excess of the constitutional maximum were carried in all St. Louis County districts where submitted at the annual election Tuesday, it was announced today, following tabulation of the votes.

In the Kirkwood district, however, a proposition to levy a 79-cent building and repair tax failed by one vote of receiving the required two-thirds. The vote was 1587 for and 795 against. School Board members said that only 60 per cent of the citizens who voted in the city election cast ballots in the school election held at the same time. They announced that the question would be submitted again at a special election.

Normandy district voted a $110,000 bond issue for erection of a new building by a vote of 860 to 235.

Two members were elected to the School Board for three-year terms in each district. The vote:

Maplewool District—J. E. Martin, 1787; Ralph F. Townsend, 1613; A. H. Hauser, 1521; Robert C. Elliott, 1267; George A. Sallwasser, 577. Mrs. Della C. Kaufman, with a vote of 1106 was elected to fill an unexpired term. Opposing her were Walter W. Havefield, who received 899; Udell Thompson, 838, and Oscar Winter, 688.

Kirkwood—Mrs. Bernice C. Grant, incumbent, 1854; Hollis Suits, 1568; Edmund H. Mack Jr., 902; Mrs. L. H. Sweet, 753; C. W. Wipke, 759.

Ferguson—Clifford Day, incumbent, and J. M. Vogt defeated Arthur H. Haill and Mrs. R. C. White.

Normandy—A. G. Skelly, incumbent, 741; G. F. Liese, 855; E. S. Gaskel, 531. For an unexpired term of two years, Raymond E. Talley defeated William Z. Linder, 810 to 257.

Webster Groves—E. H. Tenney, incumbent, 1090; Mrs. Leo J. Vogt, 1112; R. A. Ecoff, 318; Harold G. Sehnert, 294.

Ritenour—L. R. Engel, incumbent, 412; H. M. Powers, 381; R. J. Kettlekamp, 259.

LEINSTER DUCHESS REMANDED ON SUICIDE ATTEMPT CHARGE

Former Actress Found Half-Conscious in Gas-Filled Room in London Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 3.—Mary Fitzgerald, Duchess of Leinster, was remanded by the Lambeth Police Court today on a charge of attempting to commit suicide. She was taken to Lambeth Hospital early Tuesday morning, after having been found half-conscious in a gas-filled room in a small flat in Brixton. She was known to her neighbors simply as "Mrs. Williams."

The Duchess, wearing a brown costume, was seated while a police inspector testified that after being admitted to the house with a man named Williams, he went to the first floor and opened a small kitchenette. He said he met a strong smell of gas and saw the accused woman, attired in her night dress, lying unconscious with her head against the gas oven door. The oven door was open and the gas tap was turned on, he said.

He found two post cards written in pencil, he said, but the Magistrate declared that they could not be accepted as evidence at present.

The police officer continued that when he informed the Duchess at the hospital that he was going to arrest her, she said: "I shan't deny it."

The Duchess was released on bail of $250.

Born May Etheridge, the Duchess once was a star in Piccadilly theatricals. When the Duke of Leinster was Lord Edward Fitzgerald, she was appearing in musical comedy, and their marriage in 1913 was one of the most talked-of affairs in London.

STATE BARS TOP HAT BILL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 3.—Six unnamed Democratic Assemblymen of New York City have failed in efforts to have the State pay a bill for hire of top hats and frock coats.

The six exhibited bills showing they had hired the hats and coats to attend the funeral of Peter J. Hamill, Democratic minority leader, but State Comptroller Tremaine ruled out the claims on the ground the expense was purely personal.

30-PASSENGER PLANE IN FIVE FLIGHTS TODAY

Fokker F-32 to Go Four Times Over City and Visit Scott Field.

Fokker, F-32, largest commercial land plane in the United States, had a schedule today of four flights over the city and a visit to Scott Field, carrying members of the Chamber of Commerce Air Board, officers of the Shell Oil Co., and guests of the Western Air Express Co., which purchased the ship for use in passenger service between Los Angeles and San Francisco, Cal. The first flight, over the downtown area, was made shortly after 1 p. m.

The plane arrived at Lambert-St. Louis Field yesterday following a flight of 4½ hours from Cleveland, O. Eighteen persons are making the trip from New York to the Pacific Coast, including four young women, winners of beauty contests, who are on their way to Hollywood. Mrs. Ora Blackmore, president of the Women's Aeronautical Association, is among the passengers. The passengers and crew were received by Mayor Miller at City Hall.

The F-32 follows the familiar Fokker design, the chief difference being that the four 525-horsepower Hornet engines are mounted in tandem on either side of the fuselage. It has a wing span of 99 feet, weighs 13,800 pounds—nearly seven tons—empty, and the useful load capacity is 8700 pounds. For daylight service there are accommodations for 30 passengers and a crew of three, and for night travel 16 passengers can be accommodated in full-length berths. The overall length of the ship is 70 feet. In test flights the plane has attained a speed of 157 miles an hour.

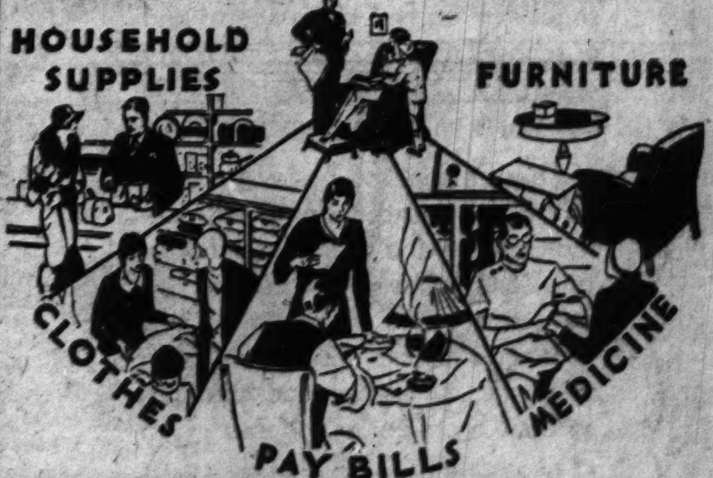
5 Here Are REASONS why you may need $200



For these or any other good reasons we will advance families $100 to $300 at 2½% per month

If you need extra money at once, "Household" will lend you $100 to $300 and give you 20 months to repay.

Here's "Household's" Plan

The "Household" Plan is available to everyone keeping house. It enables you to secure the money you need without delay, at an interest rate of 2½% a month on the unpaid principal. On this basis the interest charge on a $200 loan for one month is $5. However, if you repay on our convenient twenty month plan, the interest charge will average only $2.63 a month.

No Fines—No Fees No Deductions

When you borrow $200 from "Household" you get $200. No endorsements or outside signers are required. No red tape keeps you from getting the money you need without delay.

If scattered bills are pressing you, you owe it to yourself to see "Household"—and see "Household" first.

"Household" Service

TODAY, more than 200,000 people are customers of the Household Finance Corporation. They have taken advantage of the "Household" plan to borrow $100 to $300. During months to come thousands of old customers and thousands of new borrowers will call at "Household's" 115 branches to make new loans or renew old ones. Why? Because in the half century that "Household" has been in business it has built an enviable reputation for helping families solve their financial difficulties, rendering the type of friendly service that is inspiring confidence in the small loan business as a whole.

MURDER SUSPECT RETURNED

Ex-Convict Denies Killing Teamster in Drunken Row.

Robert Cooper, alias Dave Cupps, two-time ex-convict, brought back from Kansas City, Mo., yesterday on a warrant charging him with the murder of Lee Stout, a teamster, in a drunken row Feb. 13, 1928, denied he shot Stout, although several witnesses have identified him.

He offered an alibi that he was registered at a Chicago hotel at the time of the killing.

Shampoo the CUTICURA way

What a delightful and healthful shampoo it gives! Anoint the scalp lightly with CUTICURA OINTMENT; then make a strong suds with CUTICURA SOAP by dissolving shavings of the SOAP in hot water. Wet the hair thoroughly, then shampoo with the suds and rinse, several times, finishing with tepid or cold water. This will help to keep your scalp in a healthy condition, and your hair will be soft and lustrous.

WOMAN JUROR GIVES JOB TO WIFE OF BURGLAR

She Had Asked Court to Send Her to Prison Because She Had No Place to Go.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 3.—Nona Mae Walton, 22 years old, who tried to go to prison with her husband, James, and failed, is going to have a home. Mrs. Earl Eames of Glendale, Cal., a woman juror who voted for her husband's conviction on burglary charges, said today that the young woman had accepted a position in her home.

Mrs. Walton asked the court to send her to prison with her husband, who was convicted of transporting a stolen car from Kentucky and of robbing several stores here when he couldn't obtain work. The wife said the prospects of supporting herself were poor and she'd be lonely without her husband during his seven-year sentence. The court would not grant her request.

Presenting an Array of Fashionable Footwear for Early Spring

SPRING! with its irrepressible command to emulate Dame Nature in her joyous budding and colorful setting — suggests new raiment. The most important accessories are beautiful shoes, authentic in mode and materials; silk stockings in lovely new Spring shades — details that reflect so much of the sprightly grace and charm of the faultlessly dressed woman.

To this delightful theme Nisley Stylists have dedicated a most comprehensive group of correctly styled shoes for early Spring wear and purchases may be made with every assurance that your selection will be in tune with the moment's mode.

These distinctive Nisley patterns follow the smartest approved fashion trends—and even more important— they satisfy the desire of a constantly growing clientele of America's discriminating women for elegance, excellence and economy in their footwear purchases.

The Nisley plan of distribution through its own stores offers a variety of styles in a full range of sizes—and values that are unapproachable at the one price of five dollars. Courteous shoe fitters — experts in their line — await your pleasure.

"JOSEPHINE"

Roland M. Smythe, in 12 by 8 Office in Wall Street, Operated Without a Telephone.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Roland M. Smythe, who founded a successful career of 50 years in buying and selling extinct and obsolete securities and appraising their value, died yesterday at his home in Brooklyn. Death was due to acute indigestion. He was 75 years old.

Mr. Smythe was perhaps the only man in Wall Street who had no telephone. He had not had one for 40 years. And for almost that long he had bickered with the telephone company to include his name in their directory as "Roland-Smythe, No. 1 Broadway—NO TELEPHONE," to no avail.

But, he often said, it hampered his extraordinary business not a bit. Time was when Roland Smythe, no telephone, had had one. That was back in the eigthties, after his graduation from Columbia University, when he was a broker on the New York Stock Exchange and a partner in a firm that handled much of the business of James R. Keene.

Beautifully Engraved Promises.

Later when he just drifted into dealing in worthless securities after he had discovered that there was a large market for them, he dispensed with the accoutrements of progress. His office today, a dusty cairn of corporate ghosts and thousands of beautifully engraved broken promises, is a 12 by 8 space of old New York up in the Produce Building.

There are literally thousands of stories connected with his curious traffic that Roland Smythe, no telephone, could have told and often did tell. Yarns of unexpected wealth gained by purchasers of his goods when new life was breathed into their long defunct holdings.

Smythe once sold the notorious 525 per cent Miller $20,000,000 worth of hopeless but beautifully scrolled stocks for $600, and later had to tell a court where Miller had purchased the pretty things with which he had fooled the gullible.

A doctor in Yonkers once bought for $40 a stock of coal mining stocks with which to paper his study. Coal was later discovered in some of these holdings and the doctor received $14,000 for a section of newly papered wall.

Appraised Defunct Securities.

But Mr. Smythe's main business was appraising defunct securities. He wrote two authoritative books on the subject. One of the books, "Valuable Extinct Securities," is considered a bible in many downtown banking houses.

Originally Roland Smythe hailed from Dublin. His father was once Lord Mayor of the Irish city and good, Irish, fun-loving blood ran in the son's veins. It is not surprising, then, that Roland was something of a practical joker.

Once he upset John F. Hylan, then Mayor, and the Missing Persons Bureau of the Police Departmen by asking them to look for "Twelve missing aliens." The aliens, Smythe later disclosed, were Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issacher, Zebulun, Joseph, Benjamin, Dan, Naphtali, Gad and Asher, whom students of the Bible recognize to be the 12 sons of Jacob.

Mr. Smythe is survived by his widow and one son.

Cruze, Inc., Sued in Bankruptcy.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 3.—Creditors of James Cruze, Inc., motion picture producing company, filed an involuntary bankruptcy petition in Federal Court yesterday. Total claims were listed at $9935 by these creditors, including a cafe, a sound studio and a motion picture material supply company. James Cruze, director, was an officer of James Cruze, Inc.

REPORTER KILLED IN GLIDER

Failed to Release Tow-line When Auto Swerved.

By the Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 3.—George Gambrien, 26 years old, newspaper reporter, was killed yesterday in a glider crash on a farm north of here. Gambrien, an aviator, took his first ride in the glider last Friday. Since then he had made four flights in the craft.

J. J. Mitchener Jr., a pilot, who was watching the flight, said the crash was caused when an automobile which was towing the craft with a 500-foot rope, swerved to avoid a haystack. This caused the rope to slacken. Gambien, instead of pressing the trigger that would have released the glider, Mitchener said, nosed the motorless plane upward. At a height of 100 feet, the rope jerked taut, Mitchener said, and a portion of the glider wing crumpled. The craft nosedived to the ground.

PENNEY DENIES CHAINS INJURE INDEPENDENTS

Tells Kiwanis Club That Their Interests Are Identical, Place for Both.

James Cash Penney, chairman of the board of the J. C. Penney Co., chain-store organization operating more than 900 retail stores in all the states of the Union, spoke today to the Kiwanis Club, at its luncheon at Hotel Jefferson, on "The Independent and the Chain Store."

Penney, a native Missourian, 54 years old, told of the growth of his company from one store, started on $500 cash and a note for $1500 in a town of 2000 inhabitants in Wyoming, to its present proportions, in 28 years. The story of the rise of the Penney enterprises and of the creation of a group of "Penney millionaires," one of them the late Dayton H. Mudd of St. Louis, has been told in featured articles in the Post-Dispatch in recent years.

"We hear from time to time," Penney said in his luncheon talk, "that the chain store is going to drive the independent store out of business, or that the independent store is going to eliminate the chain store. It is stated that the two types of store are antagonistic: that they are radically opposed. These statements are not founded on fact nor are they supported by sound reasoning. Such statements have, in nearly every instance, come from men without the background of proved ability in the world of retail selling. In some instances they may be traced to political sources, usually with a tax measure as their background; in other instances they may be traced to individuals who are stirring up prejudice for the sake of personal gain.

Interests Are Identical.

"In their common purpose, the desire to make success; in the common aim, that of serving the community in a manner which will build confidence and win patronage, the interests of the chain store and the independent store are identical.

"Neither has anything to fear from the other. Both must conduct a clean, efficient business; must be honest in their intentions; must be interested in the town that supports them, and must be members in good standing in the commercial family of the town. Failing in these basic principles of community service, no merchant can hope to exist, regardless of artificial aid.

"Traced through their development, the successful chain store groups of today lead back to a single store which prospered. Back of that store may be found an individual who followed a natural inclination to increase his field of service.

"The statement that a chain store system can buy success in any community through the exercise of its financial strength is not supported by fact. The greatest strength that the chain store organizations offer the individual manager is the pooling of the experience of many merchants in avoiding the mistakes which cause retail failure. This aid is given to the store manager in the form of training.

Advantages of Each.

"Chain stores have the advantage in some instances which are the natural results of organized buying, with an increase in the number of units in a chain system come savings in the cost of handling merchandise. Volume business makes available for the chains, the service of men skilled in buying, merchandising, transportation, accounting and advertising at low cost per unit.

"On the other hand the alert, independent merchant has a real advantage in his wide freedom to adapt his methods and merchandise to his customers and to his local community.

"If we analyze what happens to be the customer's dollar, the independent and the chain show a marked similarity in the dollar's distribution. The largest part of the dollar goes to the manufacturer, jobber, wholesaler or other sources of supply. Because of buying economies on the part of chain stores, the independent merchant sends more of his dollar out of town to the original source of supply than does the chain store.

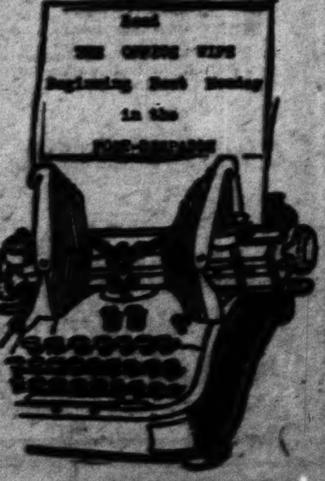
"After costs of merchandise and interest charges have been met, a part of the customer's dollar goes directly back into the city where it was spent in the form of payroll. This is divided by the employe into living costs, other expenditures and savings in local banks.

Nothing for Wall Street.

"A part of the customer's dollar also goes for contributions, local taxes, advertising in local newspapers, store improvements and other expenses. The balance represents store earnings.

"But there is, in the dollar which goes to the chain store, a definite contribution to local prosperity made through savings effected by the customer in lower prices. These savings benefit the local community through increased buying power afforded to the customer. They add to the funds deposited in local savings accounts.

"A study of the earnings of any chain store system, will reveal the facts that they represent a net margin on their volume, that is less than would be considered a fair profit by any local merchant. Not even this small part of the customer's dollar, represented by profits, is dispatched to Wall street; instead it is distributed in the form of stock dividend among the stockholders who are scattered throughout the country."



To Study Roof Plane Landings.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 3.—A committee of flying experts today was under instruction by the city of Los Angeles to study the practicability of establishing airplane landing fields on roofs of downtown buildings. Among points to be investigated are the effects of irregular building heights on air currents, and the possibility of limiting erection of towers.

MISSIONARIES REFUSE TO PAY RANSOM FOR RELEASE OF 3

Say to Do So Would Endanger Every Foreigner in the Interior of China.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, April 3.—The China Inland Mission headquarters here refused today to pay ramson to bandits for the release of the Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Porteous of England and Miss Nina E. Gemmell of Girard, Kan. To do so, said the headquarters officials, "would endanger every foreigner in the interior of China and place a premium upon kidnaping."

The three missionaries, captured last Thursday by bandits who looted the city of Yuanchow, Kiangsi Province, are held in the brigands' mountains camp, southwest of Yuanchow, stated a telegram received from a missionary at Changsha, Hunan Province. The captives, said the telegram, were accompanied by Chinese friends who were acting as negotiators between the China Inland Mission and the bandits in the latter's demand for ransoms of $20,000, Mexican, for each captive. The exact whereabouts of the bandit camp was kept secret.

Bishop D. T. Huntington of the American church mission, who arrived here from Wuhu, Anhwei Province, said that several missionary families had reached Wuhu from Nanchang, Kiangsi, because of the tense bandit situation.

Attorney-General Mitchell Would Leave Classification of Minor Violations to Courts.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Opposition to modification of the Jones law which provides heavy maximum penalties for violations of the prohibition statutes, has been filed with the House Judiciary Committee by Attorney-General Mitchell.

In a confidential communication, he objected particularly to a measure by Congressman Stobbs (Rep.), Massachusetts, to modify the law by defining slight and casual offenders and fixing the maximum penalty for such offenses at six months' imprisonment and a fine of $500. The Jones statute, he said, should have a longer trial period.

At the same time, the Attorney-General disapproved two bills by Congressman Christopherson (Rep.), South Dakota, embodying plans for defining felonies and misdemeanors under the United States code and for setting up juryless trials before United States Commissioners as had been recommended by the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission.

Suggests Several Changes.

He approved in general two other bills written by Christopherson and recommended to Congress by the Hoover commission to relieve congestion in Federal Courts, but suggested several changes in these.

The committee failed to agree today on proposals of the law enforcement commission, and deferred action until next Wednesday, when a decision on whether they will be approved is planned.

Predictions were made that the commission's bills to broaden the powers of the United States commissioners to hold juryless trials and to define misdemeanors under the dry laws would fail of committee approval.

Chairman Graham said the committee wanted to insist in formulating measures to bring about better law enforcement, but added "We refuse to rush action on measures that would result in unscientific legislation."

Some members of the committee reported after the executive meeting that they virtually had consented to drop the commission recommendations and to favor the appointment of additional Federal Judges.

The Attorney-General would have the commission plan for trials by United States Commissioners operative in district courts only when the Judges order it, with the commissioners who would conduct trials specifically designated. He urged that the maximum penalty for slight or casual violations be fixed at six months in jail, a $1000 fine or both. Leaving the classification of minor cases to the discretion of the courts.

In addition the Attorney-General favored the modification of one commission measure by eliminating a provision which would give District Attorneys authority to proceed against a dry law offender on a felony charge after being tried before a commissioner for a misdemeanor.

"The chairman of the commission," Mitchell wrote, "informs me that he has no objection to these suggestions."

Fears Reduction in Penalties.

With reference to the Stobbs bill, that the result of the enactment of the measure "will be to reduce the penalties for substantial violations, such as manufacture, sale and transportation, to a point below the penalties provided before the enactment of the Jones law."

Mitchell said the bill was a departure from the commission's proposal because it "undertakes to define a separate and distinct class of offenses," and takes them out from under the operation of the Jones law.

He contended that the Jones law should not be changed because it was enacted only a year ago, and added that "sufficient time has not elapsed to determine the efficacy of the increased penalties under that law, which provide a maximum fine of $10,000 and five years' imprisonment. Members of the Law Enforcement Commission had recommended modification of the Jones statute.

Leniency Rather Than Severity.

"It has been the experience of the Justice Department," the letter said, "that both United States attorneys and judges have, in general, carefully observed the admonition of Congress to deal fairly, according to the character of the offense. The departures from that policy consist rather in leniency than in severity."

Depositions of 6 Contractors Disclose That Jennings and Chapline Dominate the Business.

Labor Charge on All Jobs Fixed by Listing Bureau and Members Are Compelled to Obey Order.

WHAT PROPERTY OWNER PAYS FOR IN HIS BILL FOR ELECTRICAL WORK

IN their testimony before the Attorney-General's examiner, electrical contractors, after telling how prices for electrical installation had been increased since last July, related how the bill is footed up now for property owners, as follows:

Cost of material.

Cost of labor at $16 a day for journeymen, which includes a charge of $2.80 a day for the worker's life and annuity insurance.

Liability insurance for the contractor's protection.

Following the practice adopted by the Electrical Approval Board last July, the contractor totals the foregoing items, and then adds 33 1-3 per cent for his profit.

To the total of costs and profit is added 3 per cent for the Electrical Listing Bureau's fees.

The "new era in the electrical contracting business, which began nine months ago under the direction of Orville E. Jennings, international union representative, and Chester H. Chapline, contractor, not only failed to relieve conditions resulting from the unorthodox practices of Business Agent Arthur Schading, but also led to Attorney-General Shartel's charges that electrical contractors and union workers in St. Louis are operating in a combination to fix prices and restrain trade that has "improperly and unreasonably increased building costs."

Testimony will be taken at Jefferson City, beginning next Monday, to determine whether the Missouri anti-trust statutes are being violated. In the event sufficient evidence is obtained to warrant prosecution, Shartel will proceed against the organizations and individuals involved.

Much of the information on which the Attorney-General acted was obtained in depositions of contractors, whose high hopes for peace in the industry were blasted in a manner which they say threatens their very business existence. Six witnesses who appeared before Shartel's examiners, fearing union reprisals, asked that their identity be withheld until their subsequent appearance at Jefferson City hearings.

Testimony of Witnesses.

Jennings and Chapline, who is president of the Chapline Electric Co., president of the Electrical Approval Board, and secretary of the Electrical Employers' Association, "run" the industry.

The two-year working agreement with Local Union No. 1 calling for a labor charge of $16 a day, of which $2.80 is for insurance for employes, was forced on the contractors by Jennings, who threatened "to pull the men out of the shops."

Similar methods were used to force unwilling contractors to join the Electrical Approval Board and the Electrical Listing Bureau.

An arbitrary profit of 33 1-3 per cent must be charged on all contracts.

Contractors must accept workmen designated by union officials to the extent of laying off steady employes.

The Listing Bureau frowns on jobs taken on "time and material" basis, with the result that such agreements must be made "sub rosa."

Members have no voice in appointing officers of the Electrical Approval Board and the Listing Bureau and are not informed of the disposition of the various dues they must pay.

Testimony of Witnesses.

Jennings and Chapline, who is president of the Chapline Electric Co., president of the Electrical Approval Board, and secretary of the Electrical Employers' Association, "run" the industry.

The two-year working agreement with Local Union No. 1 calling for a labor charge of $16 a day, of which $2.80 is for insurance for employes, was forced on the contractors by Jennings, who threatened "to pull the men out of the shops."

Similar methods were used to force unwilling contractors to join the Electrical Approval Board and the Electrical Listing Bureau.

An arbitrary profit of 33 1-3 per cent must be charged on all contracts.

Contractors must accept workmen designated by union officials to the extent of laying off steady employes.

The Listing Bureau frowns on jobs taken on "time and material" basis, with the result that such agreements must be made "sub rosa."

Members have no voice in appointing officers of the Electrical Approval Board and the Listing Bureau and are not informed of the disposition of the various dues they must pay.

Three Groups Formed Last Year.

As is known, the Attorney-General instituted proceedings against Jennings, Chapline, the Electrical Employers' Association, Electrical Protective Association, Electrical Approval Board, and Electrical Listing Bureau.

The last three groups were organized last year, with much the same organization methods being used in each instance, investigators were told. When some contractors balked at becoming a party to the Electrical Protective Association, set up by the union, they testified that Jennings told them, "Sign up or we will take your men away and make 'skates' out of you."

A number of the same contractors showed a disposition to carry on their business without the help of the Approval Board and the Listing Bureau, but say they signed up when the threat to make "skates" (nonunion contractors) of them was repeated.

Jennings was nearly as active in the organization of the Listing Bureau and the Approval Board, contractors' organization, a s he was in establishing the Protective Association, the contractors testified. He also campaigned a bit for the Employers' Association, being quoted by some contractors as stating, "I want to see you in the Employers' Association, because that is the only organization I'm dealing with."

"You Have to Ask Teacher."

One contractor, who was called in by Chapline to explain "time and material" work in which he was engaged, testified that Chapline told him, "I don't know what Mr. O. E. would do about these things; they are so contrary to the rules." A representative of Local No. 1, who was present, added, "We had better for[illegible] about this, because if we take it up with Mr. O. E. there will be drastic action; he is not going to tolerate this."

"It's just like being in kindergarten; you have to ask teacher," the contractor explained.

Membership in the Approval Board costs the contractor from $5 to $40 a month, depending on whether he is a "big leaguer" or a "busher." "You are catching balls from the big leaguers, but are not throwing big-league balls," is the way it was testified. Chapline suggested to a contractor, who was engaged in a profitable piece of work, that his dues in the Approval Board would henceforth be $40 a month instead of $10.

The functions of the Approval Board duplicate the inspection service of the Underwriters Association and the City Building Department, the contractors asserted. One of the "benefits" of the Approval Board, a contractor told the investigators, "is to tell the men not to work too fast."

"An average electrician can put in two circuits a day," the contractor testified. "I understand they preach one circuit in two days, which increases the cost of the construction accordingly."

All plans must be passed by the Approval Board before work starts particular attention being given to charges for labor and profit, the contractors testified. A contractor who took a large "time and material job said he had to show the plans to Chapline, who was quoted by the contractor as saying, "Your percentage is not enough. The contractor declared he was satisfied with his profit.

Contractor Balked, Shop "Pulled."

Subsequently, this contractor related, Henry Koenig, business agent for Local No. 1, informed him that the union would assign all the

Britain to Avoid Any Action On Soviet Church Policy That May Cause Diplomatic Break

Cabinet Spokesman So Declares in House of Lords Debate—Prelate Urges That Representations Be Made to Moscow.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 3.—The British Government, through Lord Parmoor, yesterday reiterated in the House of Lords its determination not to take any action on the religious situation in Russia which might lead to severance of diplomatic relations.

This statement was made in reply to the most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury. The primate of the Church of England had told the House an elaborate system of persistent oppression of religion in Russia was a proven fact. He suggested representations should be made to Moscow.

The Archbishop said he had been investigating conditions for months and four judicial-minded men had helped him sift the evidence from many sources. The Russian official press had been studied thoroughly and a mass of information had been obtained from leaders of the orthodox church, Baptists and Jews.

71 Sentenced to Death.

The many reports of eye witnesses convinced Dr. Lang that the unvarying aim of the Communist party was to create a world based on unflinching materialism and containing no place for divinity.

Seventy-one persons were sentenced to be shot last year, stated the Archbishop, and 112 persons were imprisoned for two to 10 years because of their part in promoting religion. He denied that criticism of the Soviet Government implied a threat of war and suggested that the British Government bring to the attention of the Soviet the following points:

Religious servants should be granted equality of civic rights with other persons;

Workmen should be given the opportunity to observe Sundays in a religious sense;

Religious instruction or the printing and circulation of religious books should be allowed;

Restrictions should be removed from the teaching of religion to children;

Religious servants now in prisons should be released;

Lord Parmoor's Reply.

Lord Parmoor refused to accept, in its entirety, the picture painted by the Archbishop. He said it was beyond the hope of any government to ascertain, with accuracy, the happenings in Russia, but he admitted there had been "a terrible amount" of religious persecution last year, although he believed things had changed for the better since.

"We will use all our influence in support of religious liberty," Lord Parmoor promised, "but we do not intend, unless the conditions attached to the recognition of the Soviet Government are infringed, to sever diplomatic relations, or weaken the opportunity thereby afforded, of influencing religious conditions in Russia."

Lord Parmour said that education was purely an internal concern in which no outside Government had the right to interfere, without first having overwhelming proof of wrongs so grave that they became the just concern of the whole civilized world. There must also be the certainty that intervention would not increase the evil.

Lord Parmoor promised the points brought forward by the Archbishop would be considered carefully by the Foreign Office. He declined, however, to publish communications on the subject from the British Ambassador at Moscow.

Not a Party Question.

Lord Brentford, the former Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary in the late Baldwin Cabinet, did not consider the matter a party or political question and suggested the Government should ask the Soviet, in a friendly manner, to consider the points made by the Archbishop.

Lord Buckmaster considered political action dangerous. He pointed out that in 1906 when the religious question was the isue of the hour in France and Rene Viviani declaimed in the French Chamber of Deputies, "we have extinguished the lights of heaven; lights which never shall be relighted," the British Government had taken no action. He regarded the collapse of the church in Russia was due not solely to the action of the Soviet, but largely to the fact that the church had never been deeply rooted in Russian hearts.

Lord Ponsonby, one of the foremost figures of the Labor party, did not question the accuracy of the primate's statements, but believed, if the question were to be kept outside of politics and upon a high plane, the House of Lords was the wrong place to discuss it.

"We must give up any attempt to understand the Soviet system which indulges in this damnable, intolerant religious persecution," he said and with these words the debate ended.

STALIN RADICALLY CHANGES SOVIET'S PEASANT POLICY

To Save Collectivization Scheme He Makes Concessions on Taxes and Debts—Extends Credit.

CORRECTING ERRORS OF OTHERS, HE SAYS

In Seeking to Halt Rural Exodus He Calls Farmers "Heroes" Who Have Joined in His Plan.

MOSCOW, April 3.—The Government today announced a number of sweeping concessions to peasants who remain loyal to the collective farm movement or return to the collective farms following the recent exodus which resulted from the new policy to appease them.

The privileges, which are intended to save the Government's monumental agricultural collectivization scheme from any possibility of failure, include:

1. Exemption from taxation, for a period of two years, of all cattle, horses, hogs and poultry belonging both to individual farmers and members of the collective farms.

2. Postponement until the end of the harvest of all outstanding debts of collective farmers.

3. Cancellation of all fines and court judgments imposed upon such farmers before April 1 for faliure to carry out the Government's agriculutre plans.

4. Extension of credit by the Government of 500,000,000 rubles (about $250,000,000) to the collective farmers.

Forcible Means Forbidden.

Government officials are forbidden under this decree from levying forcible contributions upon peasants for the purchase of tractors, from obliging peasants to deposit money in savings banks against their wish, anl from depriving members of the collective farms who go to the cities for seasonal work of a larger percentage of their earnings than is provided by law.

No such far-reaching concessions have been made to the peasantry in the 13 years of the revolution, and they are considered here to mark a change in communistic policy. Whether the changes are only temporary expedients to check the present withdrawal of peasants from the collective farms, or are a permanent means of fortifying the Government, has not been indicated.

Coincident with these changes in policy, Joseph Stalin, head of the Communist party, occupies the entire front page of Soviet newspapers today in explaining the Government's recent abrupt turn in carrying out its agricultural plans.

He insists that the change in policy does not constitute retreat, but simply involves the correcting of mistakes and excesses committed by over-zealous Government and party officials, who were "drunk with the success" of the collectivization movement.

"From Poverty and Misery."

Admitting that gerat numbers of peasants already have deserted the collective farms, Stalin declares that even if the Government achieves collectivization of 43 per cent of the peasant households, instead of the 60 per cent figure previously set, the Government by this spring will have exceeded by 50 per cent the estimates of the five-year plan of collectivization.

Stalin then enumerates the new concessions extended members of the collective farms and declares that collectivization is the only

NEW PLANET PHOTOGRAPHED AT CAIRO, EGYPT, OBSERVATORY

By the Associated Press.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 3.—A photograph taken at the Helouan Observatory confirmed, it was stated today, existence of the trans-neptune planet recently discovered by the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz.

Photographs of the planet were taken March 17, 24 and 27, the body appearing on the plates after an hour's exposure.

The planet is less brilliant than Neptune, but it apparently is larger than the earth.

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., April 3.—Astronomers at Lowell Observatory, who recently announced discovery of the trans-Neptunian planet, said to day that doubts of the planet's existence as expressed by some European scientists, had caused no deviation in the observatory's continued investigation of the planet.

"Since its discovery we have been following it continuously," Dr. V. M. Slipher, director, said. "Dr. C. O. Lampland has made scores of plates and has observed it through the large refractory telescope.

"As the object has been followed and it sorbit computed it has behaved exactly as expected. It has been following the course that the trans-Neptunian plane would follow, according to computations of Dr. Percipal Lowell. Its motion, from the time it kas first picked up until today has been along the trans-Neptunian path."

MEXICO CITY, April 3.—The Mexican Geographical Society has sugested the name "Newton" for the new trans-Neptune planet, thus honoring the discoverer of the law of gravitation.

BYRD'S FLAGSHIP HOVE TO FOR 30 HOURS IN STORM

(Copyright by the New York Times and St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

ON BOARD THE CITY OF NEW YORK, April 2.—In spite of the sun's trying to break through an overcast sky for the first time in two days and a rising barometer, which should be an omen of moderate weather, we are still in the grip of the terrible storm known to seamen as "the scourge." The wind remains east-south with a velocity of 75 to 90 miles an hour and tremendous seas still toss the ship about.

We remain hove to after 30 hours, on the starboard tack under goose-winged main lower topsail and storm trysail.

Although the vessel is still the excellent sea boat it has always proved itself to be, the main deck has been continually awash due to the leeward roll. Only by the use of oil bags to windward have we prevented the seas from breaking over it.

We estimate our drift within the last 24 hours while hove to to be about 75 miles to the west northwest. During the storm we have been unable to ascertain our position definitely.

Australia Taxes Luxury Imports.

By the Associated Press.

CANBERRA, Australia, April 3.—Premier Scullin has announced impostion of a 50 per cent super-tax on luxury imports. Imports of some luxuries are absolutely forbidden under the new restriction. The luxury lines on which the super-tax is to be imposed include all spirits, beverages, matches and piece goods under the heading of textiles, felts, manufacturers thereof, and attire other than piece goods in knitted tabular form of cotton-silk or containing silk and artificial silks, or being an admixture of wool and other fibers.

COSGRAVE RE-ELECTED BY FREE STATE DAIL

Again Chosen Head of Cabinet, After De Valera and O'Connell Are Beaten.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 3—William T. Cosgrave, re-elected President of the Free State Council of Ministers, this afternoon named a Cabinet of the same personnel as his ministry when he resigned last week, after defeat in the Dail on an opposition measure.

He was re-elected by the Dail Eireann last night by a vote of 80 to 65. In two preceding ballots his two opponents, Eamon de Valera of the Fianna Fail, and Thomas J. O'Connell, Labor leader, were eliminated, De Valera by a vote of 93 to 54, and O'Connell by a poll of 78 to 13.

Cosgrave's name was proposed after De Valera, who is in the United States on a lecture tour, had been defeated and O'Connell had been voted down.

The President of the Irish Free State is not President in the American sense, but is President of the Cabinet Council, whose members he appoints from the membership of the Dail, and which is responsible to the Dail. The nominal head of the Government is the Governor-General, appointed by the crown, James MacNeill.

When President Cosgrave's ministry fell last week it had survived since 1922, passing a general election unscathed, and had attained a record for longevity among European Cabinets. It fell by a vote of 66 to 64 on an opposition bill extending old age pensions.

NORRIS ASSAILS PROPOSED MUSCLE SHOALS LEASE

McKELLAR BRINGS IN HOOVER'S NAME

Thinks President Should Repudiate Worthington's Suggestion He Would Veto Nebraskan's Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Concluding a two-day appeal for his resolution providing Government operation of Muscle Shoals, Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, assailed the Power Trust in the Senate today for what he termed its control of the national resources.

The Power Trust, through false and misleading propaganda, he said, had gone to every municipality, the churches, the lodges, the schools, into Boy Scout organizations, and women's societies to poison the minds against Government operation.

The assertion that there had been more "skulduggery" in connection with Shoals legislation than in anything else since he had been in Washington was by Senator Heflin (Dem.), Alabama, who followed Norris.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The 10-year-old struggle over Muscle Shoals was resumed in the Senate yesterday, a few hours after the Lobby Investigating Committee had unearthed a memorandum from a member of the power-chemical lobby, jubilantly predicting that President Hoover would veto the Norris bill for Government operation of the Government plant in the event Congress should pass it.

This development drew from Senator McKellar (Dem.), Tennessee, a suggestion that the President repudiate intimations that his attitude on the Muscle Shoals question had been influenced by his connection with Claudius H. Huston, Republican national chairman, who until lately lobbied actively before Congress in behalf of power and chemical interests seeking possession of the property.

Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, opened the debate. In a vigorous three-hour speech he pleaded for the adoption of his bill, under which the Government would operate the plant, generating power for sale to municipalities and farm organizations, and carrying on experiments in the manufacture of fertiliser. With equal vigor he assailed the Wright-Madden bill, whereby the plant would be turned over for 50 years to the American Cyanamid Co. and the Union Carbide Co. on terms that would give the Government a return of less than 3 per cent on its $12,000,000 investment.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Opposes Mr. Meade's Plan.

To the Editor f the Post-Dispatch.

MR. MEADE'S proposal that service cars be removed from the streets in favor of the busses is indeed an imposition on the public. Does Mr. Meade wish control of all the streets? This, in effect, is the proposition he is making.

I hope our Aldermen can see through his scheme. The city needs men who will circumvent any condition such as this. The transportation problem of the city demands men of great vision, men who will not give the streets into the hands of transportation pirates.

We have had our lesson in the gas and electric grabs, or will we ever learn?

To bar any other means of travel except under the supervision of some one company is commercial suicide. H. N.

Mr. Wall's Name Is Not Mentioned.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN a writeup of the new St. Louis Waterworks in the current number of City Beautiful, no mention is made of E. E. Wall. Why? He was the master mind of the enterprise.

FAIR PLAY.

Army and Navy Are Not Reformatories.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I READ the letter published March 31 under the heading "A Severe Judgment." The letter had reference to five youths who received 25 years apiece at Hillsboro, Mo., for stealing automobiles. The writer, in commenting upon the sentence received by these youths, makes the statement that a combination sentence of one year in a reformatory and four years in the Army or Navy would give the boys a chance.

The Army and Navy are not reformatories for criminals and incorrigible youth, and under no circumstances would this class of men be accepted for military service in either the army or navy.

JOHN KEITH.

A Lost Dog.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WE had a dog who was my daughter's playmate. The dog had a good home and was loved sincerely by all, and now she has disappeared. We have advertised in the papers and looked everywhere. Why don't people who find a stray dog try to find the rightful owner? This dog loves the girl she belongs to and certainly must miss her. If people would only keep the Golden Rule regarding lost articles. We certainly can't keep anything not belonging to us and have a clear conscience. Any person wanting a dog can get one without keeping one some other person has had from a tiny pup. G. ARTHUR KLEIN.

THE MUSCLE SHOALS WAR.

The American Cyanamid Co. spent $165,706 in its efforts to lease Muscle Shoals from the Government. This information was given to the Senate Lobby Committee by the president of the company, W. B. Bell. The greater part of the money—$99,158—went to three New York law firms. The firm of Charles Evans Hughes, recently appointed Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, received $19,031. Another firm, that of Bond, Schoeneck & King, $67,000. The third fee of $13,127 was paid to J. L. Andrews.

"In consulting Judge Hughes," said Mr. Bell, "we thought we were getting the best advice we could obtain." The witness then explained that Mr. Hughes advised that the contract be embodied in an act of Congress rather than negotiated through a Government official.

It will be generally agreed, we assume, that Mr. Bell correctly esteemed Mr. Hughes' advice as the best obtainable. Certainly Mr. Hughes' professional rating is the highest. That being so, there may be some curiosity as to the modest $19,000 fee of the Hughes firm in contrast with the $67,000 paid Bond, Schoeneck & King. There may be public curiosity, too, as to why three law firms should have to be employed in negotiating a Government contract. Is the matter of doing business with the Government such an intricate, difficult procedure that the party of the second part must be guided, flanked, chaperoned and bodyguarded by lawyers?

Another question: Does the total of $165,706 expended by the American Cyanamid Co. include the $36,100 contributed by the Union Carbide Co. to Claudius Huston in the mistaken assumption it was to be used to advance the American Cyanamid Co.'s bid?

It is a long, long story, this battle for Muscle Shoals. It might be called "The Ten Years' War." It started with Mr. Ford's bid, in which the motor car manufacturer offered the Government something like 6 cents on the dollar for the property, as calculated by Gifford Pinchot.

It was in this connection, because of collateral developments, with which Mr. Ford, of course, had nothing whatever to do, that the late Theodore Burton, then a member of the House, declared that "compared to Muscle Shoals, Teapot Dome would be a bagatelle." It is of record that the House gayly approved the Ford bid, which, in all probability, would have gone through the Senate but for the informed, analytical and convincing opposition of Senator Norris.

How a reluctant Congress was won over to the Norris plan for the Government operation of this great Government-owned property is also a matter of history, as well as its suffocation by Mr. Coolidge's pocket veto. Now the Norris plan is again before the Senate by way of a resolution whose early adoption is predicted.

The case for the Norris plan is as valid and unanswerable today as at any previous time. Here is an immense hydro-electric power plant in which the Government's investment is, approximately, $180,000,000. What a fair price for hydro-electric power is in the United States is not known. What is known is that a Canadian plant of comparable magnitude is operated successfully by the Government at rates substantially lower than those charged by private enterprise in this country.

In this instance a Government investment is not proposed. The Government has already made the investment. The only experiment is that of Government operation. And the purpose of that experiment is to ascertain the cost of producing and distributing power, so that the Government may know whether the private power companies are dealing fairly with the public or charging excessive prices. Since hydro-electric power is to be one of the vital industrial agencies of the future, the Norris plan for the operation of Muscle Shoals appears to be the sensible thing to do.

Private interests, it is obvious, have tenaciously clung to the hope that eventually they would get Muscle Shoals. That hope, we imagine, is expiring now. The American Cyanamid Co.'s effort is the last gasp.

ART AND THE AUDIENCE.

A familiar legend of the theater is that of the manuscript which has gone the endless rounds, suffered any number of rejections, gathered dust in neglected pigeonholes, given a chance at last by some desperate gambler, when it blooms into instantaneous and enduring success. Mr. Otis Skinner explains this phenomenon. Nobody knows anything final about a play—playwright, producer or actor—until it has gone "through the crucible of collaboration between the audience and the actor." With further emphasis, Mr. Skinner asserts, "It is the audience that teaches us how to act, how to play." So old Walt Whitman may have been right when he rumbled, "To have great poets we must have great audiences, too."

THE AGONIES OF CONTRACT.

If something isn't done about contract bridge pretty soon nobody will be speaking to anybody else. That is what a writer in the Saturday Evening Post foreshadows. Auction was no mean performer in promoting acrid controversy, blasphemies and tears, but such diversions were mostly restricted to the family. Not so with contract. Perfect strangers bandy epithets across the table right off the reel in which such terms as idiot and imbecile are mere preliminary gestures.

From the discussion so bellicosely headed "Clubs and Daggers," we gather that there are 8379 recognized contract authorities, no two of whom agree as to what the original bidder imparts to his partner. The authorities themselves, it seems, are "variable as the shade by the light, quivering aspen made." Conventions sealed with finality in a book published, say this afternoon, are hanged, drawn, quartered and cremated in the volume completed the next morning. And since contract is nothing short of war, pestilence and famine, except partners understand literally and precisely what every bid means, the present confusion is necessarily spreading desolation over the hearthstones.

We indulge the hope that we are no stony-hearted visitor from Mars looking disinterestedly at the irate, profane men and haggard, wilted women entangled in the coils of contract bridge. We feel that we can bleed as quickly and freely for the sorrows of humanity as anyone. But the agonies of the contract addicts leave us unmoved. Why any rational person ever tries that abominable game a second time is beyond our intellectuals. Once is enough, it seems to us, for any wayfarer who desires to live on terms of amity with his contemporaries during the brief fitful fever.

MISSOURI AND PROTECTION.

"Missouri is a protection state," says the Springfield Leader. She therefore does not resent the part consistently played by Senator Patterson in saddling a $1,000,000,000 tariff increase on the backs of the American people. Nor does she blame Senator Hawes for deserting the coalition to vote for the rayon and coal tar increases and casting the deciding vote in favor of a tariff of $1.50 per 1000 feet on lumber. Says the Leader:

> If the Post-Dispatch thinks Patterson will be any the less thought of by his Missouri constituents in lining up with the real protectionists in the writing of a new tariff law, it has another think coming.

We are afraid the Leader does not know the people of Missouri as well as it should know them living down in the heart of the State. As they do not like to have their houn' dogs kicked around, they are resentful of having their market baskets booted about. Missouri does not raise either sugar beets or sugar cane. She therefore has nothing to gain by helping to put another $30,000,000 into the sugar bowls of the United States. She is a negligible wool grower and producer of wool rags, and therefore can only contribute to the $125,000,000 increase which the new tariff puts upon clothing. Her cement industry does not need the additional $60,000,000 added to the nation's cement bill. She has no rayon mills, and so cannot benefit by the $50,000,000 added to the rayon bills of the American people. Her chemical industry is already rich and prosperous, and for her to have had any part in adding $50,000,000 to the medicine bills of the sick is an outrage. Missouri will pay through the nose for her share of the extra $55,000,000 for lumber, $30,000,000 for chinaware, $20,000,000 for tiling and $15,000,000 for brick. It will be all going out and nothing coming in.

We will know more about where Missouri stands in this matter when the bills begin to come in. Our Senators will have to show us.

BERLIN'S EDUCATED FISH.

From Berlin University comes the first real fish story of the season, and an unbeatable one it is. Investigators there, remembering that fish are often found in schools, decided to make scientific use of that fact by teaching them to read. First they were put through a color test. Different kinds of food were placed in bags of various colors, which the quick-witted fish soon learned to open by pulling the strings. They soon got the idea of the colors, going back to the same bags time and again for a snack of their favorite fish food. To make matters a bit more complicated, letters of the alphabet were placed on the bags. The subjects responded not only by learning in a few days to distinguish "A" from "Z," but, what is much more difficult for an untutored fish, to tell "B" from "R."

This educational process could go until it is necessary to bait a hook with nothing more than one installment of a continued story, using worms only for elderly specimens which have developed eye strain, the poor fish. The finny intelligentsia should be careful about their reading matter, however. Senator Smoot is likely to come along and take most of it away from them.

REPEAL AND MODIFICATION.

Objection is made by Albert S. Ennis of Festus, Mo., to our statement that 72 per cent of the Literary Digest votes to date are against prohibition. Mr. Ennis says in his letter of yesterday that it is unfair to count against prohibition both those who would repeal the eighteenth amendment and those who would modify the Volstead act.

Not to do so would be to admit that there is a middle ground in prohibition. Congressman Dyer of St. Louis wants to occupy this middle ground with 2.75 per cent beer. We think beer of any strength would be preferable to most of the stuff the people of the United States are drinking now, but we are not willing to admit that there is any such middle ground as Mr. Dyer supposes and Mr. Ennis defends. To modify the Volstead law it would be necessary to blink the plain meaning of the eighteenth amendment, which prohibits intoxicating liquor. Would the United States be likely to say that 2.75 per cent beer is not intoxicating? Or would any relief by modifying the Volstead act be likely to enjoy the acquiescence of the Supreme Court?

We do not think so. The way out is not by such sophistry, but by purifying the Constitution itself. That is the honorable thing for the country to do, and in our opinion it is what it will do. The modificationists in the Literary Digest poll are opposed to prohibition. They are therefore to be counted against it. Anything else is to count the United States Supreme Court out of the equation, and that nobody can do.

THE ILLINOIS WATERWAY.

Illinois is asking the Government to assume the $7,500,000 that will be necessary to deepen the Illinois River from Chicago down to the Mississippi.

In a conference before the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors of the War Department this week it was explained that after spending $20,000,000 upon the project Illinois finds herself constitutionally debarred from completing it. Another bond issue would be necessary. Under the Illinois Constitution only one such revenue proposal can be made at a time, and there is already one before the electorate. Illinois considers that to delay completion of the waterway until she could conduct another bond issue for the purpose would be hurtful to the development of the inland waterway system, and she therefore asks Federal aid. An opinion by Attorney-General Mitchell indorsing the procedure was read at the conference with the army engineers.

In our opinion the Government should go to the assistance of Illinois. No other state has contributed so much to the inland waterway development, nor is there any other city in the valley whose commerce means so much to inland water traffic as does that of Chicago. It would be a short-sighted policy that ignored such co-operation.

ANOTHER TOWING FEAT.

A Look 10 Years Ahead for Industry

Writer predicts return to previous activity, but cites need of new elements for permanent progress; expects slower accretion in auto sales, moderate gain in radio and experimental era for aviation; solving farm problem would boom U. S. prosperity; real hope in developing foreign trade if sound economic policy is adopted.

Paul Mazur in the Atlantic Monthly.

WHAT the next 10 years hold for us is a natural question. It would be easy, and perhaps correct, to rely upon the ingenuity and progressiveness of American industry for a future that will hold only greater accomplishments and more complete prosperity than ever. But unfortunately, if this becomes a blind faith, there is a grave possibility of its leading us to overlook many pitfalls that can delay and may even divert our proper destiny.

Recovery to the previous levels of activity is to be expected. But industry requires for its stability new and expanding markets; and if men and nations are to progress, past records are not sufficient. It is here that the problem of the future lies, for in the specific elements that were so vital to the prosperity of the last decade it is not possible to discern many trustworthy signs of substantial additional development.

* * *

To anticipate a stabilized schedule of about 4,000,000 cars is a matter of reasonable expectancy. Cars are mortal. Seven years represents the full period of economic usefulness for a modern automobile. With nearly 23,000,000 pleasure cars registered in the country, the annual replacement market alone should approach within a few years over 3,000,000. The probability, however, of an addition of 3,000,000 units to the annual production of automobiles—as occurred in the last 10 years—seems anything but likely for the next decade. Increasing population can bring only a slow accretion to the annual sales volume of the automotive trade, and the number of new users offers no dramatic possibilities.

The building trade, too, offers prospects of only limited recovery. The increasing needs of the people and of industry are sound bases upon which to build the expectation of a continuous construction program in America, but there would be no justification in anticipating a recurrence of the feverish activity of the major portion of the last decade. Undoubtedly there will be a continuation of suburban growth, but in the form of normal evolution.

Nor do new industries seem as rich in potentiality as they were. Radio is still in its infancy and will experience great development; but the industry has already gone far enough to indicate that its future, too, will be one of more orthodox development than has hitherto been the case. Television alone offers tremendous possibilities of revolutionary expansion within the radio industry, but will probably not be an active commercial influence for another five years.

* * *

Aviation appeared upon the industrial horizon as one of the great economic stimuli of the future, in a country made air-conscious by the dramatic exploits of pioneers. There is, of course, no reason to doubt the prospects of the aviation industry, but there is every reason for believing that its real development is still some years removed. It is certain that the opportunities of the next five years will be limited by experimental problems.

But new stimuli may take the place of the old, and behind the industrial future of America stretches the sociological background of a people with inexhaustible needs and desires. They represent unlimited markets, and offer the basis for active sales cultivation as rapidly as purchasing power can be created and distributed. The American public is still on this side of the horizon of its probable demands; and its purchasing power is still the greatest in the world.

* * *

Very real possibilities exist in farming. There is a serious maladjustment between the benefits of protection for industry and the burden of free trade for agriculture; and the problem is not yet solved. If, however, a solution should come, it ought undoubtedly to reflect itself not only in the improved condition of the farmers, but also in a greater home market and a more prosperous nation in general.

But even the promise of an adjustment in this complicated and politically harassed situation pales before the spectacle that enrolls itself as America looks abroad and sees market after market lying peacefully before it, like some bounteous South Sea island awaiting the coming of the man who will pluck its fruits. More important than all other promises of the next era of America's enterprise is the export market.

The world is now only at the threshold of industrial and commercial expansion. Only a small portion of the earth has felt the effect of modernization, and human beings have on the whole advanced little beyond satisfaction of the bare necessities of life. The possibilities of new markets, new industries, new needs and desires, become overwhelming if even the slightest increase in the demands of all men and women can be effected. America is almost a solitary oasis in a desert of life lived largely on a primitive plane of consumption. As history marches on, the hinterland of consumption must be gradually thrown back and new territory opened up for civilized wants.

To Europe and America belongs the trade development of the world. For these two continents is the opportunity available; within them are the experience, the knowledge, and the instruments of proper exploitation. During 10 years America has stood pre-eminent. In some ways America is the better equipped for the future. In others, unless she adopts a realistic attitude toward her international financial relation and her trade policies, like the tariff, she is likely to find herself at a tremendous disadvantage. Nevertheless, the future gives no assurance that the positions of the two rivals may not be altered or even reversed.

Since it is true that international trade is of such importance, it is essential for Americans to understand clearly the factors that underlie it, and to formulate a foreign economic policy accordingly. Chance alone offers no safe plan of procedure. It is obvious also that the figment of American isolation must be destroyed and that knowledge and common sense must replace opportunism and political logrolling.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, April 3.

DOCTORS, dentists, chaplains and veterinarians in the United States army are commissioned officers. Band leaders are assistants to line officers and have no commission.

For a number of years Sousa has been endeavoring to get Congress to pass a bill commissioning all band leaders in the Army and Navy. Himself a leader of the U. S. Marine band for 12 years, and later a Lieutenant Commander at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, this question lies very close to the old master's heart. The War Department is steadfastly opposed to the idea, and for several reasons.

First, such a change would add about 90 commissioned officers to the Army. Such an increase would cost $86,400. Band leaders would be commissioned Majors, Captains, First and Second Lieutenants.

* * *

THEN the War Department holds that musicians, as a class, are not accustomed to exercise the functions of command. In the words of Secretary Hurley: "The fact that they are accomplished musicians . . . is evidence that they have had little or no time for the acquirement of the military knowledge necessary. . . ."

And lastly, the War Department believes the various territorial and tactical commanders "are fully competent to administer the needs of the bands pertaining to their commands."

To these objections Sousa snorts in disgust. He has represented himself to members of Congress as speaking for the many thousands of professional musicians in the United States who feel that official recognition by the Government of the profession of music has been too long delayed.

* * *

SAYS Sousa: "I don't see that the Chief of Chaplains, the Chief Surgeon or the Chief of Infantry has ever been competent to interfere with the duties of territorial or tactical commanders. Then why should a Chief Bandmaster?"

At a congressional hearing not so long ago when this bill was up for discussion, Sousa expressed himself in no uncertain terms.

"If you find the men who occupy positions as band leaders in the service now," he told the Committee on Military Affairs, "are not up to the standard of gentlemen according to the military and naval standards, then for God's sake get gentlemen! But," the old master added, "you are not going to get them unless you give them command over that which they teach."

Some Current Criticism

HARVEY FERGUSSON, writing in the book section of the New York Herald-Tribune for March 30, seriously discusses Frank Harris' "My Reminiscences as a Cowboy," and pronounces it an altogether praiseworthy production.

"Nowadays," says Mr. Fergusson, striking a high note at the outset in keeping with so worthy a writer, "most of those who write have never done much else. Sometimes, to be sure, a cowboy, a hobo or a soldier breaks awkwardly into print, but most of the true intellectuals sit apart in little groups and cultivate their exquisite sensibilities while life roars by. The result is a widening gulf between life and letters. * * *

"It is this modern condition which has always made Frank Harris a slightly anachronistic figure. He is a throwback to those classic men who fought, loved and wandered as well as wrote. He has affinities with Casanova, who was too busy living to write anything until he was old, and with Montaigne, who knew what it is to die because he had been left for dead on a battlefield. Perhaps life is too complicated now for any but an heroic energy to live it completely and still see it in the mood of lyric contemplation."

Mr. Fergusson goes on to tell something of the contents of the book, evidently without the slightest doubt as to the authenticity of the narrative, and he ends with the following paragraph:

"The West has usually left its mark on those who knew it when they were young and soft. Frank Harris believes it left its mark on him. He says his Western experience taught him that resolution is the most important factor in life, and that it has helped him to endure both honors and infamy with amused indifference. Certainly, too, he has remained always an adventurer—in spirit a man on horseback with a weapon in his hand."

There is something curious about all this. Harvey Fergusson is a Westerner and has written at least one good story of early Western life. There is good reason to suppose that he may have some knowledge of Western history. Can it be that he really read Harris' book, and if he did not, how could he bring himself to praise it? If he did read the book, how was it possible for him to take it seriously? Does he believe that Custer's battle of the Little Bighorn was fought down in Texas? Does he believe that Fort Leavenworth is located west of Topeka? Did he take the trouble to determine whether or not Wild Bill was actually working in Texas as a common cowboy, or in any other capacity, at the time when Frank Harris claims to have hobnobbed there with the famous gunman? Did he believe such yarns as that Frank tells about running four nights in succession beside a horse on his way to fetch the cavalry? How could he fail to note the ridiculous notions Frank seems to have about various matters pertaining to life in the West of the 70s? And if he knew so little of the West and its history as to miss all such points, why did he write as though he knew?

ESPIONAGE! By H. R. Berndorff. Translated by Bernard Miall. (Appleton & Co., N. Y., $2.50.)

It is probable that this truly startling work will be read chiefly as murder-mystery yarns are read; and as a means of momentary escape from humdrum living it ought to prove even more effective than the usual murder thriller. Already, according to reports, it has scored a popular success in Germany, the land of its origin, and it should go strong over here if properly ballyhooed.

If, as the publishers assure us, the book is authentic, it is considerably more than thrilling; it is positively terrifying, for it deals with the workings of the international spy systems of Europe, not only during the World War but for many years before and for some years thereafter. It is the question a thoughtful reader must ask when the book is closed that terrifies: Is there any reason whatever to suppose that such inevitably fatal skullduggeries are not now going on secretly all over the world in spite of all the utterances of humanitarian statesmen and all the peace pow-wowing? And if such things are going on now, what sort of hope is there for us of the millions and our children!

What we have here is a tale of lying, thieving, double-crossing and abysmal criminality that would shame a gang of Chicago bootleggers; and all of it is alleged to concern the actual official doings of those nations that fought for high and holy motives.

Perhaps it is just as well to read the book as a thriller and forget about it.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH YOUR GAME. By H. B. Martin. (Dodd, Mead & Co., N. Y.)

The "game" of the title is golf, and the author, Mr. Martin, is an authority thereon, his former work, "Pictorial Golf," being well known. Twenty-five years ago, while serving as artist on the Post-Dispatch staff, Mr. Martin invented the "weather bird."

FIRST FOUR PLAYS PRESENTED IN ART LEAGUE TOURNAMENT

"Sallie Vantine," "My Adda," "Eyes" and "The Wagon Tramp" Open Three-Day Series.

A well filled house saw the first four of the 12 plays entered in the Little Theater tournament of the St. Louis Art League presented at the Wednesday Club auditorium, Taylor and Westminster avenues, last night.

"Eyes," by Maxine Block, the story of the rescue of a silly girl by her paralytic grandmother, though slow in the working out, rises to a really dramatic climax. Therese Wittler as the grandmother, Alice Gray Galleher, Eugene H. Wood and Harold Elbert made up the cast.

"My Adda," by Shirley Seifert, was well acted by Henri de Lecluse, Mary Conway and especially Jan Sadlo. It hinges on the choice of a deserted wife between her baby and the recreant husband whom she still loves, who has come to her father's home to claim her.

"Sallie Vantine," by May Cerf, played by Margaret Keany, Joseph McKenna and Robert East in gent's snappy underwear, describes the problems of the chorus girl who has married a millionaire's son when he wasn't looking.

"The Wagon Tramp," by Cyrus W. Beach, has William Kroehle and Ruth Meyers in its chief roles. The tramp, a determined bachelor, is inveigled into promising marriage but escapes to Missouri. "The sheriffs will never catch me there," is his sagacious explanation of his choice of a hiding place.

Four more plays will be given tonight and the remaining four tomorrow night.

'NINA ROSA' EXPECTED TO OPEN MUNICIPAL OPERA SEASON

Shuberts to Bring Original Production to St. Louis Before It Plays New York.

St. Louis will see the operetta "Nina Rosa," at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park, before the play is offered in New York, according to arrangements that have virtually been concluded between the Municipal Theater Association and the Shuberts, who control the rights to Sigmund Romberg's musical play. The present plan is to produce the operetta, with the cast and production that has been in Chicago for the last three months, as the opening attraction of the 1930 Municipal Opera season.

The contract with the Shuberts, which is expected to be signed within a week, calls for 10 perfomances of "Nina Rosa." To permit its presentation here, the theater association will advance the opening of the summer season to May 30, Decoration day. The run of the operetta will end on Sunday night, June 8, with the second production of the opera season opening the following night and continuing for seven nights.

Under arrangements being worked out with the Shuberts the scenery and costumes of the Chicago production of "Nina Rosa" are to be used in the local presentation. Max Koenigsberg is representing the Municipal Theater Association in the negotiations for "Nina Rosa."

SYMPHONY "AMERICA" GIVEN FOR FIRST TIME IN GERMANY

Ernest Bloch's Prize-Winning Work Broadcast From Leipzig Studio.

By the Associated Press.

LEIPSIC, Germany, April 3.—The symphony "America," which won a $3000 prize in 1927 for Ernest Bloch, had its first production in this country last night from a local broadcasting studio. Bloch, whose home is in San Francisco, was formerly director of the Cleveland Institute of Music. The prize which he won was offered by the magazine Musical America.

The syymphony "America" was first performed by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra at Carnegie Hall in the fall of 1928. Since then it has been played by the Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco symphony orchestras. Bloch, who was born in Geneva and studied in Germany and Paris, arrived in America in 1916 as conductor of an orchestra dancer. For the last six years he has been director of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music. He recently resigned to devote his time to musical composition.

ROSENWALD RETURNS TO U. S.

Philanthropist and Bride in New York After Honeymoon in Italy.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 3. — After a wedding trip to Italy, Greece and Egypt, Julius Rosenwald, Chicago philanthropist, returned to New York yesterday on the liner Majestic with his bride, the former Mrs. Adelaide Goodkind, to whom he was married last January.

The pair sailed for Italy on the Saturnia the day after the ceremony. Rosenwald said they had had a pleasant trip. They will remain in New York for several days before returning to Chicago.

SKETCH BY CARUSO RETURNED

Inclosed in Unsigned Letter; Disappeared Several Years Ago.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 3.—Enrico Caruso, the tenor, before his death a few years ago, exercised his hobby by making a crayon sketch of Harry Cornell Greening, pioneer comic strip artist.

Caruso autographed the picture, sent it to Greening, and a few days later it disappeared. Yesterday, from New York, Greening received the sketch in a letter, which did not disclose the name or address of the sender.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MRS. HARRY C. JANUARY, 5518 Waterman avenue, will sail in June for Europe to be gone until September. She will be joined by friends in the East who will make the trip with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wiggins, 17 Portland place, are expected home April 15 from Pasadena, Cal., where they have spent the winter at their California home. Mrs. Wiggins' daughter, Mrs. Clarence L. Arnold, who is visiting there with her children, has been joined by Capt. Arnold, naval attache at Buenos Aires. They will remain in Pasadena for the spring.

Dr. and Mrs. Hiram S. Liggett, Edgewood drive, will sail April 12 for Europe, where they will spend three months in study and travel. They will make their headquarters in London.

Miss Mettie and Sara Taylor, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Hillsman Taylor, 5 Washington terrace, and Miss Martha Corbin Smith, daughter of Mrs. Richard S. Hawes, 4943 Maryland avenue, will be members of a party traveling in Europe this summer under the chaperonage of Mrs. Atwell T. Lincoln. They will sail from New York June 14. The Misses Taylor, who are spending the spring vacation with their parents, will depart Sunday for New York to resume their studies at the Finch School. Miss Sara Taylor will be graduated in June and will be among the debutantes next season.

Mrs. Samuel Gordon, 38 Portland place, departed Sunday for Houston, Tex., to visit her daughter, Mrs. James G. Dawson.

Mrs. Henry S. Butler of the Chase Apartments will give a dinner this evening at her home for Mme. Eugene Revel, French opera singer, who will give a concert this afternoon at the St. Louis Woman's Club. The program will be preceded by luncheon parties at the club and will be followed by a tea for Mme. Revel for which Mrs Rufus F. Byers will be hostess.

The singer will appear tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock in an entertainment given by the Alliance Francaise at the studio of Mme Tamara Darialova, in the Euclid Building, Euclid and McPherson avenues. A lecture will be given by Henri de Lecluse on "Two Stars of 1830—Miilbran and Taglioni." Mme. Darialova will execute dances done by Taglioni with Mrs. Hermosa Young playing the accompaniments.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hume will entertain at a tea Saturday afternoon at their home, 11 Carrswold, in honor of the Vanderbilt University Glee Club which will give a program Saturday evening at Mary Institute. The guests, besides the members of the glee club, will include Vanderbilt alumni and their wives. Miss Mettie and Miss Sara Taylor, Miss Rebecca Lionberger and Miss Morma Cawthorne will have charge of the tea table.

Mrs. Richard Kimbrough Peek of Kansas City and her three young daughters are visiting Mrs. Peek's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Nicoll, 4373 McPherson avenue. They motored to St. Louis a few days ago, and will return home tomorrow.

Announcements have been received in St. Louis of the marriage March 22 of Miss Gertrude Gaupel, daughter of Mrs. Rosa M. Gaupel, 6232 Southwood avenue, and Ferdinand Perret of Los Angeles, Cal. The Rev. Martin C. O'Malley of St. Vincent's Church, Los Angeles, performed the ceremony.

The bride is a former pupil of the Sacret Heart Convent at Maryville in St. Louis. Mr. Perret is a native of France and was educated in Germany. He went to live with an uncle on his ranch in California in 1906. He studied art at the Stickney Memorial School of Fine Arts in Pasadena and later during the World War served with the American Army of Occupation on the Rhine. Mr. Perret is now a consultant of the fine arts and director of research of international standing. He has spent the last eight years compiling a reference library, largely pictorial, pertaining to human achievement in the fine arts of all times.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Ave M. Huffman, formerly of St. Louis. Mr. Perret's best man was Roberto de Violini of Burbank, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Perret will spend their honeymoon in the Hawaiian Islands, and on their return will reside in Los Angeles.

A group of prominent St. Louisans who have been spending the early spring season at Hot Springs, Va., are expected home next week. In the group are Mr. and Mrs. George D. Markham, 4961 Pershing avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Morrill, 4534 West Pine boulevard, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard McCulloch, 4394 Westminster place. Mr. and Mrs. Edward A Faust, 1 Portland place, who were also at the Springs, returned a few days ago.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Harold Baer, 31 Darford avenue, Hillcrest, will sail on the Roma, April 9, and will spend Easter in Seville. They will stop in Sicily and Rome and will go to Oberammergau before visiting in England. They will return to St. Louis in June.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 3.

HARLEM'S Black Belt continues to be a hiving place for metropolitan decadence, supplanting the old Tenderloin as a setting for swoops of debauchery. When Broadway begins to yawn, it scurries to the curbs to taxi to Lenox avenue beyond One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street.

Night 'lidoes in Harlem do not begin until after 1 o'clock and are at their frothiest from 3 a. m. until dawn. Many cellars are filled with downtown stay-outs in full evening dress as late as 9 o'clock in the morning. Raw gin is the tipple at from 50 cents to 60 cents a shot.

While the black and tan cabarets with crooning jazzists and dusky maidens are plentiful, there are hidden haunts for the initiates that strike a booming note in the pagan carnival. There are also hideaways where wheels of fortune whirr and where shots of cocaine are peddled as openly as pink lemonade on the circus lots.

Down town night clubs have been utterly unable to compete with Harlem's nocturnal naughtiness and most of the clubs are groggy and holding to the ropes. Out of 58 brand-new clubs that opened for the season only 16 are still running.

STRIVER'S ROW is Harlem's Mayfair, so named because "those who strive" live there. It is a two block long stretch on West One Hundred and Thirty-ninth street and the fortunate dwellers, all successful colored people, live in a fashionable row of houses designed by the late Stanford White. Limousines are at the curb. At many doors uniformed butlers answer the ring. Florence Mills lived there as did Bert Williams, Paul Robeson and others of the elect.

I AM told that Mrs. James Donahue, the former Jessie Woolworth, daughter of the 5 and 10-cent store magnate, has the second largest wardrobe in New York.

PEGGY JOYCE is reported to own more fur wraps than any person in town. Her collection includes some 50 and her summer storage and insurance bill is more than $5000 a year. And for no particular reason—Miss Joyce's name will not be mentioned in this column for awhile.

THE $1 a word rate paid for the magazine offerings of former President Coolidge and former Gov. Al Smith is supposed to set a record, but a historian finds that James Whitcomb Riley's poem, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," earned for its author more than $500 a word.

COMPARISONS of literary pay are often made with Edgar Allen Poe as "the horrible example." Poe sold short stories for $10, but it was an exception and not the rule, even in those days.

A SHEAF of boots arrive over a statement by this writer that the legitimate stage is wobbling about on its last legs and point to the excellence of a new crop of plays. I have seen most of them. With one exception, they strike me as sometimes hearty but never significant like—well, say an occasional column by O. O. McIntyre.

A TRAFFIC cop was bawling out one of the tight-waisted boys who was jay walking across Fifth avenue at Thirty-eighth street. The jay walker, angered, replied: "I'm going to report you to the Commissioner. What is your number?"

"Here is my number, and do you want my name also?"

"No," he retorted. "Just your number. I have a name for you."

BASIS OF INQUIRY INTO ELECTRICAL INDUSTRY HERE

workmen on the job except the foreman. The contractor protested that he had men regularly employed who were good workmen. Before operations began the contractor's shop was "pulled"—the men being called out by the union.

Jennings was out of the city at the time of this action, which occurred on a Monday morning, and the contractor testified he spent a feverish week trying to re-establish himself with the union so he could proceed with the work. He appealed to Business Agent Koenig, to the Protective Association, conferred with his attorney, and telegraphed international union officials.

On Friday night, the contractor testified, Jennings telephoned long distance and upbraided him for taking an attorney along on the visit to the offices of the Protective Association. "I'm not dealing with attorneys, I'm dealing with the contractors of St. Louis," Jennings declared, according to the contractor's testimony. In response to the contractor's question as to why the job was "pulled," the contractor quoted Jennings as saying, "because you and several others went over to see a certain party last Saturday afternoon."

The inference drawn from this conversation by investigators was that the Saturday afternoon visit referred to by Jennings was in connection with "time and material" work, which the Listing Bureau and the Approval Board are seeking to discourage.

"Sat Me on a Block of Ice."

In discussing the difficulties attending the "time and material" job, the contractor testified that "Jennings sure sat me on a block of ice in the middle of the river and it began to melt. It's a good thing I could swim."

One complaint against the operation of the Listing Bureau made by contractors in their testimony is that they must pay a 3 per cent fee on the 3 per cent charge for estimating services, which they charge up to the owner of the building. This comes about in the following manner, the contractors testified. On a $100 wiring job, for instance, the contractor figures the Listing Bureau fee and sends the owner an estimate of $103 for the work. A copy of the estimate goes to the Listing Bureau, which charges the contractor 3 per cent on $103. On large contracts over a year's operation this amounts to a considerable sum, the contractors said.

The witnesses testified there was no written agreement requiring them to charge a profit of 33 1-3 per cent on contracts, but declared it was clearly understood that failure to do so would be cause for a walkout of their union employes. The same condition applies to the labor charge, contractors testified. One contractor, who says he was accused of being "too cheap on labor" on a time and material agreement, testified that he made two trips and a dozen telephone calls to Chapline's office before the matter was adjusted.

Comparison of Costs.

A general contractor was called as a witness to testify to his experience with "time and material" agreements as compared with contracts estimated by the Electrical Listing Bureau. He testified that there was no doubt that the cost of electrical installation had increased since last July. A number of electrical contractors, while insisting that plans go through the Listing Bureau and the Approval Board, had worked for him under a "gentleman's agreement" on the time and material plan, the general contractor testified. In every instance of this sort the cost had been considerably less than the original estimate for the work, the witness said.

Another general contractor testified he had received a sub rosa bid from an electrical contractor for wiring an oil filling station. The job cost $350, and a second installation cost about the same. The oil company then insisted on competitive bids on a third station of similar proportions. Six bids, which went through the Listing Bureau, were received and each represented an increase of about $200 over the price for the work done previously. The general contractor then obtained a sub rosa agreement from another contractor, who accepted, "because I have so much trouble now a little more won't hurt." The work was completed satisfactorily under this arrangement, the general contractor testified.

Attorney-General Shartel expects to further substantiate the charges that electrical installation costs have been unreasonably increased through sworn testimony and examination of books and records at the hearings at Jefferson City. John B. Edwards and Richmond C. Coburn, St. Louis attorneys, who have been appointed Special Assistant Attorneys-General, will have full charge of the investigation.

The hearing will be held before James W. Broaddus of Kansas City, formerly an Assistant Attorney-General, who was appointed Special Examiner by Chief Justice Ragland of the State Supreme Court.

American Sentenced in London.

LONDON, April 3.—Edward Elza Gaynor, 54 years old, an American, who gave his home address as 18 East Twenty-eighth street, New York City, was sentenced at Marlborough Street Police Court yesterday to six months' imprisonment at hard labor and recommended for deportation for an attempted confidence trick. Gaynor was charged with conspiring to steal $75,000 from a wealthy young Englishman, Frederick Williams, and also with stealing $20,000 from his sister-in-law, Mrs. Maul Williams. The attempted confidence trick was worked on Williams in Rome through a fake operation on the stock exchange there.

SALOONKEEPERS HELD LIABLE FOR DEATH OF MAN HIT BY AUTO

Two Milwaukeeans and Intoxicated Driver Ordered to Pay Widow $7500 Damages.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 3.—Two saloon keepers have been held liable under a provision of the Volstead act and ordered to pay a share of $7500 damages awarded Mrs. Violet Januchowski for the death of her husband, killed by an automobile driven by Norman Bremer.

Bremer was convicted of manslaughter. He was alleged to have been intoxicated at the time of the accident on liquor sold him by Frank May and Henry Nisser, saloon keepers. The verdict returned in Judge Otto H. Breidenbach's court held the three responsible.

VALUE

GOODYEAR ALL-WEATHER

Goodyear can give you greater tire values because Goodyear builds more than 1/4 of all the tires sold in America, the remainder being divided among some forty manufacturers. "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

IN the tire business, as in any other, production has a direct relation to costs.

It happens that Goodyear builds millions more tires than any other manufacturer, which ought to mean something to the man who buys tires.

We think it does: "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

We think this single towering fact — not to be overridden by any sales argument, however ingenious—says all that needs be said of Goodyear quality, Goodyear service, Goodyear price.

The next time you need a tire, and seek the most you can get for your money, remember how the people have judged this question of value.

The simplest and safest advice, is for you to do what an overwhelming percentage of your fellow-motorists are doing — go straight to the nearest Goodyear dealer!

NORRIS ASSAILS PROPOSED MUSCLE SHOALS LEASE

mid and Carbide companied in endeavoring to have their bid accepted. He addressed himself frequently and rather pointedly to a director of the Union Carbide Co. who occupied a seat in the chamber a few feet away. The director in question was Senator Walcott (Rep.), Connecticut. Testimony has been given that at one time attorneys for the companies prepared a draft of a minority report to be submitted from the Senate Committee on Agriculture by Walcott, opposing the Norris bill. The plan was abandoned for fear Senator Walcott might be "suspected of personal financial motives."

"You can call me a Bolshevik and a wild-eyed Socialist if you like," said Norris to his Republican colleague. "I will never consent to turn Government property over to private interests at a return of less than 3 per cent on its investment. That is more Bolshevistic than anything I can think of. I cannot understand how any man who loves his country can support such a proposal—even though some of the leaders on the great political parties are behind the proposition."

Hoover Counted on.

At this stage McKellar interposed, calling attention to the memorandum produced earlier in the day before the lobby committee. It was written by J. W. Worthington, who was associated with Huston in the Tennessee River Improvement Association, under which name the Cyanamid-Carbide lobby operated in Washington and elsewhere. The memorandum stated: "With the President pledged to oppose the policy of Government operation, and the chairman of the Republican National Committee (Huston) coming from the presidency of the organization which has opposed this policy for many years, will any reasonable man expect anything but a veto of the Government operation bill should Congress pass such legislation?"

McKellar reminded the Senate that for several weeks Worthington had succeeded in postponing his appearance before the Lobby Committee, by pleading illness and other grounds, and he added:

"Mr. Worthington has been the chief lobbyist for the interests who are trying to get hold of Muscle Shoals. I doubt whether he has authority to speak for the President of the United States on this matter, and I hope the President will have something to say about it."

Analyzing the Cyanamid-Carbide bid, Norris declared that the companies professed desire to manufacture cheap fertilizer was a pretense, and that they actually were interested in getting the plant for its power possibilities. Acceptance of their bid, he said, would have given the companies a virtual monopoly over power production in six Southern states.

Norris attacked Chester H. Gray, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, who, it has been shown, allowed the Cyanamid and Carbide companies to carry on much of their lobbying and propaganda activity under cover of the Federation's name. Norris declared that Gray, after testifying before the Senate Committee on Agriculture two years ago, altered his testimony in the proof sheets of the transcript. Only the discovery that Gray had not been placed under oath saved him from prosecution for perjury, the Nebraswa Senator said.

Gray had been asked who paid for material sent to country newspaper advising acceptance of the Cyanamid-Carbide bid. He replied: "The American Farm Bureau Federation." Later it was disclosed that the interested companies had footed the bill. Norris looked up the record of Gray's testimony and found that a word had been added to make Gray's answer read: "The American Farm Bureau Federation, co-operatively."

Personal Attack on Gray.

"This man sits here drawing his pay from the farmers of America, and sees them flim-flammed from dawn till night without raising a finger," Norris continued. "He has never been active around here except in behalf of the power trust, the Cyanamid Co. and the Union Carbide Co."

Norris related that when the Cyanamid Co. developed a hydrocyanic acid gas as a fumigant of wheat, the Department of Agriculture prepared a press release warning users of the poisonous character of the gas, and urging that its use be surrounded by strict precautions. Gray learned of the release and succeeded in having the department withhold it, on the ground that it would hamper sales of the gas.

"Can it be possible," the Senator asked, "that the farmers of this country will be content to be represented here by this man? Is it possible that he will ever be allowed to testify before a committee of Congress without being sworn? Will he ever again be allowed to correct his testimony?"

means of saving the peasants from poverty and misery. He characterizes those farmers who did not abandon the collectives as "heroes," and warns that any peasants who leave these farms in the future will forfeit all privileges granted under the recent decrees.

At the same time, he renews war upon the kulaks (rich peasants), whom he characterizes as "enemies of the Government, bloodsuckers, spiders and vampires who live only to exploit others, and who, in their fury against the Government, set fire to the collective farms, murder farm officials and attempt to destroy the Government's sowing campaign."

SYRUP PEPSIN LAXATIVE
CONSTIPATION
PEPSIN SYRUP CO

Every family has occasional need of a laxative, but it should be a family laxative. One that can't form a habit, but can be taken as often as needed. When the breath is unpleasant or tongue is coated. Or appetite fails. Only a doctor knows the right ingredients. Dr. Caldwell discovered the right mixture years ago. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin combines harmless herbs and pure senna. It starts muscular action and soon corrects constipation. Gently, but surely; it relieves a bilious or sluggish condition. It is mild. Delicious. Effective. All druggists keep this famous prescription ready, in big bottles. Or write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., for a free trial bottle postpaid.

A. H. WASHBURN, SLATED AS ENVOY TO JAPAN, DIES

Succumbs in Vienna; He Once Served as Private Secretary to Senator Lodge.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Albert H. Washburn, former Minister to Austria, who died last night in a Vienna hospital, was President Hoover's selection to be the next Ambassador to Japan. The announcement was made at the White House today.

VIENNA, April 3.—Albert H. Washburn, 64 years old, former United States Minister to Austria, died last night at a hospital here.

Washburn, a native of Middleborough, Mass., entered the foreign service in 1890 as United States consul at Magdeburg, Germany. Three years later he resigned that post to become private secretary to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. He was appointed Minister to Austria in 1922 and served as chairman of a mixed commission adjusting differences between Austria and Jugo-Slavia, arising out of the commercial agreement between those countries.

Bank Cashier Warned Against Cutting Out Presidents' Pictures.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 3.—A warning against cutting Presidents' pictures out of paper money as a diversion has been issued by William A. Landvoight, chief of the local Secret Service Bureau, following an investigation of a bank cashier who did.

The cashier thought the pictures would embellish his scrap book, since the bills were dirty and were being returned from his bank to the Treasury for redemption.

Chicago Engineers to Erect $150,000,000 Packing Plant Chain.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, April 3.—Under the guidance of American engineers, the Soviet Government this year will erect throughout the country a chain of meat-packing plans using the latest American methods. Two plants will be built near Moscow, four in the Ukraine, three in Siberia, and three in the Urals. They will cost $150,000,000.

The firm of Bloom & Kamrath, Inc., of Chicago, engineering specialists in packing-house equipment, is making surveys for the plants.

Hoover Exchanges Greetings With Executives of Chile and Uruguay, Recalling His Visits Before Inauguration.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The voices of the Presidents of three American countries were called on today to inaugurate a radio-telephone system which linked the North and South American continents in a public telephone service. The program for the ceremonies included the exchange of greetings between President Hoover, President Carlos Ibanez of Chile and President Juan Campisteguy of Uruguay.

President Hipolito Yrigoyen, President of Argentina, was scheduled to join in the exchange of greetings but shortly before the time for the conversations to begin he cabled President Hoover that he would be unable to participate.

Officials said that it was understood, and a telephone officer at Buenos Aires confirmed this, that a cold and a sore throat made it inadvisable for President Yrigoyen to take part in the presidential conversations. The belief was expressed that the proposed tariff on wheat and increased duties on flaxseed, opposition to which has been expressed in the Argentine, did not figure in the affair.

Hoover's Greeting to Chile.

In his greeting, prepared in advance for delivery to the President of Chile, President Hoover mentioned the hospitality given him during his visit to that country before he was inaugurated.

"I did not anticipate," President Hoover said, "when I took leave of the happy hospitality which Your Excellency extended to me shortly over a year ago at Santiago, that the rapid strides of science in partnership with commerce would so soon afford me the opportunity again to converse in person with you.

"It is a source of especial gratitude to me to participate today in the ceremonies attendant upon the inauguration of direct telephone-radio communication between Chile and the United States of America.

"A brief span of 40 years serves to encompass the extraordinary history of modern means of communication between our respective countries. In 1890 the first direct cable service was inaugurated, effecting a revolutionary improvement in communication which has in subsequent years been duplicated by the establishment of radio-telegraphic communication, of direct and speedy communication by means of airplanes, and now by the present radio-telephone service. Concurrently sea traffic has been immeasurably facilitated by the opening of the Panama Canal and by the never-ending improvement in the quality and speed of the vessels which ply between our two countries.

"Mr. President, I am happy indeed to converse with you in person today to recall the inspiring and cordial reception of a year ago, and to inaugurate thereby this important additional means of communication between our respective countries."

The Message to Uruguay.

Similar friendly greetings were prepared by the President for President Campisteguy of Uruguay and again testified to President Hoover's pleasant memory of the welcome accorded him in that country.

"The memories which I cherish of my brief visit, slightly more than one year ago, to the great capital of the progressive republic of Uruguay, and your excellency's friendly and hospitable reception at that time," he said, "make more keen the pleasure which I experience today of speaking with you again in person on the occasion of the inauguration of direct radio-telephone communication between the Uruguay and the United States of America.

The circuit was opened a few minutes after 11 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, and for more than 20 minutes the 6000 miles of intervening distance was bridged by the radio telephone service. The voices of the Presidents of Chile and Uruguay were heard clearly and distinctly.

President Hoover first exchanged greetings with the President of Chile, then Acting Secretary Cotton of the State Department conversed with the Chilean Minister of the Interior.

The circuit was then switched to Montevideo, Capital of Uruguay, and President Hoover talked with President Campisteguy.. Mr. Cotton greeted the Minister of Foreign Affairs of Uruguay and the circuit then was changed to Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Cotton talked briefly with John Campbell White, counselor of the United States Embassy at Buenos Aires. Each expressed gratification at the development of communication to an extent permitting intercontinental conversations.

AL. CROWDER STARTS ON MOUND FOR BROWNS AGAINST MEMPHIS

WALTER BECK, A FORMER MATE, OPPOSES KILLIFER'S MEN ON HILL IN FIRST OF TWO GAME SERIES

By James M. Gould.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

MEMPHIS Tenn., April 3.—With Al Crowder as their pitcher, the Browns today met the Memphis Chicks of the Southern Association in their second exhibition since leaving Florida. Dod Prothro, manager of the Chicks, selected Walter Beck, side-wheeler and former Brownie, as his hurler. Bill Killefer changed his batting order, putting Sam Hale in second place. Kress in fourth, Schulte in fifth and Melillo in sixth place.

Attendance—300.

Tonight the Browns go to Kansas City, where, tomorrow, they inaugurate a three-game series.

The umpires were Johnson and Barr.

The game:

FIRST INNING — BROWNS— Blue walked. Hale flied to Waddey. Manush popped to Beck. Kress flied to Jeanes.

MEMPHIS — Flaskamper flied to Manush. Tangeman was out, Blue to Crowder on first. Jeanes flied to Gullic.

SECOND — BROWNS — Schulte flied to Waddey. Melillo sent a long fly to Tangemann. Gullic fouled to Prothro.

MEMPHIS — Waddey flied to Schulte. Brazill was called out on strikes. Williams flied to Gullic.

THIRD — BROWNS — Ferrell flied to Jeanes. Williams threw out Crowder. Blue walked for the second time and stole second. Hale walked. Manush got a single on a hot drive which Brazill was lucky to knock down. It was the first hit of the game and filled the bases. Kress beat out a single to deep short, Blue scoring. Schulte struck out. ONE RUN.

HARVARD APPARENTLY ENDS GRID RELATIONS WITH MID-WEST TEAMS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 3.—Harvard will resume football relations with Brown and Penn State in 1932, William J. Bingham, director of athletics, said yesterday when he announced the almost complete Crimson gridiron schedule for that year.

The Bruins, who have had a place on the Harvard schedule 31 times since 1893, last played against a Crimson eleven in 1927 and Penn State has not visited the Stadium since 1921, when the Nittany Lions and Harvard battled through to a sensational 21-21 tie.

The scheduling of Penn State appeared to mean the end of Harvard's football relations with Mid-Western elevens. The Crimson team has played members of the Big Ten annually since 1925 and has scheduled games with such teams for 1930 and 1931.

LES CANADIENS MEET BOSTON HOCKEY TEAM IN SECOND CUP GAME

MONTREAL, April 3.—With high hopes of bringing the Stanley Cup back to Canada after a two-year stay in the United States, Les Canadiens, Montreal's Flying Frenchmen, go into the second game of the series for the Professional Hockey championship trophy against the Boston Bruins at the Forum tonight.

The Canadiens gained a big margin in the three-game series by their 3 to 0 victory at Boston Tuesday and need to win only one more game to win the championship. If Boston should win tonight's game, the deciding contest will be played at Boston Saturday.

RAZORBACK NET TEAM WILL PARTICIPATE IN FOUR MEETS THIS YEAR

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., April 3.—The University of Arkansas tennis team will have four meets this year, according to announcement of Coach Fred C. Thomsen. Teams will be met as follows: Ouachita College, April 5; Springfield (Mo.) Teachers' College, May 3; and the Northwestern Oklahoma Teachers' College in two matches on a home-and-home agreement, the dates of which have not been set.

Four lettermen and a member of last year's freshman squad are on the Razorback team this year. They are: Walter Pittman, Fayetteville; Oscar Fenddler, Manila; Kenneth Schoephoester, Cotton Plant; Burton Robbins, North Little Rock, and Anderson Nettleship, Fayetteville. The squad has not elected the 1930 captain.

ACE HUDKINS ADMITS INTOXICATION CHARGE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 3.—Ace Hudkins, middleweight boxer, late yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication here and paid a fine of $20 after he was arrested on a warrant and brought into Municipal Court. The "Nebraska Wildcat" was given the choice of paying the fine or spending 20 days in jail.

He was arrested on the charge yesterday morning and posted $20 bail for his appearance. When he did not appear the bail was forfeited and the warrant issued.

MARRE TO BOX MILES TONIGHT ON COUNTY CARD

In the feature matches on tonight's amateur boxing program at the Knights of Columbus hall, 2400 Woodson road, in Overland, St. Louis County, Steve Marre of the Sherman Park Community Center, who holds the Mississippi Valley Athletic Association middleweight laurels, will take on Johnny Miles, South Broadway A. C. fighter. Bob Parkinson will referee. The opening match will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Marre won over Miles in the scrap to decide the Mississippi Valley middleweight crown. Both are powerful hitters and it would not be surprising if the bout ended in a knockout. Marre has shaded Miles in three of their five meetings. However, in their first battle, Miles turned in a knockout victory.

Dan Durso of the Olympian A. C., who is a former Western A. A. U., 118-pound champion, has been signed to trade blows with Paul Spica of the Business Men's gymnasium. Durso lost to Spica in a recent meeting at the South Broadway A. C.

Myrle Gilbert, Olympian A. C. welterweight, and Bill Finnegan, one of Willie Miller's proteges, have been matched in a return go. Gilbert is anxious to win, for in his last battle with the Carondelet youth he was on the losing end of the verdict.

The lightweight setto should furnish plenty of action, for both Charles Olver of the Olympian A. C. and Joe Hoff of the E. K. A. C. are evenly matched.

A feature heavyweight scrap will bring together Walter Urbahans of the Olympian A. C. and Fred Olivero, a protege of Kid Bandy. Both weigh about 220 pounds.

George Wilsman, matchmaker for the Overland A. C., announced that he has received enough additional entries to book five preliminary matches.

The Program.

Young Stribling To Invade Europe For Four Bouts

Special to the Post-Dispatch

MACON, Ga., April 3.—W. L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia heavyweight contender, and "Pa" Stribling, his father-manager, boarded a fast train for New York today to sail Friday midnight on the Majestic for an invasion of European fistianna.

According to the elder Stribling, the Georgia mauler will engage in four or more fights while on the European tour, including a mix-up with Phil Scott, British heavyweight champion, probably in the latter part of May.

Stribling will receive a $10,000 guarantee for the Scott bout, "Pa" said.

Three Small-Town Teams Capture Games Today in U. S. Basketball Tourney

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 3.—Dark horse teams from the South, Middle West and West arose to emergencies today and stopped the march of three teams favored to travel far in the University of Chicago's annual national prep basketball championship tournament.

They were Braselton, Ga., a team picked from a student body of 25 boys, which edged out Kavanaugh of Lawrenceburg, Ky., 29 to 26, in a fast overtime battle; St. Johns Military Academy of Delafield, Wis., which scored the biggest upset of the tournament to date by eliminating the strong Denton, Tex., Broncos, 22 to 21, and the Wyoming State champion, Wheatland, victorious over the big Red team from Durham, N. C., 18 to 13.

Of the three teams, the Wyoming champions looked the best. Their defense was excellent and their slow-breaking offense wilted the big Dixie stars.

Today's Scores.

Braselton, Ga., 29; Kavanaugh, Lawrenceburg, Ky., 26 (overtime).
St. John's Military Academy, Delafield, Wis., 22; Denton, Tex., 21.

CONSOLATION ROUND.

PLANS DISCUSSED FOR $10,000 GOLF TOURNEY

Committees representing the St. Louis District Golf Association and the Missouri Professional Golfers' Association met with officials of the St. Louis Convention Bureau today and discussed the proposal to hold an open golf tournament here in June.

It is planned to provide a prize fund of approximately $10,000 for the event, which likely will be called the St. Louis Open, and to invite the outstanding professional and amateur players of the country to attend.

The date to be chosen will fall just after completion of the National Open in Minneapolis, and it is considered likely that many of the contestants in the National will come to St. Louis to play in a big tournament if the prize fund is large enough.

Another meeting of the committee is scheduled for Monday, at which time definite action is expected to be taken.

TILDEN WINS THREE MATCHES IN ONE DAY

By the Associated Press.

SAINT RAPHAEL, France, April 3.—Bill Tilden mowed down three opponents in short order today to reach the fourth round of the tennis tournament here. All three of his victims were players of purely local fame.

In the first round, the American champion defeated Tinling, 6—1, 6—2. Thoroughly warmed up, he then proceeded to win his second and third round matches in love sets at the expense of Tiessier and Nicolaides, respectively. At that point play was stopped by rain.

Y. M. H. A. MAT TEAM MEETS DOWNTOWN "Y"

Revenge will be the main objective of the Young Men's Hebrew Association wrestling team, which will meet the powerful Downtown Y. M. C. A. mat team, tonight at 8 o'clock, at the Y. M. H. A. gymnasium. In a meet held last week at the Downtown gym, the West Enders were forced to accept the short end of a 15 to 10 score.

WYNNE TO COACH ALABAMA POLY AT $12,000 A YEAR

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., April 3.—A three-year contract as head of Intercollegiate Athletis at Alabama Polytechnic at Auburn, Ala., has been accepted by Chet Wynn, football and track coach at Creighton University, he said today. Wynne will get $12,000 a year, he said.

Wynne has been head football and track coach at Creighton University since 1923. In his resignation, to be effective May 1, he said he was leaving because of a chance "to better himself," and added there was no friction between himself and the university officials.

Wynne was graduated with all-America honors as a fullback at Notre Dame. While studying law at Notre Dame, he held, for a short time, the world's record for the 440-yard high hurdles.

Although Creighton officials have announced no successor to Wynne, Creighton students place special significance in the fact that Roger Kiley, who starred at end with Wynne at Notre Dame, has been assisting him for the last week.

NORTHWESTERN SWIMMERS OUT OF TITLE MEET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 3.—Walter Laufer, Lake Shore Athletic Club star, and Clarence (Buster) Crabbe, ace of the Honolulu Outrigger Canoe Clum swimmers, today were one up on the field seeking National A. A. U. swimming titles.

Laufer, swimming in his home pool, retained his 100-yard free style title last night, but bowed to the Honolulu star in the 300-yard individual medley race.

Three championships will be decided tonight, the 220-yard breaststroke, the 400-yard relay and the low board fancy diving. Preliminaries in the latter test, set for last night, were dropped because of the small entry.

Northwestern University stars were barred from competing before Saturday, by a faculty edict made because of the number of classes missed during their recent trip east for the National Intercollegiate championships. The withdrawal removed Al Schwartz, Northwestern free style artist; Dick Hinch, a potential threat in the backstroke, Don Peterson and Dick Howlett, quarter-milers, from the list of star performers.

Laufer won the 100-yard free style title, defeating a fine field in 52 4-5 seconds, four-fifths of a second over Johnny Weissmuler's world record. Less than a yard behind Laufer was George Fissler, New York A. C. representative, with Weston Kimball, of the Hollywood, Calif., A. C., third and Merton Wilcox of the Chicago Athletic Association, fourth. Art Highland, teammate of Wilcox, and the only other qualifier trailed the field.

Crabbe, who holds National A. A. U. outdoor marks for 440 and 880 yards and one mile, added the indoor championship in the 300-yard individual medley event after a gruelling tussle with Laufer.

The pair finished the 100-yard breast stroke on even terms, and Laufer picked up a yard in the 100-yard backstroke leg, only to have Crabbe outfinish him by two feet in the free style leg. August Harms, of the New York A .C., the only other starter, was 50 feet behind Laufer. The time, 3:41, was a full second shy of the record.

100-yard free-style—Won by Walter Laufer, Lake Shore A. C., Chicago; second, George Fissler, New York A. C.; third, Weston Kimball, Hollywood (Cal.) A. C.; fourth, Merton Wilcox, Chicago A. A. Time, :52 4-5.

300-yard individual relay—Won by Clarence Crabbe, Honolulu; second, Walter Laufer, Lake Shore A. C., Chicago; third, August Harms, New York A. C. Time, 3:41.

456 ENTRIES ALREADY RECEIVED FOR PENN'S ANNUAL RELAY GAMES

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—Leo Novak, coach of the United States Military track team, has entered a complete team in the Thirty-sixth annual University of Pennsylvania Relay Carnival, on April 25 and 26.

Last year the future generals made an excellent showing in the nine events they entered, creating a new record in the 480-yard shuttle hurdle relay and securing first places in the hop, step and jump and the running broad jump.

The Army is listed to compete in 16 events, including seven relay races and nine special events. A total of 67 names, including duplications, where a man competes in one or more events, have been named for the 16 events.

The total entry for the relays is greater by far than at this time a year ago, according to H. Jamison Swarts, manager of the Carnival. One year ago the total was 438, as compared with 456 this year. The latter list includes 95 colleges, 56 prep schools, 201 high schools, 27 junior high schools, 62 grammar schools and 15 parochial schools.

WOMEN'S GOLF MEET AT OSAGE, APRIL 23

The first women's golf tournament of the Osage Country Club will be held April 23, with James Fogertey, Osage pro, in charge. On that date Fogertey also will resume his women's group golf instructions. Weather permitting, the regular greens of the Osage links will be opened Saturday.

WRAY'S Column

Glutton for Punishment.

HOPE springs eternal, especially in baseball. Annually the Old Boy is knocked for a row of disappointments; but each spring he gets up off the floor and absorbs more punishment.

Hope is up and chirping again, this spring. "Yessir, look at that boy, Schulte," he chattered the other day at the Browns' camp. "He's going somewhere this year. Schulte has been slow in finding himself. But he's going to be here with a bang, this time."

Let's see, it was three or more years ago that Old Man Hope was knocked kicking just after making a somewhat similar remark about this player. Each spring he has repeated the same spiel; each summer he has taken the count—Schulte has never come through with the $75,000 that Ball invested in him.

* * *

Schulte will upset history if he ever becomes a great player. No longer a kid, he lacks the fire and aggressiveness to make use of the splendid speed and natural hitting ability nature gave him. Just a good, useful baseball player—and not too useful when the pinch comes, is the fans' verdict. That is the story of Schulte's past. He's bound to run true to form for the future. But he would be hard to replace if lost.

* * *

Griffiths Passes.

THE knockout of Tuffy Griffiths by a third rater like Gagnon marks the passing of another "hope" in the heavyweight class. His narrow escape from a knockout by Friedman at Boston, a few weeks ago, makes it certain the Gagnon episode was no accident. Tuffy appears just an exploded myth.

This writer made a trip to Chicago to view Griffiths last November when he was being exploited. He fought Paulino that night and the result was something like a pursuit race, Tuffy dodging, twisting and turning before Paulino like a hare seeking its "escape" in a coursing match. Tuffy lacked the punch and physique to face rugged big men. He is bearing out the opinion of Griffith's expressed in this column after the fight—namely, that if Griffiths were a title-hope, Paulino ought to be champion of the world.

* * *

Began Too Early?

TUFFY has fought in every class from bantamweight up. He has been fighting too long, for a young fellow of only 22, and probably nature is resenting his abuse of his physical equipment.

His case is parallel to that of Georges Carpentier who began as bantam champion of France at a very tender age and later fought for the heavyweight championship of the world. He was beaten and "stopped" in title bouts at every weight from bantam to heavyweight!

Tuffy isn't quite that bad; but he has been knocked out twice since he started his big drive, once by Braddock and now by Gagnon. It's unlikely that he ever will figure prominently in the distribution of world's honors.

Incidentaly, Sharkey now can come fearlessly to the front and offer to give Tuffy a match.

* * *

Just Plain Boobs.

"THIS fight game is pretty tough," grumbled a veteran scrapper who battled on the program with Bass and Shea at The Arena, last week. "After looking at the stuff these here champions hand out, and get away with, it makes a guy that's trying his best and getting his head knocked around for just pin money feel like a boob.

"Bass and Shea come out here and waltz around for nearly $20,000. I go on there and get my head banged off or wallop some other fellow's knob to a-fare-you-well for one-twentieth of that sum, divided between us. We give a regular honest-to-goodness show. The prima donnas put on a glove - pitching contest with nobody hurt, and are paid a young fortune.

"I don't know why I got into this game and I sure-as-you-know wish I hadn't. Big stiffs like Carnera come in here and push over a man who couldn't hurt him with an ax, and take twenty thousand dollars out of the city. I've been fighting here for ten years and have taken away nothing but a sore nose and some sandwich money. Sure something wrong with the profession."

And the gentleman who voiced the above opinion enjoys a pretty high standing in his community, if anyone should ask you.

* * *

It's boys who carry on like the boxer above, who keep the fight game alive. The bulk of the battles fought for $1000 or thereabouts are strictly on the square and are hard and bitterly fought. It's only in the rarified atmosphere at the top where we find men "carrying" their opponents for financial reasons.

It's among the amateurs and the preliminary boxers that the real fighting spirit and pride still survive.

DR. LUDWIG HAYMAN, knocked out and otherwise bumped around during his American invasion, has been ordered home to Germany to defend the heavyweight ring championship of the "Fatherland," still held by him.

Max Schmeling, who apparently enjoys no titular standing at home, is coming to America to fight Jack Sharkey for the "championship of the world." Before departing for America Maxie ought to clean up his home state by wiping out Ludwig. A good general never leaves a dangerous enemy behind him.

But then Hayman can hardly be called "dangerous." Tuffy Griffiths flattened him.

FENCERS WILL HOLD MEET TOMORROW NIGHT

COLLEGE NINE MAKES TRIPLE PLAY, LOSES, 1-0

By the Associated Press.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., April 3.—Illinois College, 1929 Little 19 Conference baseball champions, accomplished a triple play against Concordia Seminary of Springfield, Ill., yesterday, but was defeated, 1 to 0.

Dorn of Concordia permitted only one hit, while O'Sullivan, Illinois College hurler, gave six. The contest was Illinois College's first of the season.

7 SPECIAL BOUTS ON NORTH SIDE CARD TONIGHT

Sidney C. Peters, physical director of the North Side Y. M. C. A. and director Benny Kessler of the Jewish Community Center, have arranged an interesting boxing program for tonight at the North Side Y. M. C. A., Grand and Sullivan. The first bout will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Ten bouts, seven of these specials, will comprise the program. Leading A. A. U. contenders and champions will show their wares. Harry Kessler will be third man in the ring. The judges of competition will be Circuit Judge Robert [illegible] and Commissioner Seneca Taylor.

Joey Parks, A. A. U. featherweight champ, meets Morgan Lingerfelter in a special bout that should be one of the best fights of the evening. Joe "Peanuts" Borich, the bouncing 118-pound A. A. U. champion, meets "Doc" Hyatt, the classy West End contender, in another special of equal promise. Hyatt is out to avenge a defeat at the hands of Borich last year and his followers are looking for a victory. Tom Derby, the North Side favorite, and Eddie Salzman, the knockout artist from the Y. M. H. A., will meet in the lightweight feature.

Another bout of promise is a return go between Arthur "Babe" Davis, 17-year-old Jewish Community Center representative, and big Jack Walker, the "Primo Carnera" of Alton. In their last meeting Davis was returned the victor by a slim margin.

Jackie Nelson, the hard-hitting Belleville boy, meets a tough customer in Carl Buck of the Downtown "Y" for the fifth special of the evening; and in another bout Marcus Brown of the Y. M. H. A. and Billie Galine of the Jewish Community Center, will tangle in a welterweight affair to decide the city Jewish 147-pound championship.

The bout between Elmer Polkinghorne, the district A. A. U. welterweight champion, and Louis Vollmer will probably go on as scheduled. Vollmen, a member of the National Guard, was ordered to Jefferson City. However, he informed the matchmakers that he would probably be back in time for his match.

The Program.

Special Bouts.

Joe "Peanuts" Borich, vs. Doc Hyatt, Y. M. H. A., weight 118 pounds.

Preliminary Entries.

Wayne Lingenfelter, Railroad "Y," [illegible] Shank, Jewish Community Center; Richard Qualls, unattached, and Harry Klein, Y. M. H. A., weight, 126 pounds.

M. Barnes, Downtown "Y," weight, [illegible] pounds.

Jean Sisleck, Alton "Y," weight, [illegible] pounds.

Aloy Fleus, Alton Y. M. C. A.; [illegible] Holtz, Downtown "Y," and Herman [illegible] pira, Downtown "Y," weight, 160 pounds.

CHICAGO, April 3.—Twenty-one State championship or runner-up Y. M. C. A. basketball teams today were on deck to begin the Chase annual championship tournament in the Oak Park High School field house.

The Buffalo (N. Y.) five was back to defend its title, but expected to encounter keener competition than a year ago. Drawings were scheduled for [illegible], with first round games to follow immediately.

GABBY STR

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

BRADENTON, Fla., April 3.—Extensive batting practice will be on the program during the remaining days of the Cardinals' spring training period. To make it possible to get in more work and eliminate the dangers incurred in games on rough and sandy diamonds, the St. Petersburg contests in the Rochester series have been transferred to Bradenton.

It was too late to let the cash customers here know about the contest scheduled for this afternoon, so it was cancelled, and the Red Birds will devote most of the morning and afternoon to efforts to sharpen their batting eyes. The games at St. Petersburg were not attracting enough customers to pay for the bus ride of the two clubs from Bradenton and then the infield there is inadequate, sandy and dangerous.

Time Lost in Travel.

Furthermore, the long drill on the bus takes away just that much time that could be spent in the batting cages, so when Sam Breadon called the St. Petersburg baseball chairman and made the transfer, the players joined in a chorus of approval.

"Not that I'm worried because my hitters haven't been warming the fences," said Gabby Street this morning. "Pitchers usually are ahead of the batters in attaining condition, and that is true of the Cardinal and Rochester clubs. We know we have the batting punch and it will develop before we go much further. And to help it to develop, to give the sluggers a chance to catch up with the pitching staff, we'll have as much willow practice as possible during the rest of our stay in the South."

Indications now are that the Cardinals will have, during their remaining week here, the sort of weather that they expected to find in Florida, and if it turns out that way, they will have to find some alibi other than physical condition if they fail to make a good start in the pennant campaign.

The pitchers are doing especially well. There has been occasional wildness, as in the case of Haines on Tuesday and Flint Rhem yesterday, but, while they were wild, they had convincing curves to offer.

Rhem tried for 15 minutes to warm up, but complained when it was time to start the game that he hadn't been able to limber up the muscles properly. After he had trouble with his control he ran to the clubhouse for a heavy woolen undershirt and after he put it on under his uniform shirt he showed immdeiate improvement and was unusually fast and had a jug handle curve.

Judged by the box score, Rhem's performance was terrible. The Rochester Red Wings nicked him for nine hits and six runs in five innings, but despite this Street was not discouraged. And then he had other things on his mind. He departed last night for [illegible], S. C., where he is to be married today or tomorrow.

A Contrast in Methods.

After Rhem had served his five innings, Herman Bell went to the hill and gave a really impressive exhibition of his stuff. Herman looked a different pitcher from the Bell of other years. He had speed balls and slow curves where the batters couldn't get hold of them, and in three innings not a man reached first base and none of them hit the ball out of the infield.

Street believes that Bell can develop into a great pitcher and it is largely because of his insistence that Herman was assigned to the Red Bird roster this spring. When he was on the Cards several years ago, his fast ball and sharp curves were effective for a time, but big league hitters can't be fooled for long by speed and curves unless they be thrown by a Walter Johnson, and Herman found that out. Now he has more to offer the batters.

RED BIRD NOTES

Miserably Weak Attack.

Yesterday's 7-6 victory in 11 innings evened the series at two games, and even the triumph didn't overshadow the fact that the Cardinals showed a miserably weak attack. One hit was their [illegible] in the last four frames.

Too Eager to Hit.

Moreover the attack wasn't [illegible]. But in the second inning John[illegible] forced [illegible] out Captain Frankie Frisch [illegible]

By J. Roy Stockton
the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

BRADENTON, Fla., April 3.—nsive batting practice will e on the program during the remaining days of the Cardinals' ring training period. To make possible to get in more work and iminate the dangers incurred in ames on rough and sandy diamonds, the St. Petersburg contests he Rochester series have been nsferred to Bradenton.

It was too late to let the cash stomers here know about the ontest scheduled for this afternoon, so it was cancelled, and the Red Birds will devote most of the morning and afternoon to efforts to sharpen their batting eyes. The games at St. Petersburg were not attracting enough customers to pay for the bus ride of the two clubs from Bradenton and then the infield there is inadequate, sandy and dangerous.

Time Lost in Travel.

Furthermore, the long drill on the bus takes away just that much time that could be spent in the batting cages, so when Sam Breadon called the St. Petersburg baseball chairman and made the transfer, the players joined in a chorus of approval.

"Not that I'm worried because my hitters haven't been warming the fences," said Gabby Street this morning. "Pitchers usually are ahead of the batters in attaining condition, and that is true of the Cardinal and Rochester clubs. We know we have the batting punch and it will develop before we go much further. And to help it to develop, to give the sluggers a chance to catch up with the pitching staff, we'll have as much wild practice as possible during the rest of our stay in the South."

Indications now are that the Cardinals will have, during their remaining week here, the sort of weather that they expected to find in Florida, and if it turns out that way, they will have to find some alibi other than physical condition if they fail to make a good start in the pennant campaign.

The pitchers are doing especially well. There has been occasional wildness, as in the case of Haines on Tuesday and Flint Rhem yesterday, but, while they were wild, they had convincing curves to offer.

Rhem tried for 15 minutes to warm up, but complained when it was time to start the game that he hadn't been able to limber up the muscles properly. After he had trouble with his control he ran to the clubhouse for a heavy woolen undershirt and after he put it on under his uniform shirt he showed immdeiate improvement and was unusually fast and had a jug handle curve.

Judged by the box score, Rhem's performance was terrible. The Rochester Red Wings nicked him for nine hits and six runs in five innings, but despite this Street was not discouraged. And then it had to be considered that Rhem had other things on his mind. He departed last night for Rhems, S. C., where he is to be married today or tomorrow.

A Contrast in Methods.

After Rhem had served his five frames, Herman Bell went to the hill and gave a really impressive demonstration of his stuff. Herman looked a different pitcher from the Bell of other years. He didn't depend on his speed or his curve alone. He was placing half speed balls and slow curves where the batters couldn't get hold of them, and in three innings not a man reached first base and nobody hit the ball out of the infield.

Street believes that Bell can develop into a great pitcher and it is largely because of his insistence that Herman was assigned to the Red Bird roster this spring. When Bell was with the Cards several years ago he had no change of pace. His speed and sharp curves were effective for a time, but big league hitters can't be fooled for nine innings by speed and curves, unless they be thrown by a Walter Johnson, and Herman found that out. Now he has more to offer the batters.

RED BIRD NOTES

Miserably Weak Attack.

Yesterday's 7-6 victory in 11 innings evened the series at two each. And even the triumph didn't overshadow the fact that the Cardinals showed a miserably weak attack. One hit was their total for four innings and they made six of their eventual total of 11 in the last four frames.

Too Eager to Hit.

Moreover the attack wasn't smart. In the second inning John Berly became wild, filled the bases and forced one run over the plate, but Captain Frankie Frisch played dumb dodo and walked up and hit the first pitch, flying out to end the inning, taking Berly out of the bad spot. If there is one time when you shouldn't hit the first one, it's when the pitcher has walked four men and has been in the hole to every batter.

It Looks Bad at Any Time.

However, Frisch may start thinking when the regular season opens. But as captain and star of the team he make himself look bad when he plays the part of old man stupid.

Douthit Off His Stride.

Taylor Douthit continues in his batting slump. He not only rarely gets a hit, but he rarely hits the ball solidly. However, he will be ordered to rest today and possibly tomorrow and that may help him.

Adams Starts the Punch.

Adams singled with one out in the eleventh, went to third on Frisch's single. Bottomley was passed to fill the bases and Adams scored while Hafey was forcing Bottomley at second. Charley Wilson, playing third could have cut off the run at the plate, but tried for a double play instead.

Consolation Here.

Tex Carleton who pitched 8 2-3 innings for the Red Wings looked like he would be a star on either staff. He'll be a Cardinal regular next season.

Meet Citizen Lynch.

DEMAVE TO BOX OTTO VON PORAT HERE, APRIL 15

Announcement that Jack de Mave, heavyweight, has been signed to meet Otto von Porat, the lanky Norwegian, in the feature 10-round match on a professional boxing program at the Coliseum, April 15, was made last night by "Brooklyn Tommy" Sullivan, matchmaker for the Frederick Stockham Post of the American Legion.

De Mave showed his wares in a local ring two years ago when he won a bout on a foul from Chuck Wiggins.

KNUTE ROCKNE DENIES CALLING SPECIALIST FROM MAYO'S CLINIC

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 3.—Mrs. Knute Rockne, wife of the Notre Dame football coach, asserted today that neither she nor Mr. Rockne had requested Dr. C. J. Barborka of the Mayo Clinic staff to come here from Rochester to examine the coach or consult with physicians attending him.

Previous wire dispatches stated that Dr. Barborka departed from Rochester this morning by airplane in order to hasten to Miami Beach for an examination of Rockne at the latter's request. Reaching Chicago in the plane, Dr. Barborka departed by train for Miami Beach at 12:45 p. m.

Mrs. Rockne expressed surprise when she was informed of dispatches saying that Dr. Barborka left Rochester by airplane today at the request of Mr. Rockne.

Her husband, she said, is rapidly recovering from the illness that affected him last fall and this winter, and is preparing to return to South Bend in about a week.

Early in the day, a maid at the Rockne apartment said that Rockne was ill and said that a doctor from the Mayo Clinic had been summoned to give him an examination following his period of recuperation.

JIMMY LONDOS WANTS HALF OF PESEK'S FORFEIT

By the Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., April 3.—Stanley M. Isaacs, president of the National Boxing Association today received a telegram from Ed White, manager of Jim Londos, a heavyweight wrestler, saying that White held the N. B. A. responsible for alleged derogatory statements about Londos' honesty and ability.

White also wired the Bank of Commerce & Trust Co. to retain one-half of the $5000 forfeit money posted with the N. B. A. by Al Haft, Columbus, manager of John Pesek, Ravenna, Neb., heavyweight, who was injured recently and unable to meet Londos in a match at Columbus on April 9.

Two days ago the N. B. A. withdrew its support from heavyweight wrestling, saying it was impossible to match wrestlers of that class in open and honest competition.

Isaacs said both $5000 forfeits posted by Londos and Pesek will be retained by the N. B. A. for 10 days, and then returned to the wrestlers.

SPRINGER, WASHINGTON ATHLETE, CALLED HOME DUE TO FATHER'S ILLNESS

Bert Spinger, Washington University athlete, has absented himself from school because of the illness of his father, it was learned this morning. Dr. Albert Sharpe, director of athletics, stated that he had no communication from Springer, so it is expected that the absence is temporary. Springer lives in Detroit.

Springer was picked to do some of the catching on the baseball team this year and to play end on the football squad next fall. An injury to his ankle prevented him from appearing in the Bear line last year. John Lambert Springer, which is his full name, was a guard on the basketball five.

The co-captaincy situation which existed between Dick Rawdon, an outfielder, and Clark "Bumps" Smith, pitcher, at the baseball banquet last year, was continued at a second election yesterday by the present members of the squad. Charles "Whitey" Wolf was elected captain of next year's swimming team, succeeding Bob Brenner, breast stroke star.

U. S. WOMEN TO PLAY IN THREE MEETS ABROAD

By the Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 3.—Miss Glenna Collett, national golf champion, who is leading a group of American women golfers abroad on April 22 for a series of matches with British women golfers, captained by Miss Mollie Gourlay, yesterday announced the complete itinerary for the American invasion.

Arriving at Southampton on April 28, the party will proceed to London immediately. The players will practice on golf courses in the vicinity of London for three days prior to the international matches at Sunningdale, May 1.

A feature of the schedule will be a dinner and reception in honor of the American girls the night of May 1 at the Savoy Hotel in London.

May 5 to 12—To Liverpool for practice at Formby for British women's championship.

May 18—At Glenn Eagles.

May 25—To Paris.

May 31—Sail for United States on S. S. Mauretania from Cherbourg.

McKENDREE STAR WILL LEAD BASKETBALL AND GRID TEAMS NEXT YEAR

By the Associated Press.

LEBANON, Ill., April 3.—McKendree College's outstanding athlete, Chlorus "Fuzzy" Hubbell of Flora, Ill., will captain both, the football and basketball teams next year.

Playing on a comparatively mediocre basketball team the past season, Hubbell's work was so brilliant that the conference coaches named him center on the Associated Press all-star second team. He scored an average of nearly 15 points to the game during the past season's competition.

Girls' Tourney Opens.

The Columbus Girls and the Continentals advanced to the second round of a girls' basketball tournament last night at the Battery "A" gymnasium. The Columbus Girls defeated the Saymans, 17 to 8, and the Continentals nosed out the Centenary Church girls, 9 to 7. The final games of the opening round will be played tonight when the Checkers meet the Aquinas Club at 8 o'clock and the Peetz Girls play the Sacred Heart Troubadors in the closing game of the doubleheader, an hour later.

IN dealing with the census man
Be not a cad or snubber;
He has to do the best he can,
His business is to rubber.

Extreme politeness you should show
To the enumerator;
He only wants to know you know,
To make our city greater.

So if your children number 10,
Which goodness knows is plenty,
In answering the census men
Just tell them you have twenty.

Deal fairly with the census man
In his examination;
We all should do the best we can
To boost the population.

While he may only be, in sooth,
A plain statistics grubber,
It is no sin to stretch the truth
When he comes round to rubber.

And That's Those.

KILLEFER'S MEN ARE NO BETTER THAN IN 1929; MACKS FAVORED

By Davis J. Walsh.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1930)

NEW YORK, April 3.—As far as anything can be certain in this comical existence, the Philadelphia Athletics are a swift, unerring kick in the pantry to win the American League pennant in 1930. They know all the answers; the rest of them don't even know all the questions and won't, until they get out there in the field and find out what they have, if anything.

It is a dictate of custom, of course, to name a world's champion to repeat the next time out, but the result of the last world series shouldn't enter into this and doesn't. The Athletics were a somewhat unbalanced, imperfect ball club then. They are no better now, but that is unimportant. The main point is that they are no worse. This should not be without significance, considering the fact that they won the pennant by something like 13½ games and that nobody in the meantime has done anything to rectify the matter.

Therefore, if there is to be anything savoring of a fight in the American League this year, it should devolve upon those teams that are gallantly determined to finish second. I strongly suspect that the club that ultimately falls heir to this dubious honor will not be the New York Yankees, peace to their ashes. However, naming the club that will beat them is strictly another tune on the old family pianoforte.

Browns Third or Fourth.

It might be the Browns; it might be the Indians. It might be neither. Who knows? I'm not the man I used to be, and never was, so I won't attempt to tell you. All I can do is call them as I think I see them, which is something like the following:

1, Philadelphia; 2, New York, Cleveland, St. Louis; 5, Detroit; 6, Chicago; 7, Washington; 8, Boston.

Like the Cubs in the National League, only more so, the Athletics have the pitching and the hitting and can afford to let the rest of it run pretty much for Mrs. Sweeney's husband. They have a mediocre infield, defensively, for a championship ball club. But what of it? Have the Yankees a championship infield, with the uncertain Koenig at shortstop and a recruit on third base? Have the Indians a foolproof array with their untried combination at second base? Are the Browns above reproach in this department and can the Tigers get by with a shortstop who wasn't good enough for the Boston Red Sox?

The Athletics are not without their faults, but neither are the rest of them and, unfortunately, the latter have all too few of the champions' virtues. All the latter have to do is play about 85 per cent of the baseball they know and they will ride home on the broadcloth.

The Indians and Browns, for instance, have advanced little between seasons. As for the Yankees, they have receded like an old man's gum. The break up of their infield, the decline of their pitching and the death of Huggins came simultaneously and disasterously in the midst of a reorganization, made necessary by the natural deterioration of an old champion that could go no further.

The Browns are at least as good as they were last year and perhaps better, whereas many suspect that the Indians were ahead of themselves in 1929 and are due for the inevitable reaction. Fonseca led the league then; they say he can't do it again. Indeed, his illness makes of him a highly precarious enterprise this year. However, Goldman seems to have come through at shortstop which, if true, will give the Indians something they didn't have—an infield. It is hard to call the difference between this pair, particularly so in view of the fact that, with all of their internal acrimony, the Browns were only two games back of the Indians last year.

DENVER BOWLER TOTALS 720 IN A. B. C. SINGLES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., April 3.—Another attempt will be made to displace the Devese five of Buffalo from the top spot in the American Bowling Congress tourney tonight. Fifty-four teams from 16 cities are carded on the two squads. Included on the opening session are the crack Collinswood Shale Bricks and the W. W. Springborns. The two groups will attempt to land the title for Cleveland. The Springborns won the championship at Chicago in 1924 as the Herb Indians, totaling 3044.

Several prize-winning marks were registered last night, but the leaders experienced no uneasiness. The Carr Brothers, Bedford, O., topped the early shift with a 2885 total, while the Travis Pembertons of Youngstown were high on the late squad with a 2845 count.

Harold Asplund dropped in from Denver yesterday to create two changes among the leaders in the minor events. The Colorado sharpshooter rolled into second place in the singles division with a 720 total and took fifth berth in the all-events with 1942. Bill Mills, Pontiac, vaulted into fourth spot in the nine-game department with a 1932 count.

RALSTONS WILL MEET DECATUR QUINTET IN RETURN GAME HERE

In an effort to avenge its only defeat of the year, the Ralstons team, champions of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball League, has extended its season in order to meet the Staley quintet of Decatur, Ill., in a return game that will be played at the Armory, Saturday night, starting at 8:15 o'clock.

Last Saturday night at Decatur the Ralstons lost, 32 to 24, after being tied, 20 to 20, at the close of the third quarter. The Staleys, composed of ex-college stars, is the best team the local aggregation has met this season. There is pronounced interest in Decatur in the return game, it is reported here, and it is expected that 100 or more rooters will accompany the quintet to St. Louis.

Previous to the defeat the Ralston aggregation had won 14 consecutive games, going through the Y. M. C. A. Industrial League undefeated, and also winning intercity games from a leading quintet of Memphis, Tenn., and a Hamilton, O., team.

SHIMON CHALLENGES FOR 3-CUSHION TITLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 3.—Max Shimon of Milwaukee, as runner-up in the recent national amateur three-cushion title tournament, has exercised his right to challenge. The former champion has notified G. Raymond Collins, president of the National Billiard Association, that Milwaukee is ready to stage the challenge match against Joseph Hall of San Francisco, winner of the tournament.

Under the rules Hall must defend the emblem within 60 days. The National Billiard Association has the right to select the city and to name the dates for the challenge match. Milwaukee, which has been the scene of challenge matches in amateur three-cushions and 18.2 balkline this season, is favored for the Hall-Shimon championship test.

COMMUNITY CENTER WRESTLING TEAM WINS

Coach Coleman Grossman's Jewish Community Center mat squad outclassed the Maplewood High wrestlers in meet held last night in the Maplewood High gymnasium. The Jewish boys won five of the seven scheduled matches, showing a decided improvement since their first meet with the strong Neighborhood squad. Coach Grossman's winners were "Mick" Kravitz, Herman Thaller, Max Berman, Dave Goldstein and Morris Rudman. The boys to taste the sting of defeat were Joe Nodiff and Max Slumpsky. A return match is scheduled April 16. Next month the Center team will enter the City-wide championships to be held at the North Side Y. M. C. A.

ST. LOUIS U. HIGH WILL OPEN WITH VETERAN INFIELD

With two of their three pre-season games canceled because of bad weather, Ed McCarty's St. Louis U. High tossers will have to be content with one practice contest, against Roosevelt next Tuesday, before they open the Prep League season at C. B. C. April 11. The Junior Billikens were to have engaged Ritenour and Chaminade, but wet grounds will make both tilts impossible.

Despite the lack of practice games, McCarty has been giving his men thorough workouts both indoors and outdoors. From present indications the greatest strength of the Blue and White, defensively, will be centered in the infield, which will be composed of three veterans and one rookie. Grossi, a freshman, the only newcomer, will hold down the initial sack. He handles himself well and seems to have the post clinched, although Flanigan also is doing nicely. The veterans Schulte-Henrick and Lee Murray will work at short and third respectively, with Max Krygiel at second. Krygiel, a catcher last season, is supplanting Hartrick, letterman of 1929.

The outfield will also be well supplied with experienced players, inasmuch as Joe Connors and "Port" Minette are back at their old positions. The third outfield berth seems a toss-up between Burnsen and C. Gregorwicz. Connors and Minette were among the leading batters of the league last year.

Stiebel, a recruit receiver in 1929, has the catching job well in hand, and looks like the best of the backstops. The pitching staff will be large, with Hummel, Hansen and "Babe" Connors, lettermen, and Ed Shea, M. Gregorwicz and Tichat, newcomers, dividing the mound work.

Defensively, the outfit appears to be among the best, but the batting strength has yet to meet its first test. If the Blue and White batsmen can come through, it is possible that the team will finish among the leaders in the league race.

The schedule:

April 8—St. Louis U. High at Roosevelt.
April 11—C. B. C. at St. Louis U. High.
April 22—Western M. A. at St. Louis U. High.
April 26—Country Day at St. Louis U. High.
April 29—St. Louis U. High at McBride.
May 6—St. Louis U. High at C. B. C.
May 9—St. Louis U. High at Country Day.

HODGE TO

FIVE RANKING STARS TO PLAY IN MEET WHICH OPENS SATURDAY

By Davison Obear.

Karl H. Hodge, Triple A star and No. 4 ranking local player, has entered the fourth annual St. Louis district indoor tennis championship, which opens Saturday at the Washington University Field se. Play will begin at 2 o'clock urday afternoon, continue that ght and be resumed on Monday ht, according to an announceent made by Dr. F. E. Diekneite, airman of the Tournament Comittee.

During the past month Hodge participated in several Florida tournaments. In one of them he forced John Doeg, No. 3 national ranking player, to a 6—3, 7—5 score. Hodge is now playing in the New Orleans invitation event in preparation for the district play next week.

Two more first 10 ranking players sent in their entries late yesterday. Sidney Smith, Forest Park and Washington University player, entered the men's single and will also play in the men's doubles with Herbert Weinstock. Vernon Tietjen, former interscholastic champion and Washington University player, is also entered in the men's singles event.

Only five of the first 10 ranking players in the St. Louis district territory had sent in their entry p to yesterday. In addition to odge, Smith and Tietjen, the entry of Wray Brown, winner two years ago, and Herbert Weinstock has been received.

Additional entries received include those of Louis J. Sharp III, St. Louis County junior star, Fred W. Horner and J. H. Witherspoon, Triple A player. Harold Wiese and Herbert Steideman, members of the Washington University tennis team, re entered in both singles and oubles. Ray Wiese will also participate in the play.

Entries for the men's singles will close tomorrow afternoon at 4 p. m. The men's doubles entries will be held open until 9 o'clock Saturday night. The entry fee is $2 for singles and $3 a team in the doubles. Players may enter at the tennis headquarters, 825 International Bldg., 722 Chestnut street.

The continuance of indoor tennis in St. Louis will depend somewhat on the financial success of this year's tournament. Series tickets good for admission to all of the tournament matches may be procured at 825 International Bldg. at $1.50 each.

Coaches Favor Basket Law to Curb Stalling

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 3.—Looking with disfavor upon the delayed style of play in basketball, 268 of 422 Illinois high school coaches who answered a questionnaire sent out by Coach J. Craig Ruby, of the University of Illinois, indicated a desire for vigorous ac on by the Rules Commitee gainst "stalling."

Ruby, who is president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches, will present his findings to the Rules Committee at it's annual meeting Friday and Saturday at Chicago.

One hundred and twenty-eight coaches said they wanted no change in the rules. A curious anomaly was found in the fact that of 60 schools that used the stalling type of play this season, 56 voted for action to discourage the slow style of game.

Relative to the center-jump, 241 coaches voted to have it retained while 152 suggested it be eliminated. Many of the latter suggested insertion of the ball into play from out-of-bounds at the end line.

Harold G. Olson, coach at Ohio State University, and chairman of the Rules Committee of the na onal association, will give his report Friday afternoon, while findings of a committee headed by Dr. Forrest G. (Phog) Allen, director of athletics at the University of Kansas, relative to introducing basketball as an Olympic sport, will be reported Friday morning.

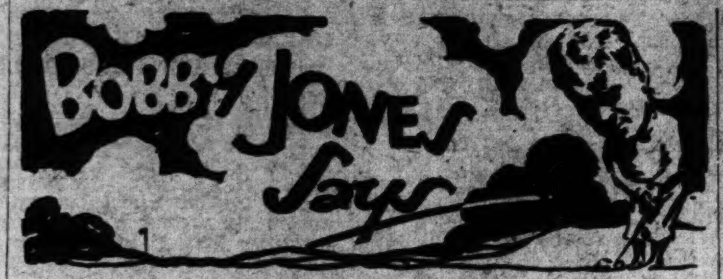
Sloan's Liniment



(Copyright, 1930.)

FRANK BALL says that Americans on the whole are longer drivers than British golfers, and advance as a reason for their superiority the fact that the American players have developed their games upon sheltered inland courses, where free footwork and body-action have not been hampered by the need of preserving balance in a gale of wind.

Whether or not we admit the truth of Frank's observation that the Americans are longer hitters, unquestionably there is in his thought a very sound explanation of the different lines which the development of the swing has taken in the two countries.

English writers and golf experts almost without exception have commented upon the free swinging of the Americans. Based upon observations of the Ryder and Walker Cup teams, both composed of homebred players, the British have summarized the American method as simple and direct, with a long free swing, feet close together, and a generous turn of the body. They find that among their own players the swing is shorter, the feet are farther apart, and the body action is considerably restricted.

Long Swing, Great Power.

THERE can be little question that the long swing is a stroke of great power. The longer the arc through which the club-head passes and within which it may gather speed, the greater that speed will be when the ball is reached. It is only possible for the swing to be too full when the added length causes a loss of control. On the other hand, a short, compact stroke is less complicated than the longer one, and where a solid foundation and complete control are necessary, the long swing becomes decidedly a dangerous implement. I should say that what is the proper length depends upon the balancing these two factors so that the stroke may be as long as possible without impairing its accuracy.

Apparently that is what has been done by the best golfers of each nation. One cannot develop a number of styles to suit every variation of wind or calm, but must cultivate one method which is best under conditions most often encountered. It is quite conceivable, therefore, that one who plays a great deal by the seaside, where nearly every day is a gusty one, will cultivate habits which will secure a firm and fast connection with the earth while executing the stroke. A wide stance with feet planted firmly into the sod is the first thought. This wide stance of itself restricts body action, and that restriction in turn limits the length of the swing. I am conscious that, even in my own case, although normally my feet remain very close together, when a sharp wind is blowing, instinctively I place my feet farther apart to brace my body against the wind.

Wind Seldom Disturbing.

IN America only rarely is there occasion for any such precautions. On nine out of every 10 days whatever breeze there may be is hardly enough to disturb the ball in flight, still less likely to upset the balance of the player himself. Under such conditions, there is no need for a brace against anything but the force of the swing itself, and that amounts to little if the machinery moves smoothly. The result is that the proper balance of length and control, under the conditions he is called upon to face, permits the American player to indulge a much freer swing than is allowed the Briton in his own sphere of play.

It is impossible to say which method is most effective. I think it is unfair, because Americans have been the more successful in the past few years, to condemn the swings of all British golfers. Each method has evolved through years of play. Neither is a mere fad bobbing up suddenly without its background. There is in Great Britain today a great admiration for the American style of play and the feeling is that their own players would do better if they would imitate the American method. In a few years the shoe may be on the other foot and we may be doing the shouting.

ROPE CLIMBING EVENT TO BE A FEATURE OF GYMNASTIC MEET

The winner of the rope-climbing event of the Western A. A. U. gymnastic carnival at the Young Men's Hebrew Association tomorrow night will be recognized in the National A. A. U. record book as the first district champion.

Special arrangements have been made for timing the event so that the fastest time made by the winning entrant will be accepted as accurate by the national body. Robert Probst, president of the Western A. A. U., will officiate as starter and Clarence Henry, C. A. Neavles, Herman Waldman and Edwin A. Lindenbaum, former national champion, official timers of the A. A. U., will serve in that capacity. Joe Forshaw will serve as judge.

The carnival is the first one sponsored by the Western A. A. U. and has attracted a large field of entrants from the Concordia Gymnastic Society, the Southwest Gymnastic Society, North St. Louis Turners and Soldan High School.

PLA-MORS BEAT TULSA TEAM IN HOCKEY PLAYOFF

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 3.—Kansas City's Pla-Mors, first place holders in the American Hockey Association at the end of the regular season, took an advantage over Tulsa in the championship playoff series by a 4 to 0 victory here last night. The first game Tuesday night ended in a 1 to 1 deadlock.

The Pla-Mors climaxed a brilliant exhibition of hockey with two solo goal forays in the third period.

Mitchell unassisted shot the puck into the citadel within two minutes after the period opened and six minutes later Munro scored the second counter of the final session on a solo race from center ice.

The next two games of the playoff are to be played in Tulsa Saturday and Sunday.

Lewis, Slow as Cold Molasses, Beats Plestina in Garden Bout

Former Champion and One-Time Rival, Both Heavily Upholstered, Fail to Please Crowd With Slow and Careful Wrestling—Match First Under Promotion of "Zibby."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Encouraged by the recent success of Jack Curley's league of wrestlers which operates Monday nights in the 71st Regiment Armory, the Madison Square Garden corporation, with Stanislaus Zbyszko as matchmaker, last night turned its attention to recuperating the sport and presented the sometime champion, Ed "Strangler" Lewis, in the main bout on a program of six contests.

The Strangler, puffing hard, slow afoot, weighing 235 pounds, applied the finishing touch in 31 minutes 41 seconds to Marin Plestina, 240 pounds, once on a time called the champion of Jugo-Slavia.

The end came unexpectedly; almost softly, and its manner of coming, and in fact the bout in its entirety, did not especially please the 7500 fans, many of whom were schoholed in the ultra-modern form of grappling, as exhibited by the high flyers, billy-goat butters of the Curley troupe.

Neither Strangler Lewis nor his opponent last night were quick enough, violent or wrought-up enough to make the main bout the spectacle wrestling fans have been accustomed to this season.

Both Wrestlers Slow

Lewis and the Jugo-Slav puttered around for a half hour, occasionally accelerating their pace for a moment, only to roll over together in a series of grunts. They oozed in and out of holds at the rate of a molasses flow in January. When at last Lewis pinned his man with an arm lock it came as a welcome end of an agony monopolized by the spectators.

An Afghan, Abdul Ghafoor Kahn, looking every bit the part, made up for some of the disappointments by the rousing struggle he put on to win from Harry Mammas. Both weighing 190 pounds, they supplied most of the violence and all of the humor that was forthcoming last night. Knowing that they had but 20 minutes to work, they were not inclined to save anything for a rainy day.

WEBSTER JUNIOR TRACK TEAM SWAMPS KIRKWOOD HIGH, 84 TO 29

DEVINE WINNER IN FOUR RACES; ROSE IS STAR FOR THE LOSERS

In a junior track meet yesterday afternoon Coach Roberts' Webster Groves High team ran away from Kirkwood High, 84 to 29. Due to a last-minute withdraway of the kirkwood men, no senior weight events were held as originally intended.

The outstanding star of the meet was Bob Devine of Webster, who won firsts in the 50 and 100 yard dashes, was victorious in the high and broad jumps, and ran on the winning Webster relay team. These 21¾ points gave Devine a junior letter, for which 15 points are required. It was his first and last meet as a junior this season.

An interesting feature of his winning the letter is that a few week's ago he was downhearted because he failed when trying to make the baseball team in hopes of winning a 'W;" but, now he has won exactly the same kind of letter by scoring the points in this one meet instead of playing in about nine games as the ball players have to do.

Close behind Devine, however, came "Tubby" Harkey, with 21 points. Harkey, although his thinness belies the fact that he could do such, took every weight event. He also won the relay and was third in the pole vault.

The Kirkwood juniors took only two firsts—the pole vault by Pierce at 8 feet 9 inches, and the 440-yard dash by Rose in :56.7½.

Rose was high-point man for Kirkwood with 7 points. Besides his first in the 440, he scored two thirds in the shotput and the javelin throw. Pierce and Patrick tied for second place honors with 6 points each.

Coach Gaines' Webster baseball team goes into action for the second time this week on the Webster field this afternoon. Today's opponent is Roosevelt of the City League. Gaines will probably start Hudson on the mound, and the other positions will remain the same.

440-YARD DASH—Rose, Kirkwood, first; Wendell, Webster, second; Sawyer, Webster, third. Time, :56.7.
880-YARD RUN—Wendell, Webster, first; Sawyer, Webster, second; Murtfeldt, Kirkwood, third. Time, 2:13.5.
110-YARD LOW HURDLES—Harkey, Webster, first; Rogers, Webster, second; Conley, Kirkwood, third. Time, :13.2.
BROAD JUMP—Devine, Webster, first; Conley, Kirkwood, second; Sterling, Kirkwood, third. Distance, 17 ft. 2 in.
HIGH JUMP—Devine, Webster, first; Rogers, Webster, second; Pierce, Kirkwood, third. Height, 5 ft.
POLE VAULT—Pierce, Kirkwood, first; Tremayne, Webster, second; Harkey, Webster, third. Height, 8 ft. 9 in.
SHOT PUT—Harkey, Webster, first; Carr, Webster, second; Rose, Kirkwood, third. Distance, 43 ft. 4¼ in.
DISCUS—Harkey, Webster, first; Sawyer Webster, second; Link, Webster, third. Distance, 118 ft. 6 in.
JAVELIN—Harkey, Webster, first; Sterling, Kirkwood, second; Rose, Kirkwood, third. Distance, 132 ft. 9 in.

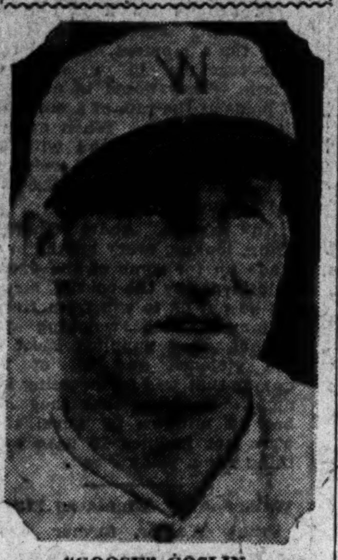
Signs Contract



"GOOSE" GOSLIN.

Sportsman Dies.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 3.—Maj. Frank H. Briggs, 70, nationally known amateur sportsman and official, died of pneumonia here last night. Major Briggs was a member of the 1920, 1924 and 1928 Olympic committees, officiated at the 1914 Olympic games, at every I. C. A. A. A. A. track meet, and for 20 years at the University of Pennsylvania relay carnivals.

Goslin Finally Signs Contract With Senators—Dan Howley Has No Worries About Third Base.

By the Associated Press.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 3.—Goose Goslin, with the other Senators, will leave tonight for Birmingham, Ala., for a short series with the Barons. They will return on Sunday however for a five-game series with the Boston Braves.

In spite of rain yesterday, things were sunny for the Senators, as Goslin signed for $10,000 and a bonus which made it possible for him to earn $16,000, which he was paid last year.

Preseason talk which had Johnson and Goslin at odds seemed routed with the leader's words following Goslin's signing:

"I'm tickled to death," he said. "We need his punch and all I ask of him is that he give me his best."

Gehringer Hits Homer.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 3. — The Detroit Tigers are here for a three-game series with the Atlanta club of the Southern Association. Manager Stanley Harris still is hoping his charges will come out of their exhibition season batting slump.

In their game at Macon yesterday with the Brooklyn Robins, the Detroiters collected only three safeties off the delivery of Adolpho Luque, but one of these was a homer by Charlie Gehringer with Elias Funk on base. It won the game, 2 to 0. Vic Sorrell allowed the National Leaguers only two hits.

No Third Base Worries.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 3.—Third base no longer worries Dan Howley, manager of the Cincinnati Reds. His selection for the position has not been made but he believes any one of his candidates—Joe Stripp, Tony Cuccinello and Charley Dressen, will perform there satisfactorily. With the team's departure for today's game at Birmingham, it became known that Frank Behle, business manager the past nine years, will resign upon reaching Cincinnati. "I have had enough traveling and prefer to take a rest," he said.

Shaute's Work Is Poor.

NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—One more slice with the pruning knife and the Indians' pitching staff will be down to its season's quota of nine members. With the release of Belve Bean and Leslie Barnhart to New Orleans, the staff was cut to 10, and four of them—Shaute, Glatto, Harder and Jablonowski—will struggle for three jobs. Shaute, dean of the staff, was considered a certainly a few weeks ago, but his work has been unimpressive and he'll have to compete with the youngsters.

Umpire McGrew Is Ill.

HOUSTON, Tex., April 3.—Old Man Misfortune, who has tagged just about everybody on the Pittsburg Pirate training squad, seems determined to make a complete job of it. Even the umpire has fallen victim. Ted McGrew, new National League official traveling with the Bucs, has the flu. Of the team with which Jewel Ens hopes to ride to a pennant this year, only Paul Waner, Suhr and Comoroskey are able to be at their posts—and Comoroskey has a bruised foot.

Hornsby's Heel Bothers.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 3.—Manager Joe McCarthy's regulars may be slow in reaching form, but the Chicago Cub reserve force appears to be ready for the championship season. In yesterday's 10 to 2 victory over Los Angeles, only Woody English, shortstop of the regular infield, was in the lineup. Blair was at third for Bell, Beck worked for Hornsby at second, while Tolson played first for Charlie Grimm, and all performed well. Hornsby's bad heel still bothers him, Grimm is suffering from lumbago and Bell's throwing arm is too lame for duty.

McGraw Picks His Lineup.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 3.—Manager John McGraw has just about decided on the lineup the New York Giants will use in their opening game of the regular season with the pitching berth still to be filled. In the course of discussing the Giant prospects during yesterday's rain, McGraw said he would send his team against the Braves with Johnny Mostil, center field, leading the batters, followed by Leach or Reese, left field; Lindstrom, third base; Terry, first base; Ott, right field; Jackson, shortstop; Marshall, second base; Hogan or O'Farrell, catcher. As to the pitching job, McGraw refused to commit himself so far in advance but, "if the season were opening tomorrow," he said, "I would pitch Bill Walker."

Bowling Notes

Eight teams of the St. Louis Hoo Hoo Club League will meet eight clubs of the Minneapolis Hoo Hoo Club League in special matches at the Arway Recreation Parlor tonight. The matches will be scratch with the events starting at 7 o'clock. The schedule follows: Northwesterns vs. St. Louis Goodfellows; Insuliters vs. St. Louis Fehligs; Bob Cats vs. St. Louis Chipmans; Thompsons vs. St. Louis Huttigs; Berges vs. St. Louis Hills; Pole Cats vs. St. Louis Steeles; Twin Cities vs. St. Louis Boecklers; Shevlins vs. St. Louis Schillings.

The local Hoo Hoo Club bowling season will be completed in three weeks. The race is exceedingly close with any one of the first eight teams being possible winners of the Huttig Cup. The Hills are leading by one game over the Fehligs, with the Goodfellows third, three games behind the leaders and the Chipmans and Steeles tied for fourth, five games in the rear of the Hills. The Huttigs and Boecklers are two games behind the Chipmans and Steeles.

The Goodfellows have high team average in the Hoo Hoo Club League, enjoying an 18-pin lead over the Fehligs. The records are 847 and 829. Team high single, 1014, is held by the Fehligs, while the Carrs have team high three, with 2761.

The Vandervoort-Jaccard Bowling League will roll in a body in the Industrial Handicap tournament at the Rogers alleys Saturday night at 9 o'clock. The teams and captains follow: Emanelos, W. Niemeyer; Saids, A. Edwards; Banks, F. Merget; Office Boys, William Kerner; Specials, A. Korst, and Shoes, G. Buderman.

Only two 600 series were registered in the Kenrick Council K. of C. League on the Melene alleys during the last round of play. Lowell, anchoring for his Bear Cats, rolled 649, while Reidy of Klorer's team, shot 645. Several high single games were bowled, with Bonfanti taking the weekly prize with 246. Lowell had a 245 game and Reidy one of 241. League matches resulted as follows: Lowells 2, Klorers 1; Rose Buds 2, Mueller Cubs 1; Balducci Birds 2, Foersteis 1; Bonfantis 2, Cains 1.

The Rays, led by Radermacher, who shot 671, totaled 3017 scratch and won three games from the Atlas five in the Northwestern Industrial Handicap League on the Melene Alleys. Freesmeier, 633, and Beschof, 619, helped Radermacher. Harris' 606 was best for the losers. In the other matches, the Rexalls lost the odd game to the Americans, the Fuels won two from the Superiors No. 2, the Standards took three from the Superiors No. 1, the Fishers won three from the Metalcrafts and the Brodericks won two from the Hindes. The team leaders were: Ford 671, Wagner 575, Zeip 629, Christman 532, Largent 555, Schaub 511, Gierke 611, Banister 496 and Kammann 574.

Cleveland Team Wins "Class C" Polo Tournament

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Out of three attempts, the Cleveland Polo Association has gained one of the national indoor polo championships. Cleveland, sole Middle Western contender in the handicap events, entered three teams in the low goal championships and came through to victory only in Class C.

The Cleveland B and D class contenders were defeated in their first games, but the Class C trio of W. H. Zink, Capt. C. Radcliff and W. H. White won three successive contests, taking the championship last night by defeating the New Jersey representative, the Ridgewood Polo Club, 7½ to 3. Previously the Commonwealth Club of Boston and the 104th Field Artillery of New York had been eliminated. Cleveland found a two-goal handicap unnecessary as Zink and Radcliff scored seven times.

The Class D event was reduced to a struggle between New York and New Jersey last night as the Ramapo Polo Club trounced the Yale Officers, 11 to 2½, in a semi-final game to gain the final against the Squadron A trio of New York.

With the open championship hardly under way, the New York Athletic Club trio sprang a minor upset by eliminating Big Tim Clark's Commonwealth team from Boston, 9 to 4, in the first round.

Winston Guest's Great Optimists had no trouble in overcoming a six-goal handicap to defeat Pennsylvania Military College, 15 to 8½, in a first-round Class A game.

"LOVE LIKE OURS CAN NEVER DIE," MUTTERED MARMADUKE, Thickly.

"You'd be surprised," replied the sprightly Sophia. "With a rasping voice like yours, love is likely to fly out of the window and land on the back of its neck. What our love needs is insurance."

"What insurance?" he wondered.

"The insurance of OLD GOLDS, boy friend. Throat-ease and tender tones caused by the mellow, mild, heart-leaf tobacco; vocal cords that act without a struggle; no tickle, scratch or scrape. OLD GOLD yourself, Marmie, and we shall be inseparable. There's not a bark in a billion."

DOG SHOW OPENS TOMORROW WITH MORE THAN 800 ENTRIES

Three-Day Program to Be Given by Mississippi Valley Club at Arena.

The aristocrats of dogdom and at least one half-breed which gained fame recently by pulling a 5-year-old boy out of the River des Peres, will be on exhibit tomorrow at The Arena, 5700 Oakland avenue. More than 800 animals have been entered in the eighteenth annual show sponsored by the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club, which will continue through Sunday night.

The entries include representatives of 43 breeds, distributed as follows: 140 police dogs, 72 fox terriers, 64 pointers, 60 collies, 50 Boston terriers and 50 beagles. Breeds represented by more than 20 entries are Irish setters, cocker spaniels, Great Danes, Scotch terriers, pomeranians and bulldogs.

The show will be directed by George F. Foley, Philadelphia, who is in charge of about 70 of the principal dog shows throughout the country each year. Lambert Kreimer of Germany, noted police dog trainer, will give demonstrations at the show each day and will conduct the high jumping contest for police dogs.

CASH ASSETS OF YOUNG BROS. RISE FROM 8 TO 69 CENTS

Liquid assets of the bankrupt brokerage firm of W. H. Young & Bros., Inc., with $2,000,000 of its worthless stock in the hands of the public, mounted to 69 cents today.

Federal Receiver F. E. Williams, who discovered eight cents in the cash drawer when he took charge last week, found in today's mail a check for 61 cents, representing a dividend on some Oklahoma oil land royalty stock held by the firm.

The receiver also has possession of two Cadillac automobiles owned by the firm and used by William and Fred Young, president and vice president; the furnishings in the eight-room suite of offices in the Central National Bank building, and a stock of stock certificates, most of them worthless.

Dr. Milton P. Overholzer Replaced by Dr. George A. Johns, Now at Nevada.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 3.—Removal of Dr. Milton P. Overholzer, Harrisonville, Mo., as superintendent of State Hospital No. 2 for the Insane at St. Joseph, "for the good of the service," was announced yesterday by the board of managers of State eleemosynary institutions following a meeting here. Dr. George A. Johns, St. Louis, new superintendent of State Hospital No. 3, at Nevada, will succeed Dr Overholzer, effective May 1.

Roy Monier, chairman of the board of managers, said Dr. Overholzer had not been removed because of any particular incident in his administration, but because of his advancing age and the desire of the board to have a more active man in charge of the institution.

"Dr. Overholber has rendered some good service in the past but we felt this change was desirable for the good of the service," Monier said.

Gets the 3 Best Things in Life

When all a girl needs is a clear smooth skin, plenty of energy and a stomach which does not deprive her of the cake, candy and good food she wants, just keep down the excessive stomach acids, like pretty Lillian Utley, 921 Eastwood Ave., Chicago, does.

"I got the surprise of my life when I started taking Acidine," says Miss Utley. "Whenever I ate anything rich my stomach got so acid I'd have headaches and get sick. That's all over now. Acidine sweetens my stomach so easily I never have to worry. It tastes fine. I like it."

Sick, acid stomach, burning sensation in the throat, excessive thirst, skin rash, come from too much acid when the stomach doesn't digest the starchy food and sweets you eat. Get a package of Acidine at any drug store and see how quick, pleasant and inexpensive it is.

SHARP UPTURN IN WHEAT PRICE ON LOCAL BOARD

Expanding Export Business and Complaint of Dry Conditions in Parts of Southwest Are Influences

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 3.—Influenced by report that Europe had purchased 2,000,000 bushels of North American wheat and continued complaint of need of surface moisture relief in parts of Southwest, wheat futures ranged up sharply today. Corn also gained. May wheat closed 2⅝c higher, July wheat up 3⅛c and September 4½c better.

New crop deliveries of wheat ranged up more than a cent during the early period of trade with May nearly cent better. Winnipeg was up 1⅛c early. Liverpool came ¾d to 1⅛d higher in one cable. Corn futures also were higher early.

May wheat opened at $1.09½, July wheat $1.08⅝, Sept. wheat $1.10. May corn 87½c and July corn 88c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 78,400 bushels, compared with 113,400 a week ago and 79,400 a year ago, included 48 cars local and eight through. Corn receipts, which were 67,200 bushels, compared with 101,800 a week ago and 95,200 a year ago, included 41 cars local and seven through. Oats receipts, which were 70,000 bushels, compared with 61,000 a week ago and 41,800 a year ago, included 26 cars local and nine through. Hay receipts were 14 cars local.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

CHICAGO WHEAT HIGHER ON LARGER EXPORT TRADE

CHICAGO, April 3.—Big broadening out of North American export business, together with increasing crop complaints from Southwest, West and Northwest, caused rapid advance of wheat prices today. Europe was reported to have purchased 2,000,000 bushels for trans-Atlantic shipments from Canada and the United States, chiefly Canada. The bulge in wheat values carried the market up to the highest level since March 1, and more than 5c per bushel above prices current last week.

Wheat closed feverishly at a maximum jump of 5⅛c a bushel for the day, with the market as a whole ranging from 2⅞ to 5⅛c higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1⅛@2⅛c up; oats, 1⅛c advance, and provisions showing 2½c gain.

Dispatch from a Chicago crop authority on a field tour southwest said rain was needed over a wide extent of wheat territory. He said that in places but little moisture remained around the roots of wheat and that some fields already were losing color, but that with rain within a week and no hot weather wheat could still make a good crop. Damage, however, would increase even with cool weather unless rain was received, he said.

Liverpool advices that Argentine wheat offerings had dwindled tended further to lift values, as did also word of improved demand for wheat from North America. One forecast pointed to 5.1 per cent decrease of spring wheat acreage this season in the Canadian Northwest.

Houston Oil 5½s were higher.

Local Business and Financial Items

Traffic handled by the Missouri Pacific lines in March showed a substantial increase over the total for the preceding month. Local loadings and receipts from connecting lines in March totaled 138,889 cars, compared with 129,609 in February. On the Gulf Coast Lines the total loadings and receipts from connections was 23,127, compared with 18,829 in February. On the International-Great Northern the loadings for March totaled 8657, compared with 8538 in February. Receipts from connections were 11,438, compared with 10,202 the previous month.

* * *

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 3.—J. M. Kurn, president of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway, said today that the decrease in current traffic was due to a decline in automobile, coal and lumber loadings. Movements of all other commodities are showing gains over last year.

"It is difficult to predict when traffic will begin to pick up," he asserted, "but a heavy road building program gets under way in our territory on April 15 and this should help business considerably.

"Agricultural conditions are good. We are experiencing ideal weather for planting cotton. It looks as if more acreage has been sown with wheat this year than last."

ALUMINUM CO. 1929 NET INCOME $11.18 A SHARE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 3.—The Aluminum Co. of America today reported 1929 net income of $25,318,050, equal to $11.18 a share on the common stock, this total compares with profits of $20,672,750, or $8.03 a share, in 1928.

NEWMONT MINING CO. NET IS $23.35 A SHARE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 3.—The Newmont Mining Co. today reported 1929 net profit of $11,777,048, equal to $23.05 a common share, compared with $7,438,357, or $15.52 a share in 1928. The annual report showed that the company was carrying stocks of listed dividend-paying corporations at a cost of $32,452,383, but that their market value Dec. 31 was $39,844,011.

City Ice to Acquire Company.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, April 3.—Directors of the City Ice and Fuel Co. here today approved a proposal to acquire the Seaboard Terminal and Warehouse Co. of Jersey City, N. J., on a basis of one share of City Ice preferred stock for each share of Seaboard preferred and one-half share City Ice preferred for each share of Seaboard common.

Illinois Bell to Spend $4,597,667.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 3.—Directors of the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. today approved expenditures totaling $4,597,667. This brings the yearly appropriations approved to date to $8,183,662. Today's approvals include $2,936,519 for a new plant in Chicago and $1,661,148 for work in other parts of the state.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Raw sugar was steady with little change in quotations, but a better inquiry reported. Sales confirmed included 36,000 bags of Philippines and 30,000 bags of Porto Rican at 3.61c, and 102,400 bags of Porto Rican at 3.64c, all for April shipment.

Raw futures opened 1 point higher to 1 point lower, but soon eased off under renewed liquidation and selling of new crop deliveries by houses with trade and Cuban connections. The more liberal offerings in the spot market, and continued uncertainty over developments in Cuba, seemed to account for the increased selling pressure while demand was light and mostly in the way of covering on the scale down. Prices at midday were 1 to 3 points net lower.

Sugar futures closed easy; approximate sales, 58,750 tons; May, 1.60c; July, 1.71c; September, 1.77c; December, 1.84c; January, 1.85c; March, 1.89c.

NEW YORK COFFEE.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Coffee steady; demand fair; Rio No. 1, 10¼; Santos No. 4, 14¼. Rio futures closed firm; approximated sales, 20,000 bags; May 8.78, July 8.42, Sept. 8.20, Dec. [illegible], March 7.87. Santos futures firm; approximated sales, 42,000 bags; May 13.[illegible], July 12.65, Sept. 12.29, Dec. 11.92, March 11.65.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Total sales amounted to $10,802,000, compared with $13,184,000 yesterday, $14,667,000 a week ago and $8,230,000 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $810,805,000, compared with $896,611,000 last year and $888,381,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bond are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar. That is, for instance, a sale printed 99—24 means $99 and 24 thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Following is a complete list of bonds traded in on the New York Stock Exchange today, giving sales, highest, low and closing prices:

C. R. I. & PAC. PROPOSES $32,000,000 ISSUE

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Authorization to issue $32,228,000 of 4½ per cent convertible gold bonds and $25,782,400 of common capital stock for conversion of the bonds was sought today by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway in an application to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The bonds would be convertible into the stock at $125 a share after May 1, 1931, and before May 1, 1940.

They would be offered to stockholders of record March 27 at 95 per cent, each stockholder being entitled to subscribe to an amount of bonds equal to 25 per cent of his present stockholdings.

Proceeds would be used to reimburse the road for expenditures already made, but not yet capitalized, and completion of construction already under way.

INVESTMENT BONDS ARE EXTREMELY DULL

NEW ORK, April 3.—Trading in investment bonds was extremely dull today. The rails, utilities and industrials of higher ratings fluctuated narrowly whenever more than a handful of bonds was involved, but on smaller transactions moved a point or so, indicating the thinness of the market.

Amusement issues, after spending a quiet forenoon on a declining price scale, did a sudden about face in the late dealings as the shares came into prominence. General Theaters 6s converted a 2-point loss into a net gain of more than 4 points, crossing 137 to a new record price. Loew's 6s also turned strong.

CLOSING PRICES ON CURB IRREGULAR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 3.—The Curb Market was subjected to further selling pressure today, in continuation of the movement which swept prices substantially lower late yesterday, but there were numerous strong spots throughout the day. Just as the selling seemed to dry up in the late trading, the list generally turned upward cancelling much of the earlier losses. Closing prices, however, were irregular.

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Early declines in cotton under further realizing and selling for a reaction based on the apparently less urgent demand from near shorts and the extent of recent advances, were followed by rallies in the cotton market today, on a renewal of trade demand or covering. The mid-afternoon market was steady within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotations.

Futures closed very steady, 17 to 24 points higher: May, 16.36@16.38c; July, 16.63@16.65c; Oct., 16.07@16.08c; Dec., 16.16c; Jan., 16.24@16.25c. New contracts: Oct., 15.80c; Dec., 15.80c; Jan., 16c. Spot steady; middling, 16.80c.

Cotton opened steady at a decline on 1 to 4 points.

There was some buying on relatively steady Liverpool cables but there were also over-night selling orders, particularly in near months, and slight rallies from the opening met cotton from various sources. The liquidation apparently included realizing and selling for a reaction, based upon the extent of recent advances and a less active demand for the old crop months. Before the session had advanced far May was off to 16.23c and new October to 15.53c. Active months showed net declines of about 6 to 9 points. Liverpool cables said Continental and Bombay liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling and covering in that market and reported further sales of cotton cloths to the home trade and India.

Trading was moderately active later in the morning with the decline extending to 16.17 for May and 15.46 for the new October contract or about 13 to 15 points net lower under continued realizing and selling for a reaction. The latter appeared to be encouraged by the slackening of the demand for near months and there were rumors that some cotton was to be brought here from the South for delivery. At midday the market was barely steady and within two or three points of the lowest.

LONDON, April 3.—Standard copper—Spot £70 5s; future £69 7s 6d; electrolytic, spot £83 10s; future £84. Tin, spot £164 17s 6d; future £166 2s 6d. Lead, spot and future £18 15s. Zinc, spot £18 5s; future £18 17s 6d.

WE RECOMMEND

Greater North American Co.

1,825,000 shares (or 32%) of Pacific Gas and Electric Common will be received by the North American Company for all interests in California. This includes the Great Western Power, San Joaquin Light and Power and Midland Counties Public Service, which gives Pacific Gas a value of $650,000,000 and makes it the third largest utility in the United States.

American Cities Power & Light
Class B Stock

Dividends of 10% in stock afford an attractive yield. As high as 60% in 1929, the current price of this stock of 28 is less than half the 1929 figure. Of the company's investments, 70% is in well-managed public utilities which includes 290,000 shares of Class B stock of the North American Company, selling at about seven times its earnings.

Central States Electric Corp.
Common Stock

The dividend rate of 40c in cash and 10% in stock yields at present prices 11.1%. Selling as high as 83¾ in 1929, it is selling currently on the New York Curb at 37⅝.

In addition to the 325,000 shares of North American Company, it has large holdings in the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and other large utility companies.

53 BODIES ARE RECOVERED FROM JAPANESE SHIPWRECK

Two Others Die After Rescue and 40 Persons Are Still Missing.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, April 3.—Dispatches to the vernacular newspapers from Wakamatsu said that when search was given up today at the scene where the ferryboat Wakato Maru capsized yesterday, 53 bodies had been recovered, 40 persons were missing. Two of those rescued died later in a hospital, making the probable death toll 95.

The ferryboat, soon after leaving Wakamatsu for the town of Tobata, was lashed by a gale which swept huge waves aboard. The 200 passengers, twice the vessel's normal capacity, rushed to one side of the ship to escape drenching. Their weight caused the boat to turn over. The Siberian girl dancers were missing and the remainder of the dead, principally women and children, were thought to have been Japanese.

Despite the storm, large crowds remained at nearby beaches throughout the night, many searching frantically for missing relatives. During the night scores of fishing boats, lighted with torches or kerosene flares, floated at the scene of the disaster, looking for bodies.

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.

FOR 19 years, Laura La Varnie has been known to motion picture workers as "Ma"—nothing else.

She was 57 years old when she made her screen debut and today she is still doing character work.

"Ma" La Varnie celebrated her seventy-sixth birthday on March 2, 1930, while playing one of the roles in Edmund Goulding's "The Devil's Holiday," in which Nancy Carroll is starring at the Paramount Studios in Hollywood.

For 36 years before she entered motion pictures, she was a well-known stage figure and since entering screen work has become well established as a character actress.

Yet she has never retained a single press notice.

Her 76 years are filled with interesting experience, yet, because she thinks but seldom in the past tense, it is difficult to secure much of a life story from her.

She was born in Jefferson City, Mo., March 2, 1854. Her father was Curtis Anderson, editor of a weekly paper there, and she had three brothers, all editors. Today, she has not one living blood relative, she says.

A short time later, the family moved to Columbia, where she entered college at the Baptist College there.

• • •

SHE was at college only a short time when a man, who she says was 45 and a professional gambler, came into her life. She met him at a country fair. She had known him only a few days when they eloped. She was only 17 then.

She and her husband moved to Chicago. Her hair was still in curls and the theater was a great attraction.

Shortly after her twenty-first birthday, she went on the stage in a show, "The Earl and the Girl," a Shubert musical presentation starring Eddie Ford. She played in the company for two seasons and then went to New York for a year with the Shuberts.

In the meantime, she and her husband had been divorced. As Laura Anderson, she began a career that took her throughout the eastern part of the country. Before she completed that part of her career years later, she had appeared in nearly every town, large or small, which boasted a theater.

Laura La Varnie.

For week after week the companies in which she appeared played one-night stands only.

"At one time I played for four solid months, never missing a night and never playing more than a single night in one town," she says, adding, "And that's seeing the country in a hurry."

• • •

WHEN she was 26 she was playing in Chicago in "Pinafore" with Jefferson de Angelis. Frank La Varnie, who was the business manager of New Buckley's Adelphi Theater in San Francisco, was in Chicago trying to persuade Pauline Markham, one of the earliest of all burlesque queens, to come to the Coast.

The "Pinafore" company stranded and La Varnie secured the services of Miss Markham with the understanding that he also take Miss Anderson and De Angelis west to support the star.

Shortly after the trio of players arrived in San Francisco with La Varnie, the manager had married Miss Anderson and since that time she has used the name Lucille La Varnie. Her husband's mother was Keziah Loverne, who came to the United States with Jennie Lind, and whose name was misspelled as La Varnie upon her arrival and remained the same ever since.

From the time of her wedding, Miss La Varnie's career was again one of traveling.

"We toured the country time and again in my husband's productions," she says, "and we all were close to starving all the time."

Her career as an actress eventually led her to New York and she was playing in "Madamoiselle Mischief" with Lulu Glaser when her husband died.

• • •

AT this time motion pictures were coming into vogue, and Laura La Varnie went to the Biograph "lot," which was then on Fourteenth street in New York. Her first screen work was in a comedy with Charlie Murray. After this work, she was put into stock at the studio and remained there three years.

D. W. Griffith was directing at the Biograph studios at the time, and among the players were Mary Pickford, Blanche Sweet, Dorothy and Lillian Gish, George Walsh and Mae Marsh, Miss La Varnie says. Francis Powers and James Kirkwood were both directors during the time Miss La Varnie was in stock at Biograph. Kirkwood is now acting in "The Devil's Holiday," in which Miss La Varnie is working.

"Six months after I joined Biograph, the studio moved to its new site on Seventy-third street," she says. "We did most of our work in New York, but every six months we came to California for six weeks at a time to do needed exteriors."

• • •

IN 1915, the actress came to Hollywood and her first part was that of Lady Martha, a deaf woman, in Mae Murray's "Sweet Kitty Belairs," directed by James Young at the Paramount studios on Vine street. She then appeared with Blanche Sweet in "A Thousand Dollar Husband," and Young was the director.

Since that time until she returned 15 years later to the present talking picture studios of Paramount, she did not again play in a picture made by this company.

Shortly after her second Paramount production, Miss La Varnie joined the Mack Sennett Co. and was extremely successful in her first picture playing the cruel aunt of Mabel Normand during her two years with Sennett. Among these was "Raggedy Rose." Miss La Varnie was one of Miss Normand's best friends and was with her frequently until the time of her death, recently. One of Miss La Varnie's most valued possessions is a wrist watch given to "Ma La Varnie" in appreciation by Miss Normand.

New Use for Linoleum

A HOUSEWIFE wanted a tile wainscoting in her bathroom, but considering this too expensive she hit upon the idea of substituting linoleum.

She got in touch with a plastering contractor who assured her it could be glued right on the wall.

She selected a suitable inlaid pattern and with her husband's assistance the linoleum waiscoting was applied and finished off with a moulding.

They were so greatly pleased with the result that they put a wainscoting of inlaid linoleum in the kitchen, "and the best of it is," says the little woman, "it cost so much less than a tile or inlaid wood and, so far, we like it quite as well."

LOUIS BERETTI--Gangster

By Donald Henderson Clarke

Author of "In the Reign of Rothstein"

The galloping story of the career of a juvenile enemy of the law---Born in the throes of a Chinatown battle, successively thief, dope peddler, bootlegger, gunman, Louis finally turns on his "mob" and crashes the front page as the heroic avenger of society in a sensational kidnaping.

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters

LOUIS BERETTI of New York's Chinatown, grows up as a boy with an antipathy to policemen, school teachers and "snitches." His pal is Big Italy. Louis begins life as a thief in a small way. When the war comes he forms a friendship with Bill Pedersen, an aristocrat, who has a pretty sister, Louise. Bill is killed and, when the war is over, Louis returns home, takes up bootlegging and runs a speakeasy. Big Italy, his partner, is sent to prison for two years and Louis carries on alone. He is making plenty of money when he meets Margaret, a good-looking Irish girl, and marries her. A year later a son is born to them. Big Italy comes out of the pen and he and Louis resume their partnership. In the meantime Louise Pedersen has married a wealthy man and also has a son. This child is kidnaped and Louis, remembering his war buddy, takes a hand in a search for the baby and discovers a clew to the kidnapers. Then he begins to worm the truth out of one of them. Getting it he kills this man and goes after the others.

CHAPTER XXII.

A WEEK LATER the World told in great headlines of the discovery of William Pedersen Boonton's body; and also said that information in the underworld was that the kidnaper had been killed.

With a first edition of the World in his pocket, Louis went home to Jersey for the first time in a month. He walked into the living room where his wife was sitting and said:

"Where's Dan?" Louis said.

"I feel so sorry for his poor mother, but it is better for her to be sure he is dead than to be worrying about him for the rest of her life," Margaret said.

Louis turned into the hall and walked upstairs and went into Dan's bedroom. Dan was there in bed, a toy bear on one side of him and a toy elephant on the other. Then Louis walked back downstairs to the living room. Margaret had put out his slippers, so Louis sat down and took off his shoes and put them on.

"It feels good to be home," Louis said.

"Would you like a bite to eat?" Margaret said.

"Sure," Louis said.

They went into the dining room and Louis ate some sandwiches and drank some wine.

"Help me off with my coat, will you, Maggie?" Louis said.

"Another case of pneumonia?" she said.

And then she had a flash of intuition. She glanced from the bandages to the newspaper which she had brought upstairs and put on the dresser, intending to read in bed the long article that Bill O'Brien had written.

Louis wasn't a man to her anyhow. He was a sort of institution. He was so hard and impersonal that she never expected to get inside of him. But she knew just as well as if she had been told that the finding of the body and the death of the kidnaper had something to do with Louis' absence. It made her proud of Louis, but didn't lessen her fear of him in the slightest. He was so silent about what he did and what he thought. He never even bothered to tell her where he had been, what he planned to do, what he had done, or anything about himself, past, present or future.

• • •

NOTHING could have illustrated the effect of Louis upon his intimates better than the fact that Margaret wouldn't have dared breathe her suspicion of the truth even to Louis. There was something admirable in that quality of silence in Louis, but there was something sinister in it, too. Margaret could wish that Louis had been strong in better ways. But she was glad he was strong. And it felt good when Louis wrapped the mass of muscle and sinew that was his left arm around her a little later, and said:

The next night Louis came home early again, and got into his slippers. He ate some sandwiches and drank some wine, and went to bed. Before he went to sleep he said: "It feels good to have a home to come to and to go to bed. It makes a guy feel good."

Louis didn't say anything that was on his mind to Margaret, but she began to hope that he had decided to turn over a new leaf and live the life of an ordinary business man, like their neighbors.

Margaret had become acquainted with several of the women who lived nearby. She had been brought up on pinochle and cribbage, and it didn't take her long to become a fair bridge player. She took lessons, and played for small sums, and was having the pleasantest time of her life.

Her new friends knew that her husband owned The Cellar Door, and instead of looking down upon him for that, they respected him for running one of the best known and the most popular eating and drinking places in New York.

• • •

MANY of the husbands patronized The Cellar Door, and several of them owed Louis for checks. They suggested golf to Louis, but he called it pickey. He took some of them to the races on two or three occasions, and went to two or three drinking parties in neighbor's houses.

"But listen! They serve bathtub gin in tumblers," he told Big Italy, one day when Big Italy dropped in at The Cellar Door to see him. "I can't stand that racket."

"You're getting settled down," Big Italy said. "You're sitting pretty. Your old man has got plenty of dough. I suppose those tenements are worth about $150,000 now."

"And he only paid $60,000 for 'em," Louis said.

"That old place keeps your brothers," Big Italy added.

"Yeah," Louis said. "We haven't anything to worry about now except getting pinched, and we're careful about not selling anything to strangers."

"Getting all the stuff analyzed?" Big Italy inquired.

"Sure," Louis said, "I ain't dumb. But it's a funny thing that the only wood alcohol we got was in the cordials, and those are brought in from the other side. They must be slipping us poison over there. It's a hot one, ain't it?"

"They pinched Palermo the other day, and the Government chemists found wood alcohol in his cordials," Big Italy informed him. "And Palermo got his cordials off the ships. He made all the rest of it himself."

"Yeah," Louis said. "That's the way it goes."

"How're things with you?" Louis asked.

"Well," Big Italy said, "I got a job I guess I'll put over tonight. It's this 'Big Nose' Eisenberg. He can't keep his nose clean."

"Where is this guy?" Louis said.

"He's down at Coney Island," Big Italy told him. "I'll get him down there."

"I'll go along," Louis said.

"You'll go nowhere," Big Italy maintained. "You'll go home and put on the old slippers, and read the newspaper and listen to the radio. You got responsibilities now. I wouldn't have you go."

"You're a liar," Louis said. "You knew when you came up here that I was going to go with you."

"No, I didn't," Big Italy said. "You shouldn't go. You are all settled down and you got responsibilities."

"You wait till I've had enough drinks to get steamed up and then you tell me you're going after a guy," Louis said. "You know I was born wild and that I can't keep still."

"Well, you got to keep still now," Big Italy said. "You've been goin' home every night for a while now, and I ain't the guy to spoil that. You got responsibilities."

"Don't say that word to me again," Louis said. "You'll have me nutty. You know damned well I'm going with you, and that you came up here to get me to go with you."

"Have another drink and calm yourself," Big Italy said.

"There you go," Louis said. "You know the more booze I drink the more steamed up I get. Who's goin' to drive us down there—Joe Bergman?"

• • •

BIG ITALY regarded Louis out of those astonishing, hard light brown eyes, which never showed any traces of the pictures forming and re-forming in the brain behind them.

"No," he said, "Joe said he coudn't make it tonight. Jack Quinn is goin' to drive me."

This unusual circumstance of Joe Bergman not doing the driving didn't arouse Louis' conscious astonishment, as much as it might if he hadn't always taken for granted every act of Big Italy. A change in the custom of years, made by anyone except Big Italy, in such an important matter as a murder would have caused him to voice his surprise to himself, and to ask himself the reason. In this case the sensation of an unusual situation was smothered in the sedative bath of his trust in Big Italy.

"Jack can drive O K," Louis was saying when the telephone on the stand at his side rang. Louis picked up the French instrument, receiver and transmitter in one piece, and said: "Hello."

"It's me—Bill O'Brien," said the latter's voice over the wire, a curiously alcohol thickened, but pleasantly timbered voice. "I've got to see you right away, Louis. Will you wait for me there for half an hour, sure?"

"You got to cancel the date, then, Louis," Bill said insistently. "You got to."

"Aw, can it, Bill," Louis replied pleasantly. "I'll see you tomorra, or next day. If you want any booze or anything, or any money or anything like that, the Kid'll take care of you."

"Now listen, Louis," Bill said, his husky baritone raising the merest trifle in pitch and seriousness. "I never was so serious in my life. This is what they call on the stage a matter of life and death. And it's just as serious as that. There couldn't be anything more important for me to see you about. For Christ's sake, don't stir out of there until I can get there. I don't want to talk over the telephone, and I don't want to talk now any longer than I have to. You've got to wait. I've got to see you. There's hell to pay."

• • •

BILL'S voice, raised in earnestness, sprang out of the earpiece of the phone, in small, but clear air waves which filled the room.

"Hang up on him, why don't you?" Big Italy said. "A guy with a bun on, huh?"

"What is it, Bill?" Louis asked. "Tell me over the phone. What the hell are you afraid of? Make it fast now, Bill, or I'll hang up."

"I can't talk over the telephone," Bill said. "Damn it, can't you understand? Wait there for me. You've got to."

"I'll give you 30 seconds to tell me now," Louis said. "Then I'll hang up."

"Well, I've gotta take a chance, then," Bill said. "But if anybody hears me, we're in trouble. They found an automobile jack in that sack."

Louis and Big Italy were looking into one another's eyes at that moment. Neither pair, the light brown eyes of Big Italy, or the dark brown ones of Louis, wavered a hair's breadth, nor showed any change on their hard, burnished surfaces.

But in the maelstrom of emotions back of the two hard, impassive faces twinkled the flying feet of Little Italy, and the tense atmosphere seemed again to quiver with the long drawn, suddenly hushed wail, neither ever had been able to forget.

"I can't go along with you, Italy," Louis said in his usual tones. "I got to see a guy on important business."

"O. K.," Big Italy said, just as casually, and reached for a drink without asking Louis to have one. And Louis poured himself a drink without asking Big Italy to have one. It was the first time either of them ever had done that, too. They drank, watching each other.

Louis knew that so far as Big Italy and the mob was concerned he hadn't kept his nose clean. He didn't know how they had found out that he was responsible for the death of Guiseppi Vesalli, and the discovery of Bill Boonton's body, or if they had known of Joe Bergman's jack in the sack. But he knew that they knew enough.

• • •

ON the curtain of his memory was a photographic flash of Joe Bergman looking at him when he had asked Joe Bergman to drive O'Brien up to Westchester. Joe Bergman had been suspicious then.

That picture hung for the hundredth part of a second and gave way to a mental image of Red McLaurin receiving his lethal dose of lead. Red hadn't kept his nose clean, either.

But Louis understood perfectly that Big Italy knew, just as well as he knew, that Louis Beretti wasn't going to stand around and take a bellyful of lead from anyone.

Louis also understood that he couldn't explain anything. Explanations didn't count in his world. What happened was all that mattered. And what had happened was that he had butted into a situation that was none of his affair and, as a result of it, Joe Bergman would be arrested as the murderer; and if Joe Bergman squealed, it would involve the whole mob probably. Louis had little doubt the idea of the big reward was Big Italy's. There was nothing soft or sentimental about Big Italy.

It didn't take Louis a second to see the situation clearly.

"And what the hell did Italy want me to go down to Coney Island with him for?" Louis was thinking, when the telephone rang again. Still looking at Big Italy, Louis mechanically lifted the receiver, and said "Hello." Margaret's voice said:

"Hello, Louis. This is Margaret."

There was a curious quality of suppression in her tone. But Louis wouldn't have needed that to have tightened every strained nerve in his body. She never had called him on the telephone before at his place of business.

"Hello," he said noncommittally, squeezing the receiver into his ear.

"I just called you up," Margaret said, her words spacing themselves slowly, "to tell you that Dan is all right and I am going for a ride with the Atterburys, and we may not be home until late."

"O.K.," Louis said in the same noncommittal tone. "Good-by," and he hung up the receiver.

He knew someone was forcing Margaret to make that telephone call.

No one can deny the importance of having the hair arranged in the style best suited to the individual type. Much of the effect is lost, however, unless the hair is kept soft, abundant, lustrous.

A million busy women and girls know the easiest way to keep the hair in perfect condition is with Danderine. The first application will show you how marvelously it removes excess oil from the hair; cleanses it; makes it sparkle with new life and lustre. It's so simple to use Danderine. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair! The consistent use of Danderine will dissolve dandruff, soothe, heal the scalp; stimulate the growth of long, silky, abundant hair.

Danderine isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. It makes the hair easy to manage; holds it in place for hours. "Set" your waves with it and see how much longer they stay in.

Rice Recipes

Representative Montet of Louisiana Tells His Colleagues at Washington How Cereal Should Be Prepared to Obtain the Best Results.

MEMBERS of the House of Representatives at Washington were told the other day by Numa Montet, new Congressman from the bayou country of Louisiana, how farm relief can be promoted and dinner table enjoyment increased by the utilization of rice, and its proper preparation for food as directed in recipes that have been tested and tried.

Farm relief was under discussion and Mr. Montet asked and obtained unanimous consent to revise and extend his remarks on the subject in the Congressional Record. Therein he sang the praises of rice and for proof of its palatability he gave a number of recipes, some that are the common possession of all good cooks in Louisiana and some that he had worked out himself in the kitchen of his hunting shack on Bayou Lafourche. Here is the story of rice as Mr. Montet told it and as it is preserved in the Congressional Record:

Mr. Montet: Mr. Speaker, the question of farm relief addresses itself to us with ever-increasing intensity.

These remarks are not only addressed in the interest of farm relief, but also as a suggestion for the improvement of the general health and, if heeded, to give added enjoyment to the American dinner table.

The general use that can be made of most edible farm products is already well known. The consuming public more or less understands the various methods and recipes satisfactorily used in the preparation of wheat, oats, barley, rye, corn and their products, but there is one splendid food article grown in great quantities in this country with which, generally speaking, the American public is not familiar as to the best methods of its preparation for table use. If the public were as well versed in the proper cooking of this food as are those in the locality where most of this crop is grown, there would be little or no surplus demanding the attention of the Federal Farm Board, as it is one of the most delicious, sustaining foods grown on American soil. Properly prepared, its daily use not only improves the general health but also tends to reduce the cost of living. It is a cheap food article, and when the housewife learns of its deliciousness through proper cooking, it will become a popular dish in all American homes. This food is none other than rice.

THIS country produces some 40,000,000 bushels of rice annually, in 1929 Continental United States produced 40,217,000 bushels, and of this Louisiana produced 19,352,000 bushels. For some years Louisiana has annually produced over 40 per cent of the rice grown in this country. The people of that State are by far the largest per capita consumers of rice in the United States, all because one finds there methods for its cooking that make it a most delicious food, enjoyed by all and denied to none.

When one leaves that section of this great country and finds rice on the dinner table, it is usually served in broths, soups and custards with a smatter of raisins and other mixtures whereby the real deliciousness of the food does not prevail. While rice is served daily on the tables of practically all Louisianans, its delightfulness is never overshadowed by a predomination of raisins, nutmeg or milk. It is prepared in the manner hereafter explained, served with every dinner, brought to you in a large dish, and eaten with chicken, beef, ham or other gravies and vegetables.

Louisiana is known for its cooking, and no Louisiana meal is ever complete without delicious rice and gravy, and besides it adds a dish which is not costly by any means. As a satisfactory, wholesome, and sustaining food, rice has no substitute when properly prepared. When the American housewife is out of Irish potatoes or even bread, if she will serve a dish of this rice I am satisfied that she will find it a desirable substitute and thereafter serve it along with her Irish potatoes, and so forth, upon which to spread her tasty gravies.

Then add the rice to boiling water gradually so as not to stop the boiling. Let boil for four minutes. Then cover the pot and cook very slowly for 20 or 30 minutes. Remove it from the fire, let stand for five minutes, and when served every grain will be separate. If a double boiler is used, the rice will be whiter and drier but will take longer to cook. If the rice is fresh, slow cooking for 20 minutes will be sufficient, but it is always very simple to determine when the rice is cooked by rolling two or three grains between the fingers. If the grains are soft and not gritty the rice is cooked.

In the absence of gravy, it is also very delicious if butter is spread thereon.

There was a curious quality o suppression in her tone. But Louis wouldn't have needed that to have tightened every strained nerve in his body. She never had called him on the telephone before at his place of business.

He knew someone was forcing Margaret to make that telephone call.

Rice Recipes Extolled in Congress

Sings Praises of Rice

CONGRESSMAN MUNA MONTET.

Let me add here two or three other recipes which are very popular in New Orleans and throughout Louisiana, and which, as you know, is the home of famous Creole cooking.

* * *

One and one-half cups rice, three cups water, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons bacon fat, five slices bacon (or as much fat ham), one-half cup chopped onions, two cloves garlic (if desired), three fresh tomatoes (or one No. 1 can tomatoes), two green peppers minced.

Boil rice for 15 minutes.

Fry bacon or ham crisp brown, chop into rice. Fry onions, garlic, and green peppers in bacon fat; add tomatoes. Cook five minutes; add seasonings, then add to the rice. Mix well, cover and cook slowly for 20 minutes. Garnish with parsley and two or three crisp brown slices of bacon.

One cup cooked rice, 6 to 8 outside leaves of cabbage, 8 toothpicks, 1 cup ground meat, one-third cup chopped onions, one-half teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1 No. 2 can tomatoes, one-half teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons bacon grease.

Pour boiling water over the cabbage leaves. Let stand five minutes. Remove from water and drain. Mix the rice, onion, meat, pepper and salt. Fill each cabbage leaf with part of the mixture. Roll the leaf and fasten with toothpicks. Place in a baking dish, and pour over them the can of tomatoes and the grease. Bake 20 minutes.

* * *

One cup raw rice; 1 pound red beans, soaked over night; one-half pound salt meat cut in strips, one for each serving; 1 onion, leave whole so it can be removed after cooking if preferred. Seasoning to taste.

Cook beans, salt meat, onion and seasoning together with enough water to cover well, until beans are cooked so well that they fall to pieces. Add enough water from time to time so that there will be plenty of thick rich gravy. Serve with the cooked rice.

One cup peas, 1 cup corn, 2 tablespoons minced onions, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups cooked rice, 2 strips bacon, 1½ cups milk, one-fourth teaspoon pepper.

Place in layers in greased baking dish; when casserole is filled, add milk. Place bacon strips on top and bake until brown.

Those interested in tomatoes may also encourage the further use of tomatoes by suggesting the following for a rich tomato soup:

One cup rice, one cup tomatoes, one onion, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, four cups boiling water, one tablespoon butter, two tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon celery salt.

Put rice and sliced onion into boiling water. Cook until tender. Add tomatoes. Press through sieve. Brown the flour in butter and add to the rice mixture. Season with salt, pepper and celery salt. Serve hot with croutons. Garnish with chopped parsley.

* * *

THE kiddies can also come in for their share of enjoyment by serving them a supper of boiled rice, cream and a bit of sugar. The light, fluffy grains are easily and quickly digested. All children will love their rice and you may rest assured it will not disturb their slumber.

I could give a number of other recipes, but the foregoing are most enjoyed by both rich and poor in the land of the famous Creole cooking.

Mr. Lankford of Georgia. Does the gentleman think there is any better way of cooking rice than that used in the State of Georgia, merely cooking the chicken and rice together?

Mr. Montet. I have such a recipe here.

Mr. Lankford of Georgia. If the gentleman has any improvement on the plan we have in South Georgia, I would like to see it.

Mr. Montet. I have here a recipe which provides for that method of cooking.

Mr. Glover. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. Montet. I yield.

Mr. Glover: I am very much interested in the gentleman's discussion of rice, because the great rice fields of Arkansas are in my district. And, while the gentleman has recipes for cooking it, I do not think the Louisianans can cook it like they can in Arkansas.

Mr. Montet: Of course, we Louisianans do not agree with the gentleman.

Mr. Glover: What I would like to ask the gentleman is if the rice people of Louisiana have made a study of how they can use the by-product, so-called, the rice straw, as provided for in this last bill? Provision was made there, I understand, for a board to make a careful study of the various uses to which the by-products of farm growth may be put.

* * *

MR. MONTET: I answer to the question of the gentleman, we have in Louisiana some mills which are manufacturing paper in great quantity out of rice straw. Experiments are now being carried on to discover further and different uses for rice straw.

Mr. Glover: I am very much interested in that. There was recently a statement made by a secretary of a chamber of commerce in the rice belt of my State, which states that 100,000 tons of rice straw is going to waste in that small territory that could be used in the manufacture of paper.

Mr. Montet: A great deal of rice straw goes to waste in the State of Louisiana also. However, a satisfactory method of making paper has been discovered. Other experiments are being made in order to consume the remainder of the rice straw now going to waste.

Mr. Linthicum: Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. Montet: I yield.

Mr. Linthicum: Coming from the gastronomical center of the universe I should like to ask the gentleman from Louisiana if he thinks rice would take the place of nice Maryland fried chicken with green corn cakes around it? Does the gentleman think there is anything equal to that?

Mr. Montet: The gentleman's dish would be wonderful if he only added rice, cooked in the Louisiana way.

Mr. O'Connor of Louisiana: Did I understand the gentleman from Maryland to state that Baltimore was the gastronomical center of the universe instead of New Orleans?

Mr. Montet: I believe my original remarks will show where that center is. Everybody knows it is New Orleans and Louisiana.

Rice is a cheap food. Its cost is very little, its nutritive value is undeniable, and if the thousands in whose homes these recipes find their way will avail themselves thereof, I not only look for the definite settlement of the rice growers' surplus crop troubles but rice will become an article to be found on the American table daily, much to the delight of those partaking thereof and the improvement of their health. (Applause.)

Cape of Storms.

THE Clock had turned the time much farther back this evening and had taken John and Peggy on the most dangerous trip they had ever known.

They knew they were safe because they felt sure of the Little Black Clock—yet, they did feel nervous.

The boat was very old-fashioned. It was the sort of a boat John had only seen in pictures and the sailors were rough looking. So was their leader.

"They are too busy to know we are here," the Little Black Clock said, "and besides you see we have magic that can bring us on these old voyages without being noticed by others."

They were not far-away from a cape of land which was thrust out, overlooking the sea.

"Later on this tip-end of Africa which we're now seeing," explained the Little Black Clock, "will be called the Cape of Good Hope, but it is known now as the Cape of Storms."

"That's a good name for it," said John. "This is really terrible around here. I don't see how they could ever change the name."

"Oh, there will be complaints that the name of Cape of Storms brings bad luck so they'll change it."

"Who is in command on this vessel?" John asked.

"A Portuguese explorer named Vasco da Gama. No harm will come to us. We know that.

"Listen! They're trying to discourage him. They're telling him not to go on this trip. He wants to go to India—all the way by water. There have been others before him to try this but they have not succeeded in going all the way.

"Shall we stay with them and see what he decides?"

"Yes," both John and Peggy agreed, but it took all their courage to say it.

HEALTH

Edited by Dr. Iago Galdston.

Lord Lister.

ONE of the greatest of England's surgeons was Joseph Lister, later Lord Lister, who was born in Essex in 1827 and died in 1912.

It is to him that modern surgery owes the boon of asepsis and antisepsis. It was he who, applying the discoveries of Pasteur, robbed surgery of its terror, infection.

Even with the best of surgical care, Lister found that in his amputation cases 45 per cent of his patients died from infections. He was not content to believe, as most surgeons then did, that there was anything like "laudable pus."

On the contrary he felt that all pus was evidence of infection and that pus became "laudable" only when the patient survived in spite of it.

Chancing once to read of the work of Pasteur on fermentation and pasteurization, he became impressed with the worth of the experiments and their possible bearing on surgery. Not being able to pasteurize or sterilize the patients' wounds or area of operation by the direct application of heat, he began to search for a chemical sterilizer. After many trials he hit upon carbolic acid.

After working with this substance for a period of two years he reported his discovery to his fellow surgeons His results were so contrary to theirs that a storm of protest and dispute followed.

Lister was little moved by the storm that raged over his work. On the contrary, he merely continued his studies and perfected his techniques.

In time his discoveries were validated and applied by others. Further, the work he initiated was developed to a point where, instead of combating the germ in the operating room or in the wound cavity, all that came in contact with the patient were rendered as bacteria-free as was humanly possible.

If you wash the woodwork with lime water and let it dry thoroughly before you apply paint it will dry in half the usual time.

The program:

"Good News," "Weary River," "Lady Luck," "Have a Little Faith in Me," "Sweeter Than Sweet," "Rose Marie," "Sleepy Time Gal," "In a Little Spanish Town," "Cryin' for the Carolines," "Aren't We All?" "The Girl Friend," "On Miami Shore," Group from "Sweet Adeline," "Dream Tango," "St. Louis Blues," "Chant of the Jungle," "Somebody Mighty Like You," "Gypsy Love Song," "Sweet Nothings," "Got a Rainbow," "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise," and "Hittin' the Ceiling."

The National Radio Forum program is scheduled at 9:30 over KMOX.

The National Grand Opera company will broadcast a performance of "Carmen" over KSD at 10 o'clock. Cesare Sodero will conduct.

A drama of the Colorado gold rush will be presented in the Conoco Adventurers broadcast at 10 o'clock over KWK from the Chicago NBC studios. The playlet will have its locale in "Russell Gulch," a well known center of the gold rush activities, situated about 40 miles from Denver.

Amos and Andy are scheduled at 10:30 over KWK.

Another prohibition poll discussion may be tuned in at 10:45 over KWK.

CAUSE FOR REJOICING!

EXCUSE our enthusiasm, but we see good cause for rejoicing as the Music Defense League nears the 2,000,000 membership mark after a few weeks of effort.

And, if that doesn't prove that the American public wants Living Orchestras and Organists in the Theatre, what would?

There is nothing EXclusive about this swiftly-growing society. It's INclusive—inclusive of the intelligent citizenry of the New World. And that covers a lot of people, cynics to the contrary notwithstanding. It should, by the way, include YOU.

To become a member in good standing of the Music Defense League one needs only the discriminating taste to know that the art of music is worthy of preservation, and the good sense to want one's money's worth. There are no dues, no obligations.

Throughout the world friends of music are alive to the cultural menace of Canned Music in the Theatres. Even the governments of England, France, Spain and Italy are considering measures to prevent this artistic debasement.

American music lovers have chosen the popular and democratic course — that of registering public demand through the Music Defense League.

What if theatrical interests are momentarily deaf to all considerations save profits gained through false economy? They will heed the voice of the public when that voice attains a sufficiently compelling volume. For the public must be served.

If you value the cultural influence of music . . . if you feel that the price you pay for theatrical entertainment entitles you to real music rendered by living musicians in the theatre, sign the coupon below and mail it.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF MUSICIANS

The North St. Louis Business Men's Association will celebrate Arbor day at 3:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Penrose Park, Kingshighway and Penrose street. Addresses will be made by Park Commissioner Pape, Superintendent of School Gerling, the Rev. Paul Press and R. H. Ballman, president of the association. Members of the association will plant 154 young trees in the park.

Meyric R. Rogers, director of City Art Museum, will discuss the place of the museum in the community Saturday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock at a meeting of the Town Club.

Peter Gibson will speak of "The Story and Tradition of Old St. Louis Families," tonight at 6:30 o'clock at a dinner meeting of the St. Louis Architectural Club, 514 Culver Way.

Dr. Roland Greene Usher of Washington University will talk on "The Irish Free State and After," at a meeting of the Washington University Association Tuesday night at Mary Institute.

Maj. Philip Martindale, chief ranger of the upper geyser basin of the Yellowstone region, will speak tomorrow night in Pilgrim Congregational Church, Union boulevard and Kensington avenue, under auspices of the Men's Brotherhood, and will show colored pictures of animal life. Maj. Martindale is known to many Yellowstone Park visitors as the "horseback lecturer."

Cinnamon Toast.

The children will enjoy this for a little luncheon dessert. Toast bread as usual and spread generously with butter. Then sprinkle on a mixture of granulated sugar and cinnamon. Cover and let stand in a warm place just long enough to allow the cinnamon and sugar to melt into the butter.

Scallops au Gratin.

Wash and drain 1 pint scallops, scald and drain again. Into a buttered baking dish place a layer of fresh breadcrumbs, then a layer of scallops. Sprinkle with chopped pimentoes, dot with butter and then sprinkle with grated cheese. Repeat this in order until dish is full, ending with the cheese. Pour in around the edge of the dish 1 cup of top milk or cream. Bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

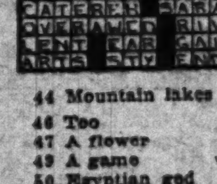
YESTERDAY'S ANSWER



'TONY CABOOCH' ILL, HIS NEW PROGRAM IS POSTPONED

Broadcasting of the new "Tony Cabooch and His Barber Shop" program over KMOX, which was scheduled for Tuesday night, has been postponed until next week, because of the sudden illness of "Tony" (Chester Gruber), with throat trouble.

"Tony" and the Vagabond Trio, who are to assist in this new feature, are slated to broadcast for three weeks over KMOX, then to go on the Columbia chain around the first of May under the sponsorship of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., which has contracted for 26 broadcasts over that network.

HIRED ASSISTANTS IN A HALLWAY ENCOUNTER GAVE A PERFORMANCE THAT IMPRESSED THEIR EMPLOYER AS WELL AS THE ASTOUNDED SPECTATOR, AND THE MAN NEXTDOOR IS BEGINNING TO FEEL THAT HE MAY HAVE BEEN MISTAKEN IN FEARING THE COLONEL.
FELIX DEAR, PRAY TELL ME WHY YOU WALK AROUND THIS HOUSE THUMPING YOUR CHEST AND TALKING ABOUT "UPPERCUTS" AND SUCH LOW THINGS?
SWEET, MY EYES HAVE BEEN OPENED. FOR A YEAR I'VE BEEN AFRAID TO EVEN SNEEZE FOR FEAR OF BUNGLE. WELL, AFTER THINKING THINGS OVER I'VE MADE UP MY MIND THAT MY FEAR WAS MERELY PSYCHOLOGICAL. I CAN TRIM HIM. AND I KNOW IT.
FELIX, SUCH LANGUAGE! HOW UTTERLY LOW. WHY DESCEND TO THAT MAN'S LEVEL AND—
SWEET, AS YOU KNOW, I'M VERY STRONG FOR HIGHBROW IDEAS BUT THIS AFFAIR IS DIFFERENT. USING CULTURE ON A MAN LIKE BUNGLE IS LIKE TYING BOUQUETS ON A MULE.
BUNGLE WAS A BIG SHOT HERE BUT HE'S ON HIS WAY OUT NOW. I WOULDN'T RUN ONE STEP—NO, NOT HALF A STEP FROM HIM. I'VE GOT HIS NUMBER AND—THERE HE IS NOW. BOWING TO ME. OH I CAN HARDLY WAIT UNTIL I HAVE AN EXCUSE TO DE-TOOTH THAT EX RED-HOT.

STOCK TRADE SETS RECORD FOR 1930 ON NEW ADVANCE

CALL MONEY RATE IS UNCHANGED

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 4. — The stock market was temporarily unsettled in the last hour of trading today by a sudden break in the amusement stocks, but fresh buying support was quickly supplied, and prices closed irregularly higher. Total sales ran close to 6,000,000 shares and set a new high record for the year.

The selling in the amusement issues started with Warner Bros. pictures, which sold down more than 4 points to 74¾, but the stock rallied a point from the low level. Radio-Keith-Orpheum, Paramount Famous Lasky and Loew's sold down 2 points or more below yesterday's final quotations but all made partial recovery.

Radio common was heavily bought all day. The stock touched a new 1930 high at 62¾ and closed at 61¼ for a net gain of 1¾ points.

Many New 1930 Highs.

A further recovery in wheat prices, a shading of the call money renewal rate in the outside market and the more optimistic tone of the weekly mercantile reviews all had a bullish effect on speculative sentiment. Pools, apparently plentifully supplied with funds, marked up more than 50 stocks to new high levels for the year, although final quotations in many cases, showed moderate recessions from the day's high levels.

Modification of the bearish advices sent out by some of the large commission houses yesterday, new merger projects rumors and the recent increase in steel mill and building activity apparently more than offset the large gain in brokers' loans, the falling off in freight-car traffic and some of the poor earnings reports made public in the last few days. Willys-Overland reported a loss of nearly $5,000,000 last year.

Call Money 4 Per Cent.

Call money was in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 4 per cent, and concessions in the outside market were reported later in the day. The time money market showed a firmer undertone, although business was quiet. A better demand was noted for bankers' acceptances. As generally expected, neither the New York nor Chicago Federal Reserve banks made any changes in their rediscount rates.

Ranges in First Few Hours.

American Telephone, which is expected to offer valuable stock subscription right next month, ran up more than 6 points to a new high record above 269. General Electric was marked up 4½ points to a new high at 91½. Radio was turned over in enormous volume, crossing 62 for the first time this year. The stock sold as low as 26 in the break last fall, and as high as 114¾ before the market crash.

Consolidated Gas ran up 4 points to a new high above 127. Allied Chemical, Otis Elevator, Pacific Gas, Auburn Auto, Pittsburgh & West Virginia and American Rolling Mills all sold 4 to 7 points higher.

U. S. Steel common, Colorado Fuel, Sloss Sheffield Steel, Westinghouse Electric, Underwood Elliott Fisher, Stone & Webster and Pacific Lighting were among the many issues to sell 3 or more points above yesterday's final quotations.

Among the 50 or more stocks to reach new high ground were Standard Oils of New Jersey and New York, Skelly Oil, Phillips Petroleum, Thompson Products, Park & Tilford, General Motors, Savage Arms, Columbia Graphophone and Fox Film.

International Combustion preferred, United Aircraft and R. H. Macy were conspicuous soft spots at one period or another.

Stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on Pages 23C, 24C and 25C.
